Flat of Charles Venezia Damaged by Explosive Placed in Door—Neighbors See Man and Auto.

SISTER ABDUCTED SEVERAL YEARS AGO

Three Sticks of Dynamite, With Burned-Out Fuse, Found in Store Doorway in 1922.

A bomb was exploded last night at a two-family flat at 5665 Maple avenue, endangering the occupants and causing damage of several hundred dollars. The explosion, at 11:50 o'clock, was heard over wide radius.

The flat, between Clara and oodfellow avenues, is owned by Charles Venezia, proprietor of a grocery at Belt and Easton avenue. He occupies the first floor, the upper flat is occupied by Alma Ray and her daughters, erine and Margaret. They not injured.

The bomb had been placed at Venezia's front door. The explosion wrecked the door and sill and shattered windows throughout the house. Windows also were broken houses at 5664, 5658, 5661 and 5662 Maple avenue.

Screens in Bars Ordered Down By Supreme Court

Law Requiring That Interior of Saloons Must Be Visible From Street, Upheld—St. Louis Decision Reversed.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 3.—The blinds, partitions and swinging screens that heretofore have shielded customers of saloons and their beverages from scrutiny from the sidewalk must come down, and hereafter the patrons must do their soft drinking within public view, under a decision today by Division No. 1 of the Supreme Court.

The court upheld the constitutionality of a State law passed in 1923, which forbade the use of such devices at the front of soft drink bars, and required the bars shall be so arranged as to permit a free, open view of the interior from the street.

This decision reverses a ruling of the St. Louis Circuit Court, which held the law was unconstitutional. The lower court had issued an injunction sought by 162 soft drink saloon proprietors in St. Louis, restraining the St. Louis Police Department from enforcing the law. The law is of general application in Missouri.

Proprietors of the bars contended the law was unconstitutional, was an effort to regulate trade, constituted class legislation, established an arbitrary classification that exempted others in similar business, and was oppressive and unreasonable. They contended they would suffer property loss if forced to discard screens.

Commissioner James D. Lindsay, who wrote the opinion, held the law was a proper exercise of the police power of the State, and was designed to correct an evil the Legislature apparently considered existed in such bars. He held the classification which made the law apply to soft drink bars was reasonable. Department stores, drug stores, restaurants and hotels are exempted from the law, where the soft drink bar is simply an adjunct to the regular business.

Lindsay held the requirement that the bar owners must remove all blinds, screens and other obstructions to open view of the interior of their establishments, as a condition of their right to operate them, was not an appropriation of their property for public use, but a regulation of the use of it by the owners.

"The mere fact that the law cannot be enforced without causing some expense to the citizen who comes within its terms, does not violate the Constitution or justify this Court in nullifying a legislative enactment," he said.

The wisdom of enacting such a law was a question entirely for the Legislature, he declared, and the courts could interfere only when it was apparent the Legislature had transgressed the limits fixed in the Constitution.

All of the Judges of Division No. 1 concurred in the opinion.

PROHIBITION IS MAKING MEN MORE HANDSOME, DORAN SAYS

mmissioner Declares More Money Is Being Spent for Shaves, Haircuts and Manicures.

the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Prohibition is making men more handsome, in the opinion of Dr. James Doran, National Prohibition Commissioner. Doran's argument follows this reasoning:

"Under prohibition the average man has more money to spend. And since he cannot spend it legally for liquor, he spends it for shaves, facials, haircuts and manicures."

Men who buy hair tonic nowadays, he added, use it for hair tonic, Doran said yesterday at the meeting of the National Beauty and Barber Supply Dealers' Association.

STEAMER PICKS UP 27 MEN IN BOATS FROM SINKING SHIP

American of Hawaiian Line Reaches Trawler in Distress 70 Miles East of New York.

ANOTHER VESSEL SENDS S O S CALL

Passenger Liner Hastens to Aid of Dutch Freighter, Disabled in Northeast Gale in Mid-Ocean.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Twenty-seven men comprising the crew of the trawler Fillet were rescued from their boats 70 miles off Montauk Point, Long Island, today by the steamer American after the Fillet had become disabled.

Radio messages from the American said the trawler was apparently on fire, and that although the craft was still afloat shortly before 3 p. m., it was filling rapidly.

The American had transferred the crew to a Coast Guard patrol boat which was taking them to this city. The American was proceeding to Philadelphia.

Because of the similarity of names, it was at first thought that the steamer going to the aid of the Fillet was the United States liner America, which earlier today radioed the Associated Press that it was speeding to the assistance of the Dutch steamer Celaeno, in distress in a northwest gale.

Liner Speeds to Rescue 40 Men on Crippled Freighter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Dutch freighter Celaeno was in distress in a northeast gale today and two ocean liners turned from their ocean paths to help the craft.

Early today Capt. Fried of the United States liner America reported to the Associated Press by wireless that he was rushing to the assistance of the freighter. A message from him to his line's offices this afternoon, however, said he had discovered that the Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin was 150 miles nearer the Celaeno and speeding to its rescue. Deeming his assistance no longer necessary, Capt. Fried said he had resumed his course and was proceeding to Plymouth.

The Albert Ballin sailed from Southampton for New York Sept. 29 with 1129 passengers in command of Capt. Paul Weihr. The Celaneno has a crew of about 40 and no accomodation for passengers.

The S. S. Celaeno is a vessel of 3544 tons. It was built in 1916 and is owned by the firm of Maats-Zeevaart of Rotterdam.

The position of the America is approximately 1000 miles east of Newfoundland. The Celaeno sailed from Boston for Rotterdam, Sept. 25.

$3,000,000 TEAPOT DOME SUIT BY U. S. AGAINST SINCLAIR CO.

Value of Oil Taken From Wyoming Property by Purchaser to Be Sought by Government.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Through its special counsel, the Government plans to file suit against the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co. for $3,000,000 in the Federal courts in Wyoming as payment for oil extracted from the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve by the Mammoth Oil Co., prior to receivership.

This action is to be taken in view of the failure of the Mammoth Oil Co. at Casper, Wyo., to satisfy the judgment of approximately $2,295,000 awarded the Government in Federal Court in December, 1927. The Sinclair company was scheduled to be named defendant because it purchased the oil from the Mammoth Oil Co.

NEW METAL ROCKET CAR RUNS 150 MILES AN HOUR ON RAILS

Spokes of Wheels Snap During Test But German Machine Continues on Hubs.

By the Associated Press.

HALBERSTADT, Germany, Oct. 3.—Max Valier, German inventor, who has been experimenting with a rocket car of his invention, tested out a new metal car on a rail track today and attained a speed of 150 miles an hour with 36 rockets.

The spokes of all four wheels snapped during the test but the machine remained on the track and finished the course on its hubs. Recently Valier tried out a wooden rocket car and reached a speed of 130 miles an hour only to have the car plunge off the tracks rounding a curve. It was smashed. Valier said the wooden car was too light and for that reason a metal one was built.

GENE TUNNEY AND MISS LAUDER MARRIED IN ROME

Retired Boxing Champion and Connecticut Girl Wed in Royal Suite at Double Ceremony.

25 GUESTS ATTEND BRIDAL LUNCHEON

Simplicity Marks Wedding—Pair Departs in Auto for Unannounced Destination on Honeymoon.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 3.—Surrounded by a group of friends, Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, and Miss Mary Josephine Lauder of Greenwich, Conn., were married today in the royal apartment, generally reserved for visiting sovereigns, at Hotel Russie.

Two salons of the apartment were used, one for the civil ceremony, which was performed by Signor Brofferio, and the other for the religious ceremony, performed by Mgr. Joseph A. Breslin of the American College in Rome and one-time parish priest of the Tunney family in New York.

After the ceremony a luncheon, at which were 25 guests, was served.

The wedding luncheon was a long drawn-out affair. It was late in the afternoon before coffee and liqueurs were served and some time later before the last of the guests had departed.

Consequently it was 6 o'clock in the evening when Mr. and Mrs. Tunney started their honeymoon. They departed in an automobile for an unannounced destination. Reports had it that they were going to Perugia or Florence.

Miss Lauder, wealthy and socially prominent, was dressed in mauve velvet trimmed with lace. She wore a silver net over her hair, which gave her the appearance of a medieval chatelaine. Tunney wore a blue sack suit which brought out his superb physique strikingly, a black and white tie, white spats and black shoes.

Ideal Weather.

The famous Italian blue sky was at its best for "Polly" Lauder's bridal day and just when Tunney was putting the ring upon her finger a ray of sunlight shot through the window of the room making it glitter for all the witnesses to see. As the religious ceremony ended Tunney kissed his bride and then Mrs. Lauder, his mother-in-law.

The walls of the room were hung with old damask against which masses of white roses stood out strikingly. In the room where the religious ceremony was held there was a large picture of the Madonna and child surrounded by white roses.

At the civil ceremony Tunney's witnesses were Attorney Del Frate, a lawyer for the American Embassy who had assisted in making the necessary arrangements for the formalities and Leon Dominian, American Consul, while those for Miss Lauder were vice-Consul Wesley Jones and Mrs. Thomas L. Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the American Embassy.

At the religious ceremony Tunney's witness was a friend, Dr C. Weeks of New York, while Miss Lauder's was her sister, Mrs. Edwin Bewing.

Wedding March Played.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played at the beginning of the religious ceremony. The bride and bridegroom exchanged flowers, Tunney giving Miss Lauder a bouquet of orange blossoms and receiving from her mauve roses of the same color as the bride's dress.

At the luncheon Brofferio, raising a champagne glass, toasted the pair and Tunney answered in Italian, "grazie tante," (many thanks).

The marriage was the chief topic of conversation in Rome during the day and newspapers throughout Italy besieged the official agency to rush all possible details. American correspondents and cameramen fared badly at the hotel. Police regulations prohibited photographers from even approaching it. One American newspaperman disguised himself as a waiter at the wedding breakfast, but was soon discovered.

Others present at the ceremony included John McCormack, noted tenor, his wife and daughter.

In performing the civil ceremony, Brofferio read the articles of the Italian civil code establishing the rights and duties of married people.

Husband's Rights.

Marriage imposes, he said, reading from the code, that the pair must live together, be faithful to each other and assist each other. "The husband is head of the fam-

TOOMBS' PARTNER ADMITS ISSUING FALSE FIGURES

O. R. Daily Confesses Responsibility for Exaggerating Chicago Brokerage Firm's Assets.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—O. R. Daily, vice president and treasurer of Toombs & Daily, Chicago stock brokerage firm which failed recently, today made a brief admission that he had mishandled financial statements of the firm and issued statements exaggerating the assets of the firm by millions of dollars.

His admission was made on the witness stand before a Federal referee in bankruptcy who has been investigating the affairs of the defunct firm headed by Roy Toombs, who was also president of the International Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis before its recent failure.

Immediately after making the admission, Daily, who is 65 years old, invoked his constitutional rights and declined to answer any questions. He was then excused by the referee, Garfield Charles, who remarked there was already "sufficient evidence to deal with him in an appropriate way."

Admits False Statements.

Daily's statement was made just after he had turned over $600 of the company's assets to Louis Cohen, counsel for the Federal receiver. He turned to the Referee, asking if he might say a few words.

"I want to say that figures furnished by me to George E. Kidd, the accountant, were false, but that none of the officers or directors knew the statements were very untrue," he said. "I told them the figures were correct. I am unable to say at this time any more about the assets of the company. Its affairs were conducted in a very unbusiness-like manner."

Six indictments were returned in St. Louis, it became known yesterday, against Toombs and his close adviser, Dr. E. F. Morgenstiern, handwriting expert and writer on criminology, who was personnel director of the company. The charges were not made public, but it is understood that they cover not only the use of the International Life company's funds, but the unauthorized overissuance of stock of the company upon which Toombs borrowed money. Toombs, as has been told, has not accounted for $3,500,000 of assets which he withdrew from the International Life.

EDITOR W. R. HOLLISTER KILLS SELF WITH GAS

Found Dead in Bathroom of Home in Jefferson City; Long Active in Politics.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 3.—William R. (Rufe) Hollister, editor and part owner of the Jefferson City Capital News, Democratic morning publication, and widely known in Democratic State and national politics, was found dead today in the bathroom of his apartment with a rubber tube from an open gas jet in his mouth and wired to his head, indicating suicide. He is presumed to have died during the night.

Hollister was a bachelor, 50 years old, and lived alone. His body was found by his cook who went to prepare his breakfast.

For the last 10 years Hollister has edited the Capital News. His editorial page has been considered one of the most attractive and interesting of the Missouri rural dailies. He was secretary to the late United States Senator William J. Stone when Stone was chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and also served eight years as executive secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

This summer he spent a long vacation in Canada and only recently returned to Jefferson City.

$15,000 SWINDLE REPORTED BY CHESTER, ILL., HOTEL MAN

Old Pocketbook Game Used in Peoria to Defraud Henry E. Miller.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 3.—The old pocketbook game had not been included in the education of Henry E. Miller, hotel owner of Chester, Ill., and he turned over $15,000 to two confidence men here Friday, he reported to the police today.

While dining with two strangers who represented themselves as prospective buyers of his hotel, Miller found a pocketbook under the table. It contained $40 in cash and a $20,000 bond for a seat in the stock exchange. They took it to the owner, a "big broker," and as a reward he wrote out some market "tips" and the confederates twice took profits to Miller, who then went to Chester and withdrew $15,000 from his bank for the "bid deal." He turned this over to the "broker," who disappeared.

YOUTH CAUGHT WITH $23,000 AFTER MAIL CAR HOLDUP

REBOARDS TRAIN HE HAD ROBBED

Rides Rods of Last Coach While Officers Are Making Search—Loot May Total $75,000.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 3.—William Gibbs, 20 years old, of Los Angeles, who late yesterday robbed a Canadian National Railway mail car of an amount variously estimated at between $23,000 and $75,000, was held in Windsor, Ont., today.

Gibbs boarded the train at Chatham, Ont., and gaining access to the mail car, held three messengers at bay with a pistol while he looted the registered bags. Then as the engine slowed down for a stop at Prairie Siding, Gibbs dropped from the mail car, but hopped aboard the rods of the rear coach of the train.

While alarms were raised and a description of the robber was sent all along the border, Gibbs was riding into Windsor on the same train he had robbed.

Carried $23,000 in Currency.

The train was stopped outside Windsor while officers questioned the crew, but Gibbs, sitting on the rods beneath the rear car, was not discovered.

After the investigation the train proceeded and Gibbs' car was ferried across the Detroit River. Here the young robber came to grief, for immigration officers were on the lookout for smuggled aliens when the ferry docked and Gibbs was discovered when he came from his hiding place.

The shabbily-clad youngster was searched and $6500 in bank notes was found stuffed in his shirt, while he carried two sealed currency packages containing $10,000 and $6500 respectively. The Custom men turned Gibbs over to local police, who already had received a wire from provincial authorities to be on the lookout for him.

Loot May Total $100,000.

Gibbs readily admitted the robbery and described the crime to police. He waived extradition and was returned to Windsor less than three hours from the time the train was held up.

Uncertainty prevailed regarding the amount of loot obtained and it was expected to be some time before a definite check is completed.

Canadian Railway officers, however, were of the opinion that the money found on Gibbs was all that had been taken.

Gibbs, who described himself as a "hobo," said he came to Windsor three weeks ago. He bewailed the "one little break" that resulted in his arrest.

"Why, the fellow that arrested me didn't even know that a train had been stuck up," he said.

Escorted by a heavy guard, Gibbs was formally charged in County Police Court at Chatham, Ontario, today with the robbery. He was remanded in custody for eight days.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE DENIES CALLING HOOVER 'FAT CAPON'

Kansas Editor Offers Democrats $1000 if Robinson Proves He Ever Did.

By the Associated Press.

EMPORIA, Kan., Oct. 3.—William Allen White, Emporia editor, in a statement last night offered to contribute $1000 to the Democratic campaign fund if Senator Robinson, Democratic vice presidential nominee, can give the date and place where the Kansas editor described Herbert Hoover as a "fat pudgy capon, sitting on eggs."

Senator Robinson attributed the phrase to White in an address Monday in Wichita and added that White had referred to Senator Curtis as a "nitwit."

"Senator Robinson," White said, "gives me more trouble than all my money. He keeps quoting things that I didn't say.

"If Senator Robinson is so keen about quoting my immortal prose, here is a line for him—in the present sloppy Democratic shambles, dry Joe Robinson wears the harassed look of an Anti-Saloon League preacher sitting timorously on the edge of his chair at a bartenders' convention. HEARING BEGUN IN CARMEN'S PLEA FOR HIGHER PAY

Service Board Opens Arbitration Under Agreement That Averted Strike Last June.

CHANGES IN HOURS ARE SOUGHT ALSO

Street Car Company Declares to Grant Demand Would Compel Increase in Fare.

Arbitration of the demand of 4800 union car and shopmen of the St. Louis Public Service Co. for an increase in wages was begun today before the Public Service Commission at City Hall. As is recalled, agreement for arbitration averted a strike last June, the company having replied to the men's demands with a threat to reduce wages approximately 8½ per cent.

The present wage of carmen is 50 cents an hour for the first year, 55 cents for the second year, 63 for the third year and 67 cents thereafter.

The men are demanding 55 cents during the first three months, 62 cents during the second three months, 68 cents the third three months and 72 cents after a year and a half.

They ask also that working conditions be changed. They desire that 65 per cent of the runs be "straight" runs, that is, that eight hours' work shall be completed within nine hours; that 20 per cent of the runs shall be completed in 12 hours, and that the remaining 15 per cent in 13½ hours.

Present operation is that 35 per cent of the runs are "straight," 45 per cent are completed within 12 hours and 20 per cent in 15 hours.

Oppose $10 Minimum.

The men ask further that they receive time and one-half for overtime instead of time and one-fourth, that the $100 minimum wage be abolished and that there be substituted a rule that every man reporting for duty be allowed pay for two hours each time he reports, whether he takes out a car or not.

The men estimate that the granting of their demand would increase their pay about $11.50 a month from an average of about $160 and would increase the payroll of the company $1,850,000 a year.

Higher Fare Suggested.

The company declares that, if wages of union employes are increased, wages of non-union employes must, in fairness, be increased also and estimates that this would require $4,000,000 a year. It thinks that the men's demands will require an increase of 1 cent in carfare, now 8 cents. Wages are an operating expense and operating expenses are borne by the car rider, who is obligated to pay a rate of fare that will pay all operating expenses and, in addition, yield the company a fair return upon the value of its property.

Outlines Case for Workers.

William R. Schneider, attorney for the street car men's union, in an opening statement, outlined how the men would justify their demands. In brief, his analysis of their employment was as follows:

Automobiles upon the streets of St. Louis have increased from 92,000 in 1923 (the year of the last wage adjustment) to 140,000, while the speed at which the men have been required to operate street cars has been increased 7.6 per cent. Their work hence is more intensified. Simultaneously street car accidents have been reduced from 25,000 in 1923 to 14,000. The men have become more efficient because they have stuck to their jobs. The average of service for all trainmen is 10.9 years.

The trend of wages in the United States justifies the increase. Union wages have increased about 23 per cent in five years. Wages in 56 trades in St. Louis are 18.5 per cent higher than in 1923. Wages of trainmen in St. Louis is 67 cents compared with 74 cents in six other comparable cities. Trainmen in 11 other cities have higher wages than in St. Louis.

A budget compiled by the United States Bureau of Labor as essential to maintaining "the American standard of living" ranges from $1897 to $2287 annually, depending upon the size of the family. The average annual earnings of street car men in St. Louis is $1554.

Company to Submit Schedule.

The company, in its opening statement, indicated that it would submit a schedule of wages, reducing the present earnings of the men. The schedule was not disclosed, but it is known to differ from that presented to the men last June.

Company's Attitude.

In effect, the company said:

The company cannot afford to grant any wage increase. The 8-cent fare is yielding about $1,200,000 short of the $4,500,000 estimated by the Public Service Commission as to the amount to which the owners of the company are entitled. Wages of the street car men are 158 per cent higher than in 1914, yet the cost of living is only 70 per cent higher. The men, hence, are getting wages that have a purchasing power 50 per cent greater than in 1914.

The present wages were granted in 1923, the most prosperous year in the company's history. Since then revenues have declined through loss of passengers, yet the men have not been called on to bear their portion of the loss. The loss has been shouldered entirely upon the owners and the public, the latter paying in higher fares. The company's proposed scale will permit the men to meet the "American standard of living." Comparisons with other trades upon an hourly basis is not fair. Rather, the total annual income should be used and the income of the street car men is above that of other comparable trades. The men are not entitled to comparison with skilled labor. They are not skilled labor. A man can be taught to run a street car in 10 days. (Here smiles went over the faces of about 50 trainmen assembled for the hearing.)

Wages are 69 per cent of operating expenses. Other operating expenses have been reduced to a minimum. If the fare is to be kept low enough to attract riders, operating expenses must be still further reduced and that means that wages must be cut.

FIGHTING SMITH A CHRISTIAN DUTY, DECLARES MRS. BURGER

"For 25 Years He Has Worked for Saloons," Missouri W. C. T. U. Head Says.

By the Associated Press.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Nelle G. Burger of Springfield, Mo., president of the Missouri Woman's Christian Temperance Union, today told members in attendance at the forty-sixth annual convention of the organization that their "Christian American duty is to defeat Smith and uphold the Constitution."

After reading certain portions of the speeches of acceptance of the two candidates, Mrs. Burger said:

"The saloon record of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York is a fitting prelude to his promise that if he reaches the White House he will lead the way back to legalized liquor. For 25 years he has voted and worked with the Tammany machine for more saloons, for longer hours for the sale of booze and against prohibition."

"Defeat Smith—Uphold the Constitution," was the slogan adopted by the Executive Committee at a meeting yesterday.

MINER HURT, DIRECTS RESCUE

Mike Theiss, 45-year-old miner, 212 North Illinois street, Belleville, is in St. Elizabeth's Hospital with internal injuries and bruises following a fall of slate in the Radium mine, Belleville. It was necessary to jack up the slab to release him.

Despite his injuries, Theiss directed the other miners in their rescue work.

TUNNEY MARRIES MISS LAUDER AT DOUBLE CEREMONY

The wife, Brofferio said, follows the "civil condition of the husband," takes his name and is obliged to accompany him wherever he chooses to fix his residence.

"The husband has the duty of protecting his wife," Brofferio read solemnly, looking at the husky bridegroom without a smile. "He has the duty to keep her with him and administer to her everything necessary to the needs of life in proportion to his means."

Then Brofferio turned to the bride and said: "The wife must contribute to the maintenance of the husband ,if the latter does not have the means."

Then Brofferio continued reading the code:

"The obligation of the husband to administer nutriment to the wife ceases when the wife absenting herself without just cause from the conjugal domicile refuses to return to it."

Other Restrictions for Wife.

The other clauses of the code provide that the wife cannot put her husband's goods in pawn, contract debts or institute suits in court without her husband's authorization.

Tunney, Brofferio continued, can authorize his wife "by public act" to do any of the foregoing things and has the right to revoke that. His authorization is not necessary, however, if he is a minor, if he is forbidden to remain in Italy, if he is absent from Italy or if he is condemned to more than one year of prison or when the wife is legally separated from her husband.

After reading this document Brofferio put the solemn question:

"Giacomo Giuseppe Tunney intendete voi di prendere per vostra legittima sposa la Signorina Maria Lauder (James Joseph Tunney, do you intend to take as your legitimate wife Miss Mary Lauder?)"

Tunney Answers Loudly.

Tunney answered with a resounding "Si" (Yes).

Then the question was put to Miss Lauder:

"E voi Maria Lauder intendete di prendere per vostro legittimo sposo il Signore Giacomo Giuseppe Tunney?"

With a smile, Miss Lauder responded "Si."

The same vows were exchanged as well as rings during the religious ceremony, which was conducted in English and Latin.

Mgr. Breslin made a brief speech wishing the pair happiness.

Special Dispensation.

It was by special dispensation that the religious ceremony was performed in the hotel and not in the sacristy of a church or in an ecclesiastic building such as a rectory. The present Pontiff early in his reign put an end to religious ceremonies in hotels and private residences, but stipulated at the same time that exceptions might be made as long as the privilege was not abused.

During the religious ceremony Tunney and his bride knelt on a pried-dieu adorned with red cushions.

Mrs. Lauder could scarcely conceal her emotion at the end of Mgr. Breslin's benediction bestowed upon the pair.

Souvenir menus with decorations of flowers and birds and the initials of the newlyweds were much sought after, and a large crowd waited for a long time outside, hoping to see the bridal party.

INDICTMENTS IN COUNTY PRIMARY FRAUDS EXPECTED

Grand Jury Recounting Vote in Certain Precincts on Reports Some Candidates Won Illegally.

Reports of primary election frauds perpetrated last August on behalf of certain candidates in St. Louis County are engaging the attention of the county grand jury, which has begun a recount of the votes cast in certain precincts, the result of which, the Post-Dispatch learned today, will be the indictment of election judges and clerks of precincts in which irregularities or false reports are found.

The ballot boxes of four precincts were called for by the grand jury under an order issued by Circuit Judge Mulloy. Two of these precincts were in Luxemburg, one in University City and one in Kinloch. When the recount of votes in those precincts has been finished, boxes of other precincts will be examined.

Votes cast in some precincts do not tally with the sworn returns made by judges and clerks in those places.

In certain precincts the discrepancies have been such as to indicate that, in some races men defeated would have been nominated had they received a fair count or true return of the votes cast for them. In almost every instance the same candidates, known to have had underworld support in the primary, were favored in returns said to have been falsified in that they did not reflect the actual vote cast. In other instances, it was learned, more votes were counted for those candidates, who apparently composed a slate, than the total actually cast.

The preliminary investigation indicates such flagrant violation of the law governing the making of sworn election returns, that Judge Mulloy has requested Gov. Baker again to lend an Assistant Attorney-General to advise the grand jury. Should this request be granted, Lieutellus Cunningham, who aided the last grand jury, will probably be sent here.

Certificates have been issued already to those nominated on the face of the returns and a recount by the grand jury would not change that result, as there is no provision in Missouri law for a primary contest. But there is a law against the making of false returns, and it has been learned that unless all signs fail, this grand jury will show that certain candidates actually nominated were fradulently counted out.

G. O. P. SOUTHERN DIRECTOR SUED FOR $50,000 FOR LIBEL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A $50,000 libel suit has grown out of the letter written to the New York World by Horace A. Mann, Republican National Committee Southern director, and a statement later issued by him in which he denied that "a female detective" who visited his office procured there any literature of a religious nature directed against Gov. Smith.

The suit was filed yesterday in the District of Columbia Supreme Court by Elizabeth Heiser, a writer, who says she was the woman referred to in Mann's letter and statement, and who avers that Mann's intent was to hold her up "as an object of public hatred, ridicule, and contempt."

Mann's letter, written on Sept. 13, denied that he, or any one in his office, had disseminated propaganda against Gov. Smith because of his religion, or had been in any way connected with any such dissemination. His statement, issued on Sept. 21, was practically a reiteration of his letter. In both he made the charge that someone had sent a woman to his office who endeavored to find evidence that the Republican organization was engaged or implicated in the issuance of anti-religious literature against Gov. Smith. He said emphatically that the woman failed of her purpose.

HOOVER STRESSES NEED OF RENEWING PARTY'S IDEALS

Nominee Addresses Members of New York Young Republican Club Who Visit Him.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The aim of the Republican party was described today by Herbert Hoover as one which must meet the great national problems with a policy which comes of open mindedness and human sympathy.

In an address to young men and women voters of New York City who called on him at his headquarters he said that "the party, to maintain itself in vigor, must be constantly replenished, not alone in members, but in spirit and ideals."

"It cannot rely for its maintenance upon historic achievements nor upon the long line of distinguished leaders who have left their traditions upon it," he continued. "It is the traditions of their service, their ideas and policies which must link to the necessities of the present."

Greeted by Club Members.

Hoover's address was in response to one by John McKee Stratton, chairman of the Campaign Committee of the New York Young Republican Club, who flew here from New York to present 50 men and women who had preceded him by train.

"We are going to help you carry New York State, and we salute you as the next President of the United States," Stratton said.

In response to the greeting, Hoover said:

"I am grateful for your coming I appreciate also your warm words of encouragement. It is most heartening to have busy men and women like yourselves travel so long a distance to tell me that you are with me in this campaign It is a heavy responsibility to head a great party in such a battle. and I feel the need of all the help that you so generously offer.

Value of Airplane.

"You speak of the way in which the airplane has facilitated your coming here. It marks another advance in invention which will have a profound effect upon our national life. It brings out the courage of men, stimulates the spirit of adventure and annihilates time and distance in bringing our people closer together. It brings a lot of new problems in government, and the necessity for assistance from the Government that it may be developed and promoted to its real great use. And that great use is not so much in war as it is in peace. By the building up of our commercial service we are contributing to the defense of our country because we provide a great manufacturing capacity, a great reserve of trained men, which adds to the assurance of complete independence of our nation for all time.

"Now it is especially gratifying to me that our party is making such an appeal to the young men and young women of the country. This is evidenced by your coming here today and by what you tell me of the very practical work you are doing in New York City.

"I am greatly impressed at what you say of the realistic and practical manner in which you are conducting your part in the campaign. It is a real national service, a genuine public service to arouse our people to their obligation and to take part in the national election; for them to consider the vital issues for which we stand and especially to safeguard the honesty of the ballot. It is an inspiration to me that young men and young women such as you describe are working in my behalf. I have always worked with young men and cannot forget that in the great problems of emergency that I have had to deal with both here and abroad I have seen young Americans associated with me stand the test.

"We have many national problems that press upon us. The aim of the party must be to meet these problems with a policy which comes of open mindedness and human sympathy, a policy that can be stated so that intelligent people can understand.

Need of Renewing Ideals.

"A party to maintain itself in vigor must be constantly replenished, not alone in numbers but in spirit and in ideals. It cannot rely for its maintenance upon historic achievements, nor upon the long line of distinguished leaders who have left their traditions upon us. It is these traditions of their service, their ideals and policies which must link to the necessities of the present.

"To carry on great political parties it is essential that the ranks be filled with youth bringing new vigor and fresh and eager idealism to our cause and into our lives.

"I would ask that you give my greeting to the Young Men's Republican Club and to say for me that I look to them as a rallying point for all young Republicans in the city of New York."

VALIDITY OF AIRPORT BONDS NOW BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Counselors of St. Louis and Kansas City Argue Issues Are Authorized by Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 3. —The question of validity of the $2,000,000 bond issue voted by the City of St. Louis Aug. 7 for establishment of a municipal airport, and a similar bond issue of $1,000,000 voted by Kansas City the same day, was argued today before the Missouri Supreme Court en banc, in a special sitting of the court.

The consolidated case involves two friendly test suits brought in St. Louis and Kansas City to determine validity of the bond issues. The principal question involved is whether a bond issue for construction of a municipal aviation field comes within the powers of the two cities to incur bonded indebtedness for municipal purposes.

The St. Louis test case was filed in the name of Thomas N. Dysart, a bond broker. Judge Falkenhainer of St. Louis Court held the bonds were legal, when the suit was heard in the lower court. An early decision was urged because options held by the city on additional ground near the present Lambert-St. Louis Air Field in St. Louis County ,expire in November.

City Counselor Muench, appearing for the city, contended the issuance of such bonds clearly was within the powers of the city, and that establishment of an airport for public use came within the meaning of the constitution and city charter on incurring an indebtedness for public purposes.

Similar arguments in behalf of the Kansas City bonds were presented by City Counselor John T. Barker and Associate City Counselor William F. Allen of Kansas City.

LINDBERGH FOR HOOVER TUNNEY FOR SMITH

Flyer Sends Wire to G. O. P. Nominee; Retired Champion Anxious to Help Democrat.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Charles A. Lindbergh today telegraphed Herbert Hoover that he had a strong feeling that the election of the Republican presidential candidate "is of supreme importance to the country."

The Lindbergh message was sent from New York, and made public at Republican headquarters. "I have recently flown to St. Louis to register. The more I see of the campaign the more strongly I feel that your election is of supreme importance to the country. Your qualities as a man and what you stand for regardless of party make me feel that the problems which will come before our country in the next four years will be solved under your leadership."

Tunney Willing to Lend Name to Aid Smith's Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, has cabled from Italy to John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, that he is "anxious to help in every way possible to make" Gov. Smith the next President.

He recalled in his cablegram that before sailing for Europe he publicly committed himself for the Governor and said that, while it will be impossible for him to return in time to work for Smith, "if my name attached to any general committee will aid the cause you have my consent to use it."

TELLS OF OTHER MAN IN COURT

Gustave Nyberg Says Wife's Friend Threatened Him With Revolver.

Testifying under the head of "indignities" in his divorce suit, Gustave Nyberg said in Domestic Relations Court today that he found a man with his wife in their home at 1501 North Broadway. The man drew a revolver, Nyberg said, ordered him out, and Mrs. Nyberg threw an arm about the stranger to indicate her preference. Mrs. Nyberg offered no contest, and Nyberg obtained his decree. He said he was a musician.

Mrs. Dora Beese of 2108 Mallinckrodt street obtained a divorce from August C. Beese of 710 North Eleventh street, a barber. Charging failure to provide, she related that Beese once in winter weather told her to stay in bed all morning to save coal. They were married in 1905.

THOUSANDS CHEER VEILED PROPHET IN ANNUAL PARADE

20 VARI-COLORED FLOATS DISPLAYED

Spectacle Three Hours in Passing Over 6-Mile Route Lined With Youngsters and Grownups.

BY THOMAS DAWSON.

THE Veiled Prophet put on his high headgear of erudition last night and told us a few things about the Ancient World. It was the old gentleman's forty-ninth visit to his favorite village—but for his absence in two war years it would have been the fifty-first—and he took advantage of it to chide us, by indirection, for our levity.

Last year the venerable sage looked into our daily lives and commented jocularly, in his magnificent puppet show, on such things as golf and radio and bridge. But this year, on the fiftieth anniversary of his first coming, he gave loud speakers and even the movies the go-by and has mistakeably been spending his enings with capricious Clio, the dy who inspired all the histories er written.

As if rebuking his satirical mood last year, the snowy-bearded ophet proceeded to unfold page ter page of the long-buried past. took for his title "Through the nturies." His floats — great, ining cameos, vari-colored elecc jewels—bore each an ancient ilization on its back. And yet modern touch was not utterly king.

Black Bottom in Babylonia.

There was, for instance, aboard Babylonian float, an Oriental cer who did what sometimes proximated and sometimes tranded the Black Bottom. And re was the float representing Odyssey, in which a huge giant made to appear as if he had through an earthquake. This, plain, symbolized the winning the pennant by the Cardinals, earthquake having been the paign in which John McGraw's l-tossers went down to defeat. Prophet, despite his years, rens a sportsman, and, though essed with bygone eras, could forebear one reference at least those Red Birds.

The parade was a carnival chain glowing, flashing barges. It led sparkling out of a brick in south Ranken street, with new paint and gold leaf, and rainbow rays to light up drab ets.

Thousands View Parade.

moved for more than three through the city, drawing eyes of at least 300,000 women and children. Thoupacked porches, win- rooftops, stood shoulder to lder in the streets over the ile route. It rolled past signs on which roosted gum and grinning gamins, er trees where youngsters monkey like, through cond canyons between downtown buildings.

Laclede avenue, as the parade to get under way, was still thoroughfare of swirling hu-. Mounted police had to clear way with prancing horses and sabers. "Back there now." "Get back."—Iron shoes clatter the cobblestones. Sparks fly. giggle as the crowd swings to the curb.

nior, you get out of the way t horse. Junior, do you hear Come back here, Junior." A er seizes her offspring and him back to her side. Other ers are busy controlling two, four eager children. Someys, "They're coming."—"Aw, ust the cops."—"No I see the O LOOKEE! The lights there. That's the old Profloat."

the cordon of police go by, rowd surges to the center of street. The press car passes its occupants masked. "Must Charlie Birger."—"It's the gang." A small boy pipes a shrill voice—"Come on, we you, take off that mask." children, perched on the of fathers or mothers, point toward the lights advancing Prophet's float. you I see him first."—"I you don't."—"I betcha.." -oo-oo-ahah . ."

Cheers for Veiled Prophet.

chief almoner, a large stern in Oriental dress seated behim, the Veiled Prophet, in cloth of gold, innumerable sits high on his throne a regal hand. The float ficently lighted. It sends like a small sun. "Yay, d Prophet!" "Hey, lift up hiskers and let's see what like." A thousand wisego up like smoke. Faces eyes are fixed on the veiled "I bet he's a young guy, whiskers are faked." "Sure, "Say, Prophet, where's of the parade reaches avenue and Laclede and is called. Patrolmen stand at intervals of 30 or 40 feet to keep back the crowds. The upper and lower porches of every flat are loaded with human beings. Family groups cluster at the windows. A man with a big lawn has rented a hundred or more chairs and fills them all with ease at 50 cents per. Bing! Bang! The signal rockets go off. That means the last float is out of the den. A policeman's horse gets skittish and clatters all over the street. The marshal of the parade rides up and waves his hand. A band far down Laclede avenue strikes up the "Stars and Stripes" march. The parade is really on. The eyes of small children grow large. Boys of 12 begin to chatter.

Grand Old Man Chuckles.

Before the parade reaches Vandeventer avenue, a tremor passes over the Prophet's float. The old gentleman, high on ihs throne, passes a hand over his eyes as if to make sure of his sight. He exchanges a glance with the First High Priest. What he has seen is a fact and not a chimoera. A Laclede avenue householder, who will perhaps hold the neighborhood record for indifference for years to come, is actually putting in his coal! The householder, surrounded by thousands too busy to see him, does not bestow a glance on the Veiled Propet. He goes on shoveling. The sage's hoary beard is seen to move. It is patent that the grand old man is chuckling.

Spectators stand 20, 30 deep, packed so tight they can't move, at Vandeventer and Laclede, where the parade turns north. They also lean out of windows, stand on cornices, mass behind first floor plateglass. The Vandeventer crowds are denser than those on Laclede avenue. The wise-cracking increases in volume when the van of the parade turns west into Olive. It reaches its height at Grand and Olive. "Hey, Prophet, who told you to wear that veil?" "The wind blew through his whiskers." "Say, you gotta barber's strike?" The old gentleman and his retainers, particularly the Babylonians, the Assyrians, the Israelites and Persians, it must be admitted, came in for their share of razzing. The sage chuckles in his beard. He no's and waves his hand.

Air Filled With Bits of Paper.

The scaffolding of the new Fox Theater, on Grand and Washington, is heavy with people. On the top floor of the University Club Building, the club waiters, in white coats, look down on the parade. Millions of bits of paper are flung from the roof of the Missouri Theater. It drifts downward in the semidarkness, catching glints from vari-colored lights.

Lucas avenue is noticeably darker than Grand. The glittering carnival centipede crawls more or less by its own electric effulgence. Up through the Lucas avenue trees strike rays of gold, maroon, emerald, azure light. The trees become part of the fete. Through the leaves, from time to time, flashes an urchin's face.

Lucas avenue takes the parade rather soberly. Its curbs and house fronts are solid with human beings but the chatter is subdued, the catcalls rare.

When the caravan swings at Lefingwell and turns west in Washington, the tenor of the crowd changes. There is a rush from the curb to the side of the Prophet's float. "Come on, tell us who you are"—"Say, are you as old as you look?"—"Lift up, Edward, there. Edward, can you see now? Lift him higher, Sam. There, Edward." —"Hey, cut out that pushing"— "Quit pushing yourself."—"Wait, Grandma, now wait, you can squeeze in here, that's the place, Grandma; hey, quit shoving. . . ."

Crowd Razzes the Bards.

The Washington avenue crowd insists on being intimate with the parade. Police mounted and afoot wave them back to the curb and they again rush to the center of the street. They reach up to touch the fingertips of the maskers. They razz the bards of old time, the Caliph Haroun-Al Raschid, jest with Father Abraham about his beard, twit the Greek athletes on the Olympic games. It is no easy thing to keep your place in the front row of Washington avenue spectators. The line swings back and forth. Acrobatic fathers with children wrapped around their hats teeter to keep position. A woman wakes a sleepy child on her shoulder and vainly seeks to focus its attention on the Prophet. The child wails and turns back to sleep. Families of eight or 10 stand in line with tightly linked hands.

Comparatively few buildings are lighted downtown. The new city lamps, unfinished, although in position, are dark. The illuminated barges glow brightly in nocturnal downtown, creeping through the jammed canyons. People swarm at the windows of semi-darkened office buildings. Thousands are banked in and around the Statler. Torn paper in myriad bits floats down on the maskers.

Olive Street Ideal for Floats.

Downtown Washington avenue, Fourth to Chestnut, Chestnut to Broadway, Broadway to Olive are dense with people. The downtown crowds are comparatively quiet. The crowd thins only when the parade passes Twelfth and Olive streets. By this time it is 9:30 o'clock. Most of the spectators were obviously folk who wanted to get the children to bed early. Olive between Twelfth and Jefferson avenue proved an ideal place to see the floats. There was plenty of elbow room. The crowd was thicker at Jefferson avenue, where the pageant turned south to Market street, turning west at Laclede.

Among those who saw the parade opinions differed widely as to certain of the Prophet's de luxe attractions. A confirmed Kiplingite complained because Homer, the Greek bard, was not represented in the act of smiting a lyre, and because he was unable to distinguish Sophocles from Thucydides. He also was indignant because Omar Khayyam was allowed to appear without a wine jug and a book.

The Wooden Horse of Troy.

Probably the most frequent wise crack uttered during the parade, at least in the downtown section, had to do with the siege of Troy. "Now I know"—the various authors of this wisecrack said—"now I know why I lost my money last week. That wooden horse there was the nag I bet on." This particular sally, in no time, traversed the Statler lobby and variations were still being repeated at a late hour last night.

Another witticism concerned the city of Tyre float and ran: "City o' Tyre, eh? Oh, yeah, thass Akron, O. Says there 'at King Hiram ruled there, but I guess they mean Harvey Firestone." It was said at the Prophet's den, following the parade, that the Negro who carried the title square for "Tyre," when his night's work was over scratched a "D" after the word and collapsed. The story is possibly apocryphal.

The venerable Prophet last night was like a cousin of Santa Claus—a hale old man of robust imagination who spends half his time thinking up a chain of carnival divertissements, and the other half in contriving pasteboard and gold leaf replicas of his imaginings. What an outpouring of grotesqueries, masks, slices of ancient life. Giants like Gargantua. Roman chariot races. Terraced Babylon, Phoenician galleys. The flocks of Father Abraham. The glamorous Nile queen. His mood last night was the mood of merry maskers. His theme was a sober theme, but he embroidered it with the carnival mood.

Tired Business Men in Floats.

No one can state positively, of course, just who aids the Prophet yearly in carrying out his annual fete. There are those who declare that the Veiled Prophet is just another tired business man, and that in this lies the explanation of his obsession this year with the ancient world. Being a business man, these people argue, the Veiled Prophet, like all business men, grows weary of his business and seeks escape. He recruits, it is alleged, his aids from other tired business men. If these people spoke the truth, then, the Assyrians, the Babylonians, the Greek athletes, Father Abraham and all the denizens of the ancient world who stood in the glare of carnival fire last night are really bond brokers, automobile merchants, insurance men, real estate dealers and the like.

The Prophet will put by his robustious carnival mood tonight, and in silks and satins will sweep to his ballroom throne. He will skip forward several centuries into the period of Louis XIV, the Sun King, and will heap on his achievement of yesternight a Fete d'Or, with cloth of gold to burn, not to mention several Charleston and innumerable drags. It is doubtful whether the sage will really get out on the floor and trip a fantastic or so. He will have to bow a good many times, and he will have to crown the Queen, and he will have to make a number of gestures for which, doubtless, he has been rehearsing much in his mountain fastness.

MONDELL ASSAILS GOV. SMITH

Says New Yorker Is Confusing Issues of Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, former Republican floor leader in the House, in an address here last night said statements of Gov. Smith on farm relief were "an amazing measure of the length to which a man seeking the high office of President may go to confuse the issues."

Mondell charged that Gov. Smith had attempted to "create opinions as to his attitude of the farm problem that he could repudiate by reference to his actual statements."

600 ST. LOUISANS GO TO NEW YORK FOR SERIES GAMES

Extra Cars on Eastbound Trains Carried That Number Yesterday — Others to Depart Today.

Extra cars were carried on all St. Louis-to-New York passenger trains yesterday to accommodate a world series crowd of about 600 passengers on the way to New York. A smaller crowd but one necessitating at least one extra car on each of the first-class trains was indicated by reservations today.

Passenger oficers could not tell what proportion of the crowd intended to see the games Thursday and Friday, but estimated that most of them at least had that in mind.

The Pennsylvania on its three trains yesterday carried six extra cars and about 275 New York passengers. The Big Four, with four extra cars, carried 260 New York passengers on two trans yesterday, and 125 passengers this morning. The Baltimore & Ohio, with two extra cars on its fast train, carried 50 passengers.

Tickets and Refunds Go Out.

Between 10,000 and 11,000 St. Louisans today and tomorrow will receive reserved grandstand and box seat tickets for the three series games to be played here Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The last of the tickets for the 23,000 grandstand seats and 4000 box seats, for each game, are being mailed out today, and will be in the hands of the lucky applicants at about the same time that 50,000 other applicants receive refunds totaling $1,300,000 on unfilled orders.

Among those who will get tickets in today's mailing are Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, Senator Hawes, Gov. Baker and Mayor Miller. Reservations have been made for notables of the baseball world, including Commissioner Landis, President Heydler of the National League; President Barnard of the American League; President Stoneham and Manager McGraw of the New York Giants; President McDiarmid of the Cincinnati Reds, and officers of the Chicago Cubs.

The widow of the late Urban Shocker, New York pitcher, formerly with the St. Louis Browns, inquired at the Cardinals office yesterday about the allotment of tickets which would have been made to her husband. She was told the Yankee Club would handle the matter.

An Ill Wind Blows Good.

One of the successful applicants for reserved seats wrote the Cardinals Club that, because of illness, he would be unable to attend the games, and suggested that the seats be sold to some "good St. Louis fan." Another application was drawn from the mass of unfilled orders, and someone will never know how narrowly he missed getting seats.

W. W. Eden was the 81-year-old man who wrote from Fresno, Cal., and convinced Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals' club, that he should have tickets.

"I am an old man and this may be my last chance to see a world series," he wrote. "I am 81 years old and have never seen one. Hold some tickets for me so I can see a world series before they call the third strike on me for good." He will get a seat for each game.

Some married fans may understand the request of one St. Louisan who asked for two seats, one on the first base side and the other on the third base line.

"The one on the first base side is for my wife," he wrote.

Two St. Louisans traveling in Europe mailed applications, one from Germany and the other from France, stating they would be in St. Louis in time for the series. Their names were withheld.

Goitre-Preventing Milk From Seaweed-fed Cows

Experiments With Mrs. McCormick's Herd of Holsteins Give Sufficient Iodine Content Without Impairing the Flavor.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's Holstein herd, one of the finest in the Mid West, has been turned over to science, in an attempt to find a preventive of and treatment for common goitre.

Since July 1, Mrs. McCormick's cows have been used in experiments conducted under the direction of Prof. George W. Cavanaugh, head of the department of chemistry at Cornell University.

By feeding powdered seaweed to the cows the scientists have produced milk with an iodine content sufficient to serve as a preventive of goitre, Prof. Cavanaugh announced. Seaweed is the principal source of the world's iodine.

Prior to the tests the milk from the McCormick herd was free of iodine. After the experiment had progressed several weeks the milk was found to contain 306 parts of iodine in 1,000,000.

The seaweed was mixed with regular feed. Samples of the iodized milk were found to retain their flavor and food quality.

At the office of the Journal of the American Medical Association the tests were described as constituting "a most interesting experiment, potentially of considerable value in the Lake Michigan region where water and soil are deficient in iodine content."

Mrs. McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna, has one of the show places of the Illinois countryside in her Rock River farm, where the iodized milk experiments have been conducted. She offered her herd for the tests when scientists expressed a preference for conducting the experiments in the heart of what physicians have called the "goitre belt."

KSD WILL BROADCAST WORLD SERIES GAMES DIRECT FROM DIAMOND

THE world series games of the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees, beginning in New York tomorrow, will be broadcast by KSD, the Post-Dispatch radio station, direct from the diamond, throughout the series. Listeners will get the games ball by ball, play by play.

Graham McNamee and Phillips Carlin will be at the microphone for the National Broadcasting Co., which supplies a chain of 40 stations, including KSD. Station KMOX of St. Louis will also broadcast the games, being on the Columbia Broadcasting System's chain of 18 stations. The Columbia's announcers are Maj. J. Andrew White and Ted Hussing.

Stations will come on the air at 12:10 p. m., St. Louis time, for the New York games, and at 1:10 o'clock for the games to be played in St. Louis.

$1,500,000 SEIZURE OF OPIUM ON SHIP

Three Thousand Cans Found Cached on Dollar Liner at Jersey City.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Three thousand cans of opium with a bootleg value of $1,500,000 were seized on the Dollar Line Steamer President Harrison which docked at Jersey City yesterday, it became known today. Customs officers reported the seizure was the largest consignment of smoking opium ever made at an Eastern port.

Four Chinese members of the crew, including the ship's boatswain, were arrested charged with attempted smuggling.

It was said that the steamship company was liable to a fine of approximately $600,000 as a result of the seizure and arrests.

While John J. McGill, deputy supervisor of customs, was inspecting the Harrison's manifest last evening he observed that 131 Chinese seamen were listed among the 163 men of the crew. The steamer on Tuesday completed a round the world cruise, having touched at several Chinese ports, including Hongkong and Shanghai.

Customs officers had suspected for some time that there was a leakage of opium into the United States and that it was being carried on ships from Oriental ports. Three customs men found the opium in the chain locker in the forepeak of the ship, only after the heavy timbers were removed by the ship's carpenter. The inspectors suspect the opium was put aboard while the anchor was out either at Hongkong or Shanghai.

Customs officers said the ship's officers and crew denied all knowledge of the contraband. Nevertheless Capt. James Donald Guthrie was requested to appear for a hearing before members of the customs service legal division.

The Federal authorities made it clear that they in no way associated the ship's officers with the attempted smuggling.

$8000 Award for Auto Injuries.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 3.—The State Supreme Court today conditionally affirmed a judgment of $10,000 obtained by John Brucker, 72 years old, of St. Louis, for injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile owned by Steve Gambaro on Aug. 13, 1923. The court ruled a $10,000 verdict was excessive but affirmed the judgment on condition Brucker remit $2000, leaving a judgment of $8000. Brucker was run down on the sidewalk on Russell place, near Arsenal street.

Clarence W. Barron Regarded as Authority on Finances —Friend of Taft.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Oct. 3. —Clarence W. Barron, financial authority and editor of the Wall Street Journal and a number of other financial publications, died last night at a local sanitarium. He had been in a coma the last 48 hours.

Mr. Barron, who had been a frequent visitor here was brought to the sanitarium three weeks ago.

Death was due to catarrhal jaudice, sanitarium officials announced. The body will be taken to Barron's home in Boston, Mass., for burial.

Barron, who was 73 years old, was well known on both sides of the Atlantic, having several times conferred with Former Kaiser Wilhelm on the world money situation, and with Former Czar Nicholas II on stabilization of Russian currency. He was a close friend of former President Taft and was called to Washington on several occasions to confer with Treasury officials.

Until a year ago Barron wrote vigorous editorials denouncing Henry Ford. Later, however, he called upon Ford, spent some time with the automobile manufacturer, and became one of his strongest admirers.

Among the enterprises with which he was connected, in addition to the Wall Street Journal, were the Boston News Bureau and the Philadelphia News Bureau. He was also president of Doremus & Co., an advertising concern.

Ex-President of Paraguay Accused.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 3.—Dispatches from Asuncion say that former President Schaerer of Paraguay has been accused of being the leader of a frustrated revolutionary plot. He will be tried by a mliitary tribunal.

EXCHANGE LOANS SET $5,513,639,685 RECORD

Total on Sept. 29 Was $239,593,404 More Than Previous Mark.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The New York Stock Exchange reported yesterday that member loans, at the close of business Sept. 29, totaled $5,513,639,685, a new high record for all time. This represents an increase of $462,202,280 over the total at the end of the preceding month, and an increase of $239,593,404 over the previous high record of $5,274,046,281, established at the end of last May.

The figures were much larger than Wall Street had expected. The weekly reports of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, which cover only loans made by or through member institutions, had shown a gain of $289,560,000 between Aug. 29 and Sept. 26.

Fears of a large increase in loans were reflected in the extremely nervous character of the trading in yesterday's market. Despite strenuous efforts of powerful pools to bring about a general rally, heavy liquidation took place throughout the session, with a long list of stocks closing $1 to $7.50 a share lower.

The detailed statement of Stock Exchange member loans showed a gain from $4,093,889,293 to $4,689,551,974 in demand loans during September, and a decrease from $955,548,112 to $824,087,711 in time loans. This tended to confirm reports in circulation during the month that New York bankers were showing a disinclination to renew expiring time loans and forcing the financing of securities speculation into the call money market.

PLANS FOR 9000 GUESTS AT 50TH V. P. BALL TONIGHT

Setting for Ceremony of Crowning New Queen to Be Patterned After 'Fete d' Or' of Louis XIV.

The Veiled Prophet's ball in the Coliseum tonight at which the patron overlord of St. Louis will select his Queen of Love and Beauty for the ensuing year will be attended by between 9000 and 10,000 persons.

The setting for the ceremony of the coronation will be patterned after the "Fete d'Or" or Golden Ball of King Louis XIV of France, who reproduced scenic effects of the Orient. Gold, for the Prophet's golden anniversary, will be predominant, sprinkled with red and blue.

Doors will be opened at 7:30 o'clock. An orchestra of St. Louis Symphony orchestra players under direction of Benjamin Rader will be on the roof of a pavilion at the north end of the Coliseum and will give the following program, preceding the ceremony of the entry of the Prophet:

March, Rakoczy . . . . Berlioz
Overture, The Merry Wives of Windsor . . . . Nicolai
Selections, the Countess Maritza—Kalman
Rhapsody, Espana . . . . . Chabrier
Excerpts, a Connecticut Yankee—Rogers

Events After the Concert.

Thereafter, the events are described as follows in the program for the ball:

"The arrival of the Ladies of Honor and the Maids of Honor at the Court of Love and Beauty.

"The arrival and entrance of the Reigning Queen—Miss Anne Farrar Semple.

"Arrival of the Krewe of the Veiled Prophet representing characters from the Pageant, 'Through the Centuries.'

"Arrival of his Mysterious Majesty The Veiled Prophet, accompanied by his two High Priests, his Almoner, his Herald, Master of the Crown Jewels, preceded by the Guard of Honor.

"The four Special Maids of Honor are summoned by the Veiled Prophet to the Court of Love and Beauty.

"Arrival of the Queen of the Court of Love and Beauty of His Majesty the Veiled Prophet, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight. The Queen's Coronation.

"His Majesty and His Queen promenade and pay homage to the former Queens.

"The Krewe of His Majesty the Veiled Prophet dance with the Ladies of Honor and the Maids of Honor of the Court of Love and Beauty.

"The Queen receives the Allegiance of the Ladies of Honor and the Maids of Honor. Dancing."

Full Dress the Rule.

Dress rules have not been relaxed. Full dress for men and women is required for entrance to the first floor and first balcony. Holders of tickets for the second balcony escape any dress inspection. It is specifically specified that men in tuxedo coats will not be admitted to the first floor. Officers of the military establishment of the Nation are requested to appear in their full dress with gold braid and decorations.

Vehicle routes to the Coliseum have been fixed as follows:

From the West End—East on Washington boulevard or east on Lindell boulevard to Locust street, thence east to Leffingwell and into Washington.

From the South Side—Grand boulevard to Lindell or Washington boulevard, thence as from the West End.

From the North Side—Same as from the West End.

From the East—West on Pine street to Leffingwell, thence north to Locust street.

Parking instructions will be issued at Leffingwell avenue. Departing guests may go directly to their parked automobiles or have them called from the Coliseum doors.

After the ball, the Queen and her party of maids will go to Hotel Chase for a private Veiled Prophet supper.

Turn Hair Dark With Sage Tea

By JEAN MACON

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand mother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

COOLIDGE'S STRATEGY ON HOOVER'S BEHALF

William Allen White's Book Tells How President Opposed Dawes and Lowden.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 3.—Two Illinois men, Frank O. Lowden and Vice President Dawes, it is related in a book by William Allen White, the Kansas editor, which is off the press this week, were opposed by President Coolidge as Republican candidates to succeed him. The President had them in mind, as possible candidates, White writes, when he kept the country in suspense by his cryptic "I do not choose to run" and subsequent silence, but refused to stop work in his behalf by those who wished him re-elected.

"Hoover was the only candidate who openly opposed the McNary-Haugen bill," White says. "He was the only candidate whose nomination would have been an indorsement of the Coolidge administration. The other candidates were running in opposition to the President's record on this major issue. Hence his crafty silence, his refusal to get out of the situation entirely and thus hold away from Lowden or Dawes—and chiefly Dawes—the large Eastern Republican delegations which fundamentally distrusted Hoover—and which, by grace of Coolidge, finally nominated Hoover.

"To the President, Hoover was the one man whose nomination would perpetuate the Coolidge policies. Hence, by the presidential silence, always holding himself available in the background, Coolidge kept the politicians of the Eastern states away from Dawes, who was their heart's desire. They organized the convention. They wrote the platform that rejected the McNary-Haugen bill."

William Jennings Bryan as a youth in Illinois, and William Hale Thompson of Chicago, are two others among the political figures White writes of. His book is named "Masks in a Pageant."

White has known personally all the presidents of the United States from Harrison to Coolidge, and he gives in this book a character study of each, as well as studies of some of their friends and enemies and other contemporaries.

LOOKING UP LAW ON NEW LIGHT POLE SIGNS

Counselor Asked Whether Placards Naming Mayor and Maker Violate Ordinance.

City Counselor Muench has been asked by Chief Lighting Engineer Heath of the Department of Public Utilities for an opinion as to whether placards naming Mayor Miller, the contractor for installation of the new downtown electric street lights and the manufacturer furnishing equipment, which have been placed on many of the poles, are in violation of an ordinance prohibiting placards of any kind on lamp posts, telephone poles, sidewalks and elsewhere.

These signs, of cardboard, were placed recently. They bear a picture of the light standard, surmounted by the trade mark of the equipment maker, the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. They say: "Downtown street lighting—a part of the $80,000,000 bond issue. Being installed under the administration of Victor J. Miller, Mayor. The poles are 23 feet high, weigh 3500 pounds and are manufactured in St. Louis. The installation is being made by G. Locke Tarlton, contractor, St. Louis." In conclusion, there is a detailed statement in smaller type, to the effect that Westinghouse equipment is being used exclusively. The names of the Mayor and Tarlton are in red ink.

Chief Engineer Heath said he had been unaware of the placing of the signs, when his attention was called to them yesterday. He looked up the ordinance on the subject and immediately requested the legal opinion. He suggested that the ordinance might not apply, inasmuch as the city had not accepted the lighting system from Tarlton and the poles actually are not light posts, not being connected. He also asked Counselor Muench whether the placards constituted advertising of the forbidden sort. The ordinance, No. 29,881, prohibits anyone from willfully or maliciously posting any business, commercial, amusement or exhibition advertisement to any "tree, lamp post, hitching post, telegraph pole, telephone pole," etc. Violation is a misdemeanor, punishable by a $25 to $500 fine.

On Sept. 17, Director of Public Utilities Pritchard, Heath's superior, wrote Chief of Police Gerk, reminding the chief of a previous request for strict enforcement of this ordinance. Heath explained that it was considered hazardous to workers and the public to have any unauthorized attachment to poles. Heath did not know who erected these signs. He said their removal would be ordered if they violated the law.

CRAIG B. HAZLEWOOD BANKERS' PRESIDENT

John G. Lonsdale of St. Louis Elected First Vice-President at National Convention.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Craig B. Hazlewood, vice president of the Union Trust Co., Chicago, today was elected president of the American Bankers' Association at a general convention meeting. Hazlewood had been first vice president of the Association.

John Gerdes Lonsdale, president of the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis, was elected first vice president, and Rome C. Stephenson, vice president of the St. Joseph County Savings Bank and president of the St. Joseph Loan and Trust Co., South Bend, Ind., was elected second vice president.

Although the United States has lost $500,000,000 in gold from its reserves in the past year to the rest of the world, this loss has been a desirable thing, said Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, in an address at the general meeting. He spoke on "The Banker's Responsibility."

This loss of gold has been desirable, said Young, "not only from the view of those who received it and used it as the basis of monetary reconstruction, but also from the point of view of the United States, the risks arising from unstable exchanges and disorganized conditions among its foreign customers."

"No one knows," said Young, "whether the redistribution of gold has been completed or whether the United States will lose additional gold to the rest of the world. Our gold reserves at the present are $1,000,000,000 in excess of the egal requirements, and it is fortunate that they are because it puts the bankers in a position to handle further export movements of gold if they should develop and to meet the growing credit needs of the country."

"A Hat to Complement Each Fall Costume"

By Shirley Deane

FOR devotees of the ensemble idea—those fashionables who never buy a frock or coat without a hat to complete it—I've selected a most interesting millinery collection. Hats of exceptional chic...priced at only $15! (I take off my hat to our Millinery Salon for accomplishing it!) Typical of the group are the two models sketched . . . the one at the left combining fine fur felt and feutre renard after the French manner; the other taking its cue from the "Dutch Bonnet" success in a striking adaptation in fur felt.

This Beauty Lesson

Girls can learn from men who smoke

"Constant smoking had stained my teeth quite badly," writes W. B. Cormier of Boston. "Not only that—but I suppose my breath was often offensive. I tried Pebeco Tooth Paste—liked the fresh, keen flavor. In a short time my teeth were glistening white. My mouth, too, felt cleaner, healthier. I'm thoroughly 'sold' on Pebeco."

SO fashionable to smoke nowadays. But dreadfully hard on the teeth. Not that it permanently injures the enamel. Just discolors it. Makes pretty white teeth quickly turn yellow and dingy.

Smoking, too, often leaves a stale tobacco taste—parched tongue.

"Isn't there any way to prevent this?" girl smokers are asking. "Just brushing the teeth doesn't seem to help a bit."

Thousands of men who smoke constantly have long known a way to keep their teeth white and sparkling. They use a tooth paste specially created to correct unhealthy mouth conditions—Pebeco.

Pebeco is different in formula and action from any other tooth paste. It contains a special salt that gently stimulates the saliva.

The moment Pebeco enters your mouth its fresh, sharp tang starts the saliva flowing. Effectively it bathes the teeth. Washes away tobacco stains. Whitens and brightens the precious enamel.

You feel the fresh moistness in your mouth for hours after. Your breath keeps sweet. Your whole mouth cool, clean and lovely.

Made by Pebeco, Inc., a division of Lehn & Fink Products Company. Sole distributors, Lehn & Fink, Inc., Bloomfield, N. J. Distributed in Canada by Lehn & Fink (Canada) Limited.

"An Indispensable Aid to Beauty," writes Virginia Marin of San Francisco, Cal.

"Did you know that to women who smoke, Pebeco Tooth Paste has become an indispensable beauty aid—like cold cream or skin lotions?

"The beauty of white, gleaming teeth is so often spoiled by yellow nicotine stains. And everyone knows that tobacco gives an unpleasant, stale odor to the breath.

"I, too, suffered from these evils and went through a period of self-consciousness because of them—until a friend of mine recommended Pebeco as a remedy.

"Almost immediately the yellow stain on my teeth seemed to fade and my breath became fresh and sweet again.

"I have used it diligently ever since. And I have never been ashamed of my teeth nor worried about my breath. Nor have I had to deny myself the pleasure I derived from smoking. I am more than grateful."

Very sincerely,

(Signed) VIRGINIA MARIN

STEP UP to any drug or toilet goods counter and ask for Pebeco. Use it twice a day—for a month. See if your mouth does not feel healthier, cleaner. Notice, too, how sweet and fragrant Pebeco keeps your breath.

Whether you smoke or not—Pebeco Tooth Paste will keep your teeth beautifully white and clean. Your mouth fresh and wholesome. Try it for a month. See how you grow to depend upon it.

"Tobacco Stains Disappeared— Mouth Felt Cleaner, too," writes Winthrop P. Moore of New Orleans, La.

"I have been using Pebeco daily since 1916. At that time my teeth were in very poor condition. They needed dental attention. And they were coated with nicotine stains—for I smoke a great deal.

"After experimenting with many brands I found Pebeco to be the most effective tooth paste I had ever used. Tobacco stains soon disappeared and my teeth became much whiter—in fact, a very glossy white. My mouth felt cleaner, too—fresh tasting and healthy.

"I have not had a cavity in my teeth nor any trouble with the gums in all these twelve years."

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) WINTHROP P. MOORE

CLAIMS 1,000,000 DEMOCRATS BACK ANTI-SMITH MOVE

M. D. Lightfoot Declares 80,000 Bolters in Missouri Are Pledged Against New Yorker.

The National Constitutional Democratic Committee, an organization of bolting Democrats pledged to the support of Herbert Hoover in the Presidential campaign, has opened national headquarters, a suite of seven rooms, in the Boatmen's Bank Building.

Claims of a membership of 1,000,000 voters who have actually signed pledge cards and returned them to the committee were made yesterday by M. D. Lightfoot of Springfield, Mo., a distributor of carload lots of eggs and poultry, who is national chairman of the organization.

Lightfoot, a former member of the Democratic State Committee and an active political worker for more than 20 years, also claimed a membership of 80,000 Democrats from Missouri and predicted that altogether his organization would be able to throw 1,500,000 votes to the Republican Presidential nominee in the election.

Names Kept Secret.

He declined however, to show any of the signed cards which he said his organization had received, refusing even to make public the names of some of the 3500 St. Louis Democrats who, he says, are members.

The opposition of the committee to Smith, Lightfoot said, was based upon Smith's stand upon prohibition and immigration, and his affiliation with Tammany Hall. He said the committee was not motivated by any opposition to Smith's religion.

Personally Pledged $23,000.

Lightfoot asserted he had obligated himself to put $39,000 into the anti-Smith movement but that contributions already received had cut his share down to $23,000. He said the organization was not financed or otherwise encouraged by the Republican National Committee.

The St. Louis organization of the committee is headed by Edward M. Flesh, St. Louis grain broker and former chairman of the United States Grain Corporation, under the post-war management of Hoover.

Lightfoot was a member of the Executive Committee of the State Democratic Committee in 1904 and for 15 years chairman of the Democratic Committee of the Seventh Congressional District.

POLICE COLLECTED FROM RESORTS IN PHILADELPHIA

Payments of $11,000 a Week Were Made by Operators of Houses in One District, Evidence Shows.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Payments of $ 1,000 a week by resorts in one police district have been uncovered by District Attorney Monaghan, who is conducting a grand jury investigation of liquor runners and gangsters' activities.

The disclosures came with the arrest of four detectives, charged with extorting money from the proprietor of a resort.

They were alleged to have collected $220 a week from a single resort in a police district in which 50 such establishments were reported by the district commander to have been operating.

Olga Barton, proprietor of one of these places, in testifying against the detectives, John Casey, Warren Robinson, James Kelly and William Dixey, declared that her payments for protection, starting at $45 a week, had been raised on demand to $220 weekly.

One Captain Banked $24,000.

Assistant District Attorney Hermes told Judge Edwin O. Lewis, before whom the prisoners were arraigned, that each of the 50 establisments had paid similar amounts for protection, or a total of approximately $11,000 a week in a single police district.

Monaghan said one police captain had accumulated nearly $250,000 in the last two and a half years.

"I examined a captain of police last Friday in the grand jury room," the prosecutor said today. "Yesterday I investigated and obtained an account in a stock broker's concern showing that Monday this same captain closed his account and withdrew more than $24,000 in currency, together with securities aggregating $18,000 in value—a total of more than $42,000 in this one man's account.

Another Deposited $81,000.

"My investigators also found that one captain of police during a period of two and a half years he has held that position deposited more than $81,000 in banks and had secreted in his home $20,000 in cash.

"In addition, in the last two and a half years, he has purchased seven parcels of real estate in which the equities are between $35,000 and $40,000. This captain also had a saving fund account of $8500 and he had a safe deposit box for the storage of his valuable papers.

"The investigation has shown inordinate police wealth. It has shown immense sums paid to police officials by bootleggers and saloonkeepers, and yesterday we uncovered the most horrible form of police protection—disorderly houses—in a case which gives indications of vast sums paid over to men sworn to enforce the laws."

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Collette Francis, of 255 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

During its 73 years of success in the treatment of colds, throat troubles and as a body builder, Father John's Medicine has come to be recognized in a great many hospitals and charitable institutions as having great value. Because it is guaranteed free from alcohol or drugs in any form, doctors recommend it.

Father John's Medicine is a high-grade preparation of Cod Liver Oil with other valuable ingredients. It builds new tissue and strength and gives power to resist illness.

Doctors have known the value of cod liver oil for a great many years and have used it freely in their practice. Modern research has determined the reason for its value, and given it the name of vitamins.

It is unquestioned that cod liver oil, when given in palatable form such as Father John's Medicine, is one of the greatest body builders for those who are weakened or run down.

The Dominican Sisters of St. Dominic Monastery, La Crosse, Wisconsin, allow us to quote from a recent letter:

"We have found out that there is nothing better than Father John's Medicine for colds, or building up the body; it does a world of good."

FIVE KEPT IN ICEBOX HOUR AFTER HOLDUP

Two Robbers Lock Up Saloon Owner and Customers—Get $94.

Two armed robbers who obtained $94.65 cash and a check for $43 in a holdup last night at the saloon of Christ Kovacich, 1300 Merchant street, locked the proprietor and four customers in the icebox before departing.

After staying in the refrigerator for an hour, waiting for someone to enter the saloon and release them, the robbery victims broke a glass door and stepped out.

James A. Price Jr., 3543 Laclede avenue, walking in front of 2325 Gravois avenue, was held up and robbed of $4 by an armed man in an automobile.

Mrs. Joseph Betuglia, 5343 Itaska street, reported the theft from her home of four diamond rings which she valued at $1180. She thinks they were taken by two men posing as telephone repair men who were admitted to her home by the janitor during her absence.

Police became suspicious of two young men who were seated in an automobile near the Strub Drug Co., 4601 Pope avenue, and arrested them. One of the men had a revolver and said his companion had told him the drug store would be "a good plac to hold up."

Cards Find No Rest With Flag Won, but Are Eager for Play

KSD to Broadcast the World Series

BALL by ball, play by play, the games of the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees for the world championship will be broadcast by the Post-Dispatch radio station direct from the diamond. This service will continue until the series ends.

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Bill McKechnie and his Cardinals thought it would be a grand and glorious feeling to have the pennant safely in the bag. It would be so comfortable to sit back in a nice chair at the hotel to rest and forget the worries of the hectic race.

But the boys find that they were all wet when they thought that way. They are impatient already. They are surfeited with leisure and they are restless and fidgeting for the big world series to start. And they will have a day of idleness on their hands before they take the field at Yankee Stadium tomorrow to face the New York champions of the American League in the first game of the struggle for the championship of the baseball universe.

Two hours of batting practice helped to break the monotony of their waiting yesterday afternoon. Every member of the squad was in uniform and the squad was divided into two groups, the regulars pounding the ball for more than an hour with the pitchers and reserves taking up the rest of the time.

Alex and Jim Have Colds.

"We are in good condition for this little affair," Manager McKechnie said after the workout. "Bottomley has a cold and Alexander is in the same boat but neither case is serious and we ought to take the field at top strength Thursday. I have not decided who will pitch just yet, but everybody is ready and eager to get the first crack at the Yankees."

The only news from the Yankee camp was that there was a slight possibility that Earl Combs might play after all. X-ray pictures showed that his wrist was not fractured in Detroit, as had been feared, but this information was only slight comfort especially as Combs shook his head dubiously when he was told that he might be ready to play in the first game. The wrist is inflamed and it will have to improve rapidly if he is to be able to grip a bat and catch and throw a ball tomorrow. Other Yankees reported improvement in their condition. Babe Ruth especially said he was feeling better and he expected to be almost his old agile self by the time the umpires signal for the start of hostilities.

New York is not excited over the world series. Occasionally there is a lull in the favorite conversation about "clucks and sutz" and the buttonhole trade, with baseball entering in for a moment, but there is nothing like the feverish enthusiasm that was in evidence while the Giants were making their great fight. Perhaps if there were to be a subway series, with two New York teams engaging, there would be more interest. But after the failure of the Giants, the series with the Cardinals, for New Yorkers at least and for the National League partisans in particular, will be an anti-climax.

Record Crowd Not Likely.

Of course there was a sell-out of the reserved seats and the speculators were said to be expecting to do a big business in the pasteboards but the reserved seats are only a portion of the vast Yankee Stadium and it will be surprising if the crowd Thursday or Friday [illegible] the capacity of these far-flung stands.

Experts continue to tell their different versions of why the Yankees have only a slight chance of stopping the Cardinals. One New York writer, Marshall Hunt of the Daily News, has even gone so far as to pick the Yankees to win. He explains that he saw the Yankees on the train, returning to New

John McGraw, manager of the Giants.

And Nick Altrock, baseball's premier humorist.

REPORT OF NEW HORNSBY TRADE BRINGS DENIALS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, is not coming to the Chicago Cubs.

William L. Veeck, president of the Cubs, made flat denial of the report which was printed in New York today. Veeck, in attendance at the Sox-Cubs city series game, said:

"That story is news to us. I never talked to Boston officials about obtaining Hornsby."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. — The New York Sun this afternoon said that, "according to information from a reliable source," negotiations for the transfer of Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, to the Chicago Cubs, have virtually been completed.

The newspaper said, "unless an unexpected hitch comes up" the leading batsman of the National League will go to the Western club for cash amounting to $250,000 and several players. Freddy Maguire, the Cub second baseman, was mentioned as a possible figure in the reported trade and an outfielder and two pitchers, not named, were suggested as possible additions. Hornsby, in New York for the world series, was represented as refusing to comment on the possibility of a baseball deal involving his services.

BRAVES DENY KNOWING OF DEAL

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—At the offices of the Boston Braves this afternoon it was said that nothing was known of any deal whereby Manager Rogers Hornsby would go to the Chicago Cubs.

25,000 PERSONS WATCH CONTEST; KENNY A STAR FOR VISITORS

By the Associated Press.

WESTBURY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Argentina squared the series for the polo championship of the Americas by beating the United States this afternoon before a crowd of 25,000 persons.

The score was 10 to 7.

The lineup:

United States.	Position.	Argentina.
W. A. Harriman	No. 1.	Arturo Kenny
Tommy Hitchcock	No. 2	Jack Nelson
Malcolm Stevenson	No. 3.	John B. Miles
Winston Guest	Back	Lewis Lacey

First Period.

Hitchcock started a drive toward the Argentine goal at the outset but Harriman muffed the pass. Lacy missed a good chance to score on a foul shot from the 60-yard mark. Stevenson made a fine save with the ball a few feet in front of the goal, but in the ensuing scramble a foul was called and Lacey took another pot shot from 60 yards. It hit Harriman's pony, but Kenney dashed in and shot the ball through the posts for the first score of the game.

Guest, with a clear field and after a fine run, missed a beautiful chance to score but soon afterward an even better opportunity was missed by the Americans. Harriman overrode the ball, after carrying it to the edge of the goal. In succession Hitchcock, Stevenson and Guest all missed the best kind of chance to push it through after the whole array had galloped all over the ball. Jack Nelson circled around and hit it out of danger just as the first period ended. Score: Argentina, 1; United States, 0.

Second Period.

The Argentines increased their lead to 2-0 in the first few moments of the second period, when Kenney got free and scored easily on a run of about 150 yards, while Miles rode off the American defense man, Guest.

Nelson's shot for goal, after a fine bit of team play, missed by only two feet. The Americans again were penalized for rough work, but Lacey's free shot from an angle went wide. Kenny scored his third goal shortly afterward on a fine pass from Lacey as the United States goal was left unguarded. At the close of the period the score was: Argentina, 3; United States, 0.

Third Period.

Hitchcock picked the ball out of a scrimmage and lifted it high and through the posts, 40 yards away, for the first United States tally.

Hitchcock and Lacey crashed together in a wild charge for the ball and the famous Argentine back rolled to the ground, his pony with him. It looked for a moment as though Lacey was badly hurt, but he jumped to his feet after a close call from being kicked by his struggling pony.

Fourth Period.

Nelson whirled, on a pretty play, shook off Guest and put the Argentines in the lead with a goal in the lead with a goal in the early moments of the fourth period. The Americans came right back and squared the count, Harriman passing the ball through on a pass from Hitchcock.

Lacey remounted after a brief rest, but the Argentines suffered the penalty of having to hit out from their own goal. This was capitalized by the Americans, Guest blocking the hit out and Harriman scorign on a pretty back hander.

The umpire's whistle was kept busier than in a football game as rough play marked the dash of both teams. Hitchcock got a free shot from 60 yards and fired the ball through, tying the score at 3—3 at the close of the period.

The bell for the end of the fourth period raged around a fierce scrimmage raged around the Argentine goal. Play continuing, under the rules, until a goal is scored or the ball hit out of bounds, Hitchcock capitalized the opportunity to put the ball through and give the United States the lead, 5 to 4.

After a conference between halves, officials announced that the final goal scored by Hitchcock and posted on the board had been disallowed. This left the two teams tied 4-4 as they started the second half.

Fifth Period.

The severest penalty yet administered was handed to the Americans for rough riding. Three fouls shots fro mdistances of 50 and 60 yards being given the Argentines. Lacey missed all three, two by narrow margins, but on the hit-out, Kenny got the ball and shot it through putting the Argentines in the lead, 5 to 4, as the period ended.

Sixth Period.

The South Americans increased their lead when Lace yfired a long drive ot Kenny, who put it through the posts. Harriman, with Guests' assistance, tallied for the United States a moment later and the score was 6—5 in favor of the invaders. After a session of the wildest sort of riding and checking, with Lacy surging up and down the field, Nelson got a good wallop at the ball and shot it through for the seventh Argentine count. The score as the period ended was 7 to 5 in favor of Argentina.

Seventh Period.

Lacey scored on a foul shot at the start of the seventh period and the Argentines, outplaying and outhitting the Yankee quartette, led at 8-5.

The Argentines were penalized twice and Hitchcock, after having his first shot blocked, tallied on the second one at a range of 40 yards.

What seemed a certain goal for the South Americans was saved when Nelson's shot bounced off Stevenson's pon and went wide. Miles came charging through to score for Argentina just before the period ended, connecting with a sharply-angled shot.

Eighth Period.

It began to look like a rout when the Argentines mashed around the United States goal at the start of the final chukker, Nelson scoring the tenth goal for his team.

Big Guns of the World Series Rivals

Horton Smith, Young Missouri Pro Golfer, Beats Mac Farlane, 1 Up

By F. G. Vosburgh,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Upsetting Willie McFarlane of Tucahoe, N. Y., by a margin of 1 up, Horton Smith, youthful professional from Joplin, Mo., led the way into the third round of the national pro championship golf tournament here today. Smith earned his victory by getting a three-up lead during the morning 18 holes, and giving up only two of them, despite a great bid on the part of the veteran Scot in the afternoon round.

Gene Sarazan defeated Jim Barnes by a margin of three up and two to play.

Before a gallery of 2000 persons, Sarazen drew away to win in the final 18 holes after they had finished the morning's play all even.

Barnes, the gangling veteran who yesterday eliminaed Tommy Armour, put up a gallant fight but could not stand off the barrage of pars and birdies that the tireless Sarazen fired at him in the concluding holes.

Long Jim was the first of the four previous winners of this title to be put out of the tournament. He won the championship back in 1916, the first year it was held, and again in 1919.

Sarazen also is a former titleholder and both played like champions today. Leaving the twenty-seventh hole one up, Gene carried the twenty-ninth on a par 4 and the thirtieth with a birdie, only to have Barnes come back to take the thirty-second by jumping a stymie with a trick shot that brought a cher from the big gallery. On what proved to be the final hole, Sarazen clinched the match by holing out for a birdie 3, with a curling 15-foot putt.

Espinosa Staggers Through.

Al Espinosa, weakening in the afternoon round after being five up at the end of the morning play, came through victoriously only after a hair-raising extra-hole struggle, winning from Bob McDonald, also of Chicago, one up at the thirty-seventh green.

Jock Hutchison, one of the four former champions, finished one up in 36 holes against Pat Doyle, of Linwood, N. J.

In a thrilling contest which went to the thirty-seventh hole, Perry Del Vicchio, youthful professional from Greensburg, Pa., defeated Glenn Spencer, Baltimore entry, who had staged a remarkable comeback to square the match in the second 18 after being 5 down at the end of the morning. The margin of victory was one up.

Second Round Results.

Horton Smith defeated Arllie MacFarlane, 1 up.

Gene Sarazen defeated Jim Barnes, 3 and 2.

Al Espinosa defeated Bob MasDonald, 1 up in 37 holes.

Jock Hutchison defeated Pat. Doyle, 1 up.

Perry Del Vecchio defeated Glenn Spencer, 1 up in 37 holes.

Batteries: Cubs—Malone and Hartnett. White Sox—Faber, Adkins, Connally and Berg, Crouse.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Pat Malone held the White Sox to five hits and the Cubs won the opener of the city championship series, 3 to 0, this afternoon at Comiskey Park before a crowd of 40,000.

Although pitching only two-thirds of the first inning, "Red" Faber was the losing hurler, all three runs being made off him before he was relieved by Grady Adkins with two out.

Adkins and his successor, Connally, held the Cubs to three hits.

Faber wasn't right and lasted only two-thirds of the initial inning. Before Manager Blackburne recalled Faber, the Cubs' heavy artillery had driven across three runs on a walk to English, doubles by Cuyler and Grimm and a fielder's choice on Stephenson, who was safe when Wilson was forced at second after hitting a single.

HIGH SCHOOL TENNIS MATCHES POSTPONED

All the games will be played at Tower Grove Park, starting at 3:30 p. m.

INCEPTION DISQUALIFIED SECOND TIME FOR FOULING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 3.—Although he has won two races, Frederick Johnson's 2-year-old Inception is still a maiden. He finished first the third race on this afternoon's program at the local track, but was disqualified for fouling and the purse was given to Jefferson Livingstons' Autumn Bloom, a 46 to 1 shot. Inception won at Belmont Park recently, but was set back for fouling. Jockey J. Bejshak had the mount on the colt today and crossed the field in the middle of the stretch, impeding the running of a few contenders. E. R. Menuis' Shasta Pebble was second and E. B. McLean's Classy third.

Autumn Bloom, with George Fields in the saddle, paid $94.80 for $2 to win, $28.70 to place and $16.10 to show. The winner ran the six furlongs in 1:13 1-5.

Fields on Two Winners.

Fields was also astride the winner of the first race, W. R. Coe's Herodianees, a first starter. The race was for maiden juvenile colts and geldings and Herodines won all the way, running the five and one-half furlongs in 1:08. J. E. Widener's Mirage was second and Mrs. E. Trueman's Searcher third.

Herodianes, son of The Finn-Herodias, went to the front at the break and led throughout, winning by half a length from Mirage. The latter closed fast to beat Searcher by a length for the place. Herodianes paid $14.50.

Judge Caverly, racing in the silks of Mrs. H. D. Cox, won the second race and refunded $14.90. E. P. Sumerfield's Sir Leonid was second and R. I. Miller's Rim third. The mile and one-quarter was run in 2:08 1-5.

YALE WEAK IN RESERVES, HARVARD'S PROSPECTS UNCERTAIN, SAYS JONES

LATERAL PASS AND GILLIGAN, SOPH QUARTER, CRIMSON HOPES

By Tad Jones.

Member Football Committee, Yale University.

While many of the elevens of the Eastern section swung into action last Saturday, the real season does not open for the East until next Saturday. On that day most coaches will have an opportunity to get a real line on what the season holds in store.

TAD JONES.

Every coach has his problem — a problem which is rarely ever solved to his complete satisfaction. Yale seems unusually hard hit not only by graduation of regulars but of substitutes as well. In a situation of this kind the season may be half over before a final adjustment of personnel is accomplished. No university in the country is playing a more difficult schedule than the New Haven institution. Yale, in the first place, loses in Scott and Fishwick a pair of ends the equal of any playing football last year. Stevens and his coaching staff are facing a most difficult task in finding men to fill the shoes of such as Quarrier, Cox, Caldwell and Hammersly. Capt. Eddy fills the right tackle job and in Marting, a substitute last year, and Vincent, a freshman, may be found a suitable running mate.

Hall May Be Able to Play.

The injury to Norman Hall has left a big hole in the guard position, but in the course of time he may be able to play. With Hall in shape and Green, a regular of last year, together with Charlesworth, center, the Yale middle is well taken care of in case there are no accidents. New ends must be found. Wist and Crile are not quite large enough to take care over the burden, but are excellent reserves. Hubbard is the most likely successor to Cox, and Garvey can be counted on to do a good day's work at left halfback.

Decker and Hoben complete the backfield. In line reserves and backfield reserves lies Yale's great problem, and one not easily solved.

Princeton apparently is not entirely satisfied with the line situation. Whyte and Barfield, regular tackles from last year and seasoned ends, and Miles and Wittmer in the backfield, give the Orange and Black a nucleus that is unusually strong. Princeton's losses do not appear as heavy as usual but this does not mean that the Tigers will place a smoothly running team on the field for the first games. Captain Howe, Miles and Wittmer are unusual performers and fortunately for Princeton are in key positions that is where men of their caliber will do the most good.

Harvard's Prospects Uncertain.

Harvard is at best a trifle uncertain at this moment but the Crimson possesses rare possibilities for development. In Captain French, Guarnaccia, Harper and Gilligan, Harvard has a backfield combination which in speed and power is the equal of any on the field. The effectiveness of this combination will depend largely upon Gilligan, the sophomore quarterback whose record as a freshman was splendid. The Crimson must seek and find a pair of ends, must uncover a running mate for Clark at tackle and may find him in Murchis.

Last year Harvard concentrated upon the lateral pass and made this type of offense more effective than any other Eastern institution. Last year the lateral pass received unusual protection which has been removed this season, for the unsuccessful pass now carries with it possible loss of the ball. In my opinion, the Crimson coaches will be unwilling to toss into discard all of the work and progress made in the lateral pass but will work it into the general scheme of attack in every possible way.

If Dartmouth had a weakness last year it was in the forward line—it was certainly not in the back field. If reports from Hanover are true, this line weakness will not exist during the season of 1928. There is no attack in football more deceptive than that used by the Dartmouth eleven, but the defense must improve.

With the possible exception of one man in the person of Gentle, halfback, the Penn team is made up entirely of veterans and substitutes of last year. Utz has been shifted from guard to tackle and should be a wonder in the new position. With Smith as a running mate to Utz, Penn will be exceptionally fortunate in tackles. Wistgate at center and guards to be chosen from Magol, Warren and Mark will complete a very strong forward line. With an even break Penn will have one of the best elevens in the East.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK in ST. LOUIS

"For 20 years I've had a Savings Account with the First National Bank"

—Said the elderly man to his nephew.

"I like this big institution because it is centrally located and I always find a genuine spirit of friendliness and helpfulness in its great savings department, which has made my banking relations there both pleasant and profitable.

My advice to you and other young men in St. Louis is to open a Savings Account with this large national bank, save something regularly during your productive years...and lay your foundation of good credit early in life with an institution that is well known wherever its name is mentioned."

Thousands of young men who know the value of a good banking connection are saving successfully at "the First".

Altrock Would Pitch First Game; To Know by Jan. 1

By Nick Altrock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—I look for plenty of batting in this world serum. There has been over 1000 homers smacked by both leagues. And that's a pretty good fruit and berry season.

The National League leads the American by over 100 homers and if 15 round trippers aren't nailed in the series then everybody will be disappointed except the pitchers.

There is one record which isn't liable to be busted and that is the 86,000 attendance between the Yankee's and the A's in New York in September.

Boys, 86,000 people is a lot of company. And remember that the turnstiles don't count the police and firemen which bring the total up to 123,980.

Everybody is glad that the pennant races is over because it looked like the umpires would have to eat their Thanksgiving dinner in uniform.

I have asked for a chance to pitch in the first game and Judge Landis told me he would think the matter over. I should know definitely by the first of the year.

Connie Mack told me that he was going to the games to see what the Yankees' faces look like. Connie said, "All I have seen all year is their backs."

OF COURSE WE'LL PITCH TO RUTH, WRITES OLD PETE

By Grover Alexander
Famous Pitcher, St. Louis Cardinals.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—One question that was pumped at us pretty often just before the world series of 1926 has been absent from the list this year, and I guess that's because the fans remember what we did then and know that we certainly will follow the same procedure. That is the old question as to whether we are going to pitch to Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. Of course we are going to pitch to both of them. We stopped those sluggers in 1926, except in one game where young pitchers put the ball in the wrong spot and the Babe slammed it out of the park, and we have a better chance of stopping them this year, for neither Ruth nor Gehrig is as dangerous as he was last year or the year before. Ruth has tumbled far down—for him—and we'll treat him just as we would any other hitter.

Don't get me wrong about Ruth. He's a great hitter. And in a close game he's dangerous, whether he's batting .450 or .250. It might happen that we'd find him at the plate with a runner on third base, or third and second. The score might be tied and the run on third base would be the only one that mattered. In a pinch like that it would be good baseball to pass an ordinary hitter and certainly to pass Ruth. But Ruth right now is not a great menace and we don't expect him to cause us any trouble.

Hitting Strength in Every Spot.

One good thing about our ball club is that our hitting strength is distributed right down the line, with any man likely to break up the game. That makes it tough for the other pitchers. Douthit is likely to start game with an extra base hit and down in eighth place we have Maranville, not a slugger, but a game little batter who knows as much baseball as anybody and who is always dangerous. You never know what he is going to do. Take any man in our line up and you'll find by looking back over the games of the year that he has done some great hitting in pinches to help us to this pennant.

"YANKEES UNFIT FOR SLUGGING MATCH"---RUTH

By Babe Ruth.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Hitting power in the coming world series probably will be the deciding factor.

In baseball all clubs fall into one of two classes. Either they are offensive clubs that play a slashing, slugging game, or they are defensive clubs that depend largely on their pitching and defensive play to win out.

RUTH.

The offensive clubs always play for their runs in bunches. The hit and run is their favorite weapon. Defensive clubs use the sacrifice, the steal and the squeeze more—and are content to score one or two runs. They depend on holding the other fellow to a low score rather than building up a large score for themselves.

So far as the contenders in the 1928 world series are concerned, they are what I would call offensive clubs. The Yankees are particularly that type. And the Cardinals likewise are a slugging, free hitting outfit though the Cardinals, I think, are more inclined to a defensive game than the Yankees.

The New York Cripples.

Both teams have well balanced hitting lineups—with plenty of punch all the way down. I don't believe there's a club in baseball can equal the Yankees for pure slugging power when the Yankees have their full strength in the field. Unfortunately, for this world series, we won't be up to full power.

Both Lazzeri and myself are crippled and though it is expected Earl Combs will play, he will be handicapped by a crippled arm. Having Earl out of there would be one of the toughest blows yet to fall to the Yankees, and we've had plenty of tough ones this season. Earl's value isn't fully appreciated by the fans, but any ball player can tell you that he's not only the best center fielder in the American League today, but the best lead-off man in either league as well.

The Cardinals have plenty of hitting power. Men like Frisch, Douthit, Bottomley, Hafey and Harper figure to give any pitcher trouble. So far as the Yankees are concerned, I believe the Cardinal hitters will trouble us more than any other team. Hoyt, of course, will give any club a battle when he's right and he ought to be just as good against the Cards as against the American League clubs.

Change of Pace Hard for Yanks.

The Yankee hitters are the type that have a lot more trouble with a smart, clever pitcher than they do with a pitcher who has a world of stuff. A good curve ball and a fast one, in themselves, won't stop the Yankees. We proved that when we trimmed Lefty Grove in six out of seven starts.

Game Warden to Resign

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 3.—J. B. Doze, for the last five years Fish and Game Warden of Kansas, will resign Oct. 15 to become editorial advisor and managing director of the Wichita Evening Eagle, he announced yesterday. Doze was managing editor of the Eagle prior to his appointment to the State office in 1923.

Yanks Lost With Pennock Out, Says Walter Johnson

By Walter Johnson.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—In all my twenty-three years in baseball I have never seen such races as this year produced. Right down to the wire most of them went. Our own International League race is an example and here the big fellows fight right down to the finish as we have in the minors.

Naturally, having been in the American League, I have always pulled for the American League in the world's series. And I might be pulling for them still. I won't divulge that secret. But I don't believe the Yankees will win the world's series. The Yanks were a good ball club to start the season, but they have just struggled in.

"Yanks Lost Without Pennock."

Herb Pennock always has been their mainstay in world series play and while he pitched good baseball most of this year, he is not now anything like his old self, and without Pennock they are lost.

At present it looks like Hoyt might be the only Yank pitcher capable of holding his own in the series. But it will take more than one good pitcher to pull the Yankees through the coming world championship play.

The club as a whole is not ready to face the power and dash of a team like the Cardinals. Ruth is not hitting like he should and Lazzeri's injury has been a severe handicap. He is a great ball player and the fact he has played but little has lessened the morale of the club as a whole. He, no doubt, will play, but he won't be himself. There have been three or four really high-class ball clubs in the National League this year, and a club capable of finishing first in such a league and such a race is capable of beating any American League club this year.

Praises Cards' Pitchers.

The Cards have a young hustling outfield and Bottomley on first is an outstanding player and dangerous in the series. Then, too, the Card pitching staff is better able to carry off the majority of games in the coming series.

I can't help from rooting for an old fellow like Alexander. He and I were pitching when a lot of these boys were in grade school.

Cards Find No Rest With Flag Won; Are Eager to Play

York after they had won the pennant, and that the delightful way in which they celebrated their victory made him believe that they had a fine spirit and would defeat the Cardinals.

However, it is going to be hard for Fine Spirit, even if coupled in the betting with Esprit de Corps, to stop the Cardinals. Comparing the teams, man for man, and considering the crippled condition of the American Leaguers, it is more and more difficult to see where the Yankees have anything more than an outside chance.

Bottomley certainly does not have to step back for Lou Gehrig, even if the Yankees has the edge in batting. Jim is noted as a great man in the pinch. He hits right-handers and left-handers with equal skill and is recognized as far superior as a fielder.

Lazzeri is said to be throwing with his undershirt, instead of muscles, and there is no comparison at that position, with agile Frankie Frisch performing for the Cardinals.

Two "Extra Outfielders."

Maranville is a better fielder than Koenig, a great man on pop flies. He and Frisch give the Cards two extra outfielders and enable the regular fly chasers to play back farther than would be possible with an ordinary pair of fielders at short and second.

Andy High is no great star as a fielder, but he is a good money player and it would be a safe bet that he will outplay any guardian that Miller Huggins can assign to the hot corner. If Gene Robertson is put at third it will be a battle of two St. Louis boys at the position, for Gene and Andy are products of the Mound City diamonds.

St. Louis will have a big edge in the outfield, defensively and offensively, in view of Babe Ruth's poor showing this season. The Bambino suddenly quit hitting home runs as the team entered the stretch and he played most of the late season games on his nerve. Hafey, Douthit and Harper or Holm will be a much more dependable combination in the field than Ruth, Paschal or Durst and Bob Meusel.

Huggins has one pitcher who is considered likely to stop the Cardinals. That one is Waite Hoyt and, baseball men, fanning over the series prospects, are inclined to doubt whether his style will bother the Cardinals this year, and they say if he doesn't stop them, nobody will.

No Pennock This Time.

Zachary and Heimach may surprise the critics, but only the best left-handers have bothered the Cardinals this year. Hubbell of the Giants and Clark of the Dodgers caused them much trouble, but Hubbell is more than a left-hander. He is a screw ball artist, who pitches much after the fashion of Hubert Pruett. Zachary is just a left-hander. He is crafty, it is true, but he has neither great speed nor baffling curves and that is the combination required to stop the Cardinals. Heimach is an unknown quantity. He has pitched bad and good games since the Yankees acquired him from the American Association, and he will have to do some fancy throwing to get the ball past the Red Birds of 1928.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is fair and warmer.

There has been no noticeable influx of fans from other cities for this series and the hotels are not hanging out the "cots only" signs. Few St. Louisans have appeared thus far.

Donald Anderson arrived today and Dr. Robert F. Hyland, the club surgeon for the Browns and Cardinals, registered at the champions hotel.

Louis Steinberg, stockholder in the Cardinals, has been here for more than a week, and his brother, Mark Steinberg, is expected tomorrow. Steinberg was a director in the Cardinals' club during their world series year of 1926, but he disapproved of the Hornsby trade and resigned from the board.

M'GRAW SAYS CARDS' BIGGEST ASSET IS SPEED

By John J. McGraw Manager New York Giants.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. — The strongest element that favors the Cardinals in this big series with the Yankees is their superiority in speed. I would have characterized this as "base running," but a great many baseball lovers misunderstand that term.

McGRAW.

Base running to the average fan means base stealing and the minute you mention it he will instinctively turn to the records to see what players have stolen the most bases. Some of our best base runners have no exceptional record of stealing bases. In fact, there are very few bases stolen or few attempted steals in a big series.

Therefore, I use the word "speed." The real art and effectiveness of base running is the taking of an extra base on a long hit or the ability to judge distance and speed so accurately as to advance to the objective base on a hit and run play. Again speed counts heavily when a runner reaches second. A fast man can easily score on a single. A slower man will have to pull up at third and spoil the whole play.

Cards Much Faster.

There is no question in my mind about the Cardinals being superior to the Yankees in speed. With few exceptions every man on the club is fast while the Yankees have comparatively slower men in Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and their catchers. Babe Ruth is a good base runner but I understand his injuries have slowed him up considerably.

I hear that it is possible that Earl Combs may get in a game or two. If he does the base running speed of the Yankees will be materially helped. He is their fastest man on the paths. The injury to his wrist, naturally, would not affect the speed of his legs. If he can get in at all he will be of tremendous help.

Now on the Cardinals there are several fast men. Hafey gets around quickly and so do Bottomley, Douthit and Wilson. For a catcher Jimmy Wilson is unusually fast. Then there is Frankie Frisch. In my opinion Frisch will be the outstanding base runner of the series.

Frisch is not only excellent on running out hits and taking the extra base but he is one of the best base stealers in the business.

Personally, I hope to see Joe Dugan in the series. I regard Dugan as one of the greatest ball players in the country. He always shines in a world series and it will be a downright calamity if he is unable to take part. With Dugan in shape the chances of the Yankees would be immeasurably brighter.

Players like Ruth and Dugan with their world's series experience will help Huggins a lot even if they are not in the best physical shape. The easy, confident way they go at things gives the younger men a feeling of assurance.

Great Defensive Asset.

This natural speed not only helps a ball club on the offensive but it is an immensely important factor in defense.

Looking at the two teams with an eye on defensive strength the Cardinals do not suffer by comparison. Bottomley is somewhat faster and more experienced at first than Gehrig and he also is a hard hitter. They strike a pretty even balance. At second, Frankie Frisch has superior speed as well as experience.

I couldn't say that Rabbit Maranville is still a speed merchant but he has a quality of steadiness and fighting spirit that will count heavily. His gameness did a lot toward the Cardinals winning the pennant. Mark Koenig is much younger and consequently a little faster.

The third base situation depends largely upon the ability of Dugan to play his game. High of the Cardinals will also give a good account of himself. He is always a good man in a pinch, whether in the field or at the bat.

It is in the outfield where the Cardinals show speed superiority. This, of course, is based on the chances of Earl Combs not being able to play. If he is in the outfield it will be more evenly balanced.

Combs is one of the fastest men on both teams. His throwing arm is weak, compared with those of his rivals. He is a sure fielder, though, and shines on the base paths.

Douthit and Hafey are both fast and both good throwers. Hafey can throw like a shot. The right field of the Cardinals depends on whether the pitcher is right or left handed. Against right-handers either Harper or Orsatti is dangerous. Holm is strong against southpaws. Taking it as a whole, with the Yankees in a more or less crippled condition, the Cardinals have a decided advantage all around in speed.

The particular effect of their speed, though, will be felt on the offensive.

Huggins Entering Series With No Illusions, He Writes

By Miller Huggins
Manager New York Yankees.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

I have no illusions about the Cardinals. I recognize them for what they are—a mighty powerful, well balanced, dangerous ball club.. They can field and they can hit. They have pitching strength of the most troublesome sort—for their pitchers are all old, and wise and experience. They have courage. They proved that during the season when they battled on foreign fields to clinch a pennant after six monhts of the hardest sort of going.

But the same thing that I've said about the Cardinals goes for the Yankees' too. I'm proud of this Yankee ball club—and I'll still be proud of them whether they win or lose the series. I've watched them through the season and I know them for what they are — the most courageous, hard-fighting ball club I've ever been connected with in a good many years of baseball experience.

HUGGINS.

Some people think that our defeat by the Cardinals two years ago will affect Yankee play in this series. I don't think so. Two years ago, when we played the Cardinals, the Yankees were a young club, inexperienced and green. Three men on that 1926 infield, for instance, were playing their first season of big league baseball and their first world series. The Yankee club which will face the Cardinals this year is normally 50 per cent stronger than the 1926 club, and despite injuries, I believe the club as a whole is still 25 per cent stronger than that 1926 club. Probably the Cardinals are stronger, too. They should be. For they have had that additional experience, too.

"Mental Attitude My Chief Concern."

But I'm not concerned about the Cardinals. If they are better than we are, they deserve to win. My chief concern, 24 hours before the series opens, is to send my players into the series with a mental attitude which will insure them playing to the best of their mechanical ability.

Strange as it may seem to the casual observer, I am not worried about my pitching. True, I have not Pennock, and Pennock is the greatest world series pitcher I ever saw. But I have known for a long time that Pennock wouldn't be in there—and I've made the best of it. In Hoyt, Pipgras and Zachary I believe we have three men capable of making trouble for any ball club. And in a short series like this a three-man staff can carry on as well as a five or six man staff.

My hitting ought to be strong. The Yankees, following a slump of six weeks, have been hitting with power during the past two weeks and seem to be nearing the crest of their slugging power once more. I believe they will go into the series hitting just as well as they have the past two weeks.

Cards' Pitchers Are Top Notch.

To say that the St. Louis pitchers won't trouble us would be nonsense. Smart, crafty pitchers such as Bill McKechnie has will be tough for any club any time. But I believe the Yankee pitchers will be just as troublesome to the Cardinals.

As a manager I can't worry about mechanical shortcomings. After all, the manager of a ball club can't hit, he can't pitch and he can't run bases for his team. All he can hope to do is direct the play and maintain always the mental attitude which will get the most from his players.

I have never believed in too detailed direction of a ball game. I have faith in my players, else I wouldn't keep them. I believe in letting them play their own game to a large degree and I shall follow that same policy in the world series.

I think we can win, despite our injuries, for I know the capabilities of my club. If we do, that will be fine. If we don't, it will be because the Cardinals, during the series, play better, faster baseball.

PENNOCK, COMBS OUT OF BIG SERIES, PHYSICIANS ASSERT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

REPORTS that Herb Pennock, crack Yankee southpaw, who has been out of the game since August with a bad attack of neuritis, would be able to pitch in the world's series were described by his physicians today as without the slightest foundation.

It is understood that Pennock's condition puts him definitely out of the series and that his future career in baseball is in doubt.

Earle Combs, New York Yankee center fielder, was also definitely eliminated from the world series opening tomorrow, when he tried out his injured wrist today and found that he could not bat. Physicians said positively that he could not start, and probably would not be available for any duty during the series.

TWO ST. LOUIS U. REGULARS LOST TO TEAM THROUGH APPENDICITIS

DAVIDSON AND BABKA UNDERGO OPERATIONS; OUT FOR YEAR

Misfortune last night struck the St. Louis U. football squad in two places, simultaneously and in the same form. Eddie Davidson, center, and Joe Babka, tackle, both regulars, were operated upon for appendicitis shortly after midnight at St. John's Hospital after suddenly becoming ill yesterday, and will be out of the lineup for the remainder of the season.

Joe Maxwell, another candidate who has a good chance of becoming a regular, was discharged from St. John's yesterday following an operation on his throat. He will be out of the game for three weeks.

The St. Louis University varsity will take the defensive against the plays of the Springfield Teachers, Saturday's opponent, in today's workouts. The Freshman squad will run off the enemy formations, as scouted by "Bucky" Dahman, "Hunk" Anderson's assistant.

The varsity took the offensive against the freshmen yesterday afternoon and made the best showing so far this season. There was none of the listless play that marked the McKendree game and the backs made steady gains behind good interference. The work of Charley Eaton, one of the fastest men on the squad, was especially impressive on end runs with "Sankes" Gazelle shining on off-tackle attempts.

Anderson drove the squad at a fast clip yesterday and will hold lengthy scrimmages again today and tomorrow. Signal practice will conclude the preparation for Springfield on Friday.

Maplewood Works Hard for Game With Normandy

By Henry L. Freund

Coach Wahlbrink at Maplewood is working his squad hard in preparation for the Normandy game to be played at Maplewood, Friday. The team has been greatly strengthened by the return of Fieldson, who was an all-county fullback last year. Blanchard and Al Bruno are two other all-star players again at Maplewood this season. Maplewood scrimmaged C. B. C. last week and, while the defensive work of the team was satisfactory, the offense appeared weak and much attention is being paid to this phase of the game.

Clayton is also having stiff practice sessions for the Kirkwood game, Saturday morning. Coach Hall has been forced to rearrange his battle front, as one of his first string tackles has moved out of the Clayton school district. The weight of his team has been considerably reduced and the general average will be about 145 pounds.

Webster Groves has a squad of lettermen and experienced players. East St. Louis High, Webster's opponent Saturday, is of unknown strength. Coach Roberts has sent the squad through several scrimmages in which Capt. Tyrell has shown to advantage. Sibley, Woods and Ramsey are also showing well in practice.

Webster's Schedule

Oct. 6—Webster at East St. Louis.
Oct. 20—De Soto at Webster.
Oct. 27—Webster at Fulton.
Nov. 3—Webster at Maplewood.
Nov. 10—Clayton at Webster.
Nov. 17—Soldan at Webster.
Nov. 29—Kirkwood at Webster.

MEN......WOMEN

The average man at 30 is married and earns from $25 to $30 a week.

If you can convince one man a week to save $2 a week, and can increase your personal efficiency 10% a year, you can have an average income of over $7000 a year during the next 15 years in this business.

We have men and women earning $5000 to $15,000 a year.

Some of our most successful associates formerly were teachers, lawyers, business men, office managers, stenographers, nurses, clerks, carpenters, mechanics, housewives, policemen, firemen and milk men.

No experience necessary, as we will teach a few ambitious men and women the science of selling and they can learn this business in their spare time and make some extra money, without interfering in any way with their present business.

There will be no charge of any kind whatever, at any time.

The opening lecture will be at 8:15 Monday evening, Oct. 8 in our lecture hall at 3664 Olive.

If interested arrange to come and drop us a line stating you will be here.

W. Henry Lambert will conduct the course.

Supply and Demand

'Tis the voice of the rooter,
I hear him complain:
"I'm going to miss the world series again.
I sent my request with a certified check,
But all that I get is a pain in the neck."

'Tis the voice of the owner I hear him repeat:
"By squeezing ten customers into one seat,
I'd maybe be able to meet the demand,
And give everybody a seat in the stand."

But in a world series that's always the way
With everyone wanting to witness the fray;
The owner perhaps could get rid of the knocks
By stretching the single seats into a box.

The Cards.

John McGraw says that Bottomley and Hafey are always dangerous. Indicating that John has been looking in Bill McKechnie's hand.

"Sheppard, 18th Amendment Author on Tour for Smith."

We take it the drys regard Sheppard as a wolf in sheep's clothing.

See where a police Captain in Philadelphia was indicted 52 times by one grand jury. He comes near being in 57 varieties of a pickle.

"Chicago Halfback Will Wear Glasses This Fall."

He'll be out of luck if the breaks go against him.

The radio will bring the world series which opens in New York tomorrow, right into the home. Next to a seat in the grandstand!!

After the parade was over we interviewed the Veiled Prophet in accordance with our annual custom. We'll not say anything at this time about what he said in regard to the world series as it might influence the betting.

The old boy doesn't look a day older than he did fifty years ago. He and old Pete Alexander broke into the big league at about the same time and both are still going strong.

It was the old V. P., himself who invented what is known as the "Veiled Prophet" ball which he is using with effect to this day.

The Prophet was quite disappointed and not a little surprised when we told him that the River des Peres was still uncovered. He expressed the hope that there would be a better report next year.

He was particularly pleased but not a bit surprised at the splendid showing made by the Browns. He said to watch their smoke next year.

"$95 Bid, $105 Asked for Cardinal Stock."

WRAY'S COLUMN

Lest We Forget.

THE tumult and the shouting of 1926 are likely to be repeated here next Saturday afternoon, when the Cardinals return from their world series engagement at Yankee Field.

The tremendous turnout to see the Cardinals two years ago suffered a distinct setback. Our heroes, instead of being visible to all, were hidden away in closed automobiles.

Policemen stood on the running boards of the players' machines and still further blocked observers.

Only those persons directly beside the vehicles were treated to a good view of the pennant winners.

There will be another parade of the players next Saturday, it is intimated. In the interest of thousands who will be in the city for the sole purpose of getting a look at the St. Louis players it is suggested that automobiles without tops be employed, and the police escort be asked to walk along side the vehicles.

Of what use is a parade if the heroes are hidden?

It Could Be Done.

WHILE "most valuable players" are soon to be named by the respective commissions of the National and American leagues, the Baseball Commissioner might add some interest to the post-championship season by having his own office name a series of "most valuable" men, whose distinguished services in their respective field during 1928 have entitled them to consideration. He could, for example, award a distinguished service medal to

The most valuable player in the country (BOTH leagues).
The most valuable umpire.
The most valuable manager.
The most valuable pitcher.

The commisisoner's office might also, make up an entire team of players each of whom in his respective position, rendered the most valuable of rivals.

Supported by figures, this might enliven the fall months after the echoes of the world's series have died away.

UNOFFICIALLY, St. Louis might have a considerable chance of representaton in such a list. For example:

Bottomley would almost certainly get strong consideration for the most valuable player to his team in both major leagues.

Dan Howley would surely get first consideration as the manager who had accomplished most for his club.

Sam Gray and Crowder couldn't be overlooked among the pitchers of vital importance.

As for the most valuable umpire, we leave that for the fans, to say it with flowers.

But, if the family plate was on the ball game, Bill Klem for ours!

Can't Insult This Dame.

TONY CANZONERI is without one featherweight title today because he insulted a lady. In fact, he abused Dame Nature scandalously. He paid the reckoning.

Tony meant well enough. He thought the old dame meant him to be a featherweight when, as a matter of ocular demonstration, she day by day tried to flag him the information that he was a junior lightweight.

Every time he weighed, she screamed it at him. But Tony went along figuring on the 126-pound maximum. When it came to the day of his fight he found the old lady was right. He was two pounds over the limit.

Still Tony couldn't believe it. He went into a sweat bath and steamed and worked until he took off 2½ pounds.

"There you are," said Tony proudly, as the commissioners scaled him. "I told you I was a featherweight"

But he wasn't. He was just a fool. He outraged Nature and she paid him pound for pound.

Midway through his battle with the challenger, whom he had buffeted around with ease for six rounds, something went back on Tony. It was the Old Lady collecting her dues.

And his beaten foe also collected. He gathered in the world's title all because Toney passed out half way through his fight. He left the other half of his fight in the Turkish bath.

Tony tried to make a lightweight into a featherweight, which can't be done.

A Real Champion.

MANY doubt if Routis, Tony's conqueror in the bout is of championship timber. He is 28 years old and has been on the losing end of the argument in no fewer than 14 fights. Tony Canzoneri defeated him two years ago, when he (Canzoneri) was able to do the poundage. Joe Glick twice defeated him last year. At Routis' age it is improbably that he is improving.

What chance he would have against men like Sangor Bass Blitman, Taylor and other top-rank fighters is not guesswork. It is highly probable that he would not gain a decision from any one of the men named.

FORMER SOLDAN PLAYER STARS AT MISSOURI U.

Carl "Dutch" Johanningmeier was appointed captain of the St. Louis squad of the freshmen elevens at Missouri University, according to word received here. This team is selected from players from St. Louis and its environs and includes some of the stars developed in high school circles. Johanningmeier is one of the mainstays of the squad.

Johanningmeier, who was captain of the Soldan High School last year, was selected by the coaches of the high schools for the mythical all-star eleven, on the basis of his excellent play in the backfield for the West End team.

ILLINOIS NINE PLANS OTHER TRIPS TO JAPAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 3.—So successful in every way was the recent trip of the University of Illinois baseball team to Japan that if possible the Illini nine will travel to the land of the Nipponese every three years from now on.

This is the plan of George Huff, director of physical welfare, who believes that it will be a great stimulus to interest baseball in the university. If it is carried out, every baseball player in the university will have an opportunity to win a place on the team which travels across the Pacific.

The Illini stay in Japan was brief as the visit was arranged late in the year but a lot of baseball was crammed in. Lundgren's men played 11 games and made an excellent record, winning seven, losing three and tieing one.

ALESMAN'S THROAT CUT BY NEGRO HE REPRIMANDED

The throat of William R. Cole, [illegible] years old, a salesman, of 3840A Olive street, was slashed by one of a group of Negroes with whom he had an altercation at Washington boulevard and Beaumont street at 2:30 a. m. today.

Cole, who is in a serious condition at City Hospital, told police he was walking west in Washington boulevard and at Beaumont street had to step off the sidewalk to pass six Negroes, three men and three women.

Several Negroes made insulting remarks, Cole said, and, when he remonstrated with them, one of the men drew a knife and cut him. He was taken to the hospital by a motorist. Police are searching for the Negroes.

PAWNEE CHIEF DIES AT 102

Ruling-His-Son, Former Scout, Fought in U. S. Army in 1872.

By the Associated Press.

PAWNEE, Ok., Oct. 3.—Ruling-His-Son, 102-year-old patriarchal chief of the Pawnees and former United States army scout, died here today. The aged warrior came to Oklahoma in 1872 from Nebraska. He had fought with the army against the Sioux and Cheyennes under Maj. Frank North.

Six years ago he returned to the old Pawnee reservation in Nebraska to attend a celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Massacre Canyon. Several Sioux Indians were there and it was with difficulty that Ruling-His-Son was restrained from violence. The battle of Massacre Canyon was the last fought between the Sioux and Pawnees. A buffalo hunting party of the Pawnees was ambushed and among the victims were one of Ruling-His-Son's wives and one of his children. He never forgave the Sioux.

Lake Sewage Plant Set to Work.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The sanitary district of Chicago today made constructive reply to the complaints of Great Lakes states, when it set in operation its $31,000,000 north side sewage treatment plant, the first of three to be built and regarded as the largest in the world. Construction of the plant and others contemplated was begun at the instance of the Secretary of War, who adjudicated the complaints of New York, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Canada, that Chicago was diverting lake water to the detriment of lake navigation in reversing the flow of the Chicago River, which carries sewage to the drainage canal.

'Graf Zeppelin' Weathers Squall on North Sea Trip

Seventy-Two Persons Aboard During Dress Rehearsal of Airship for Trans-Atlantic Flight.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 3.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, completing its last test flight before a projected voyage to the United States, landed safely at Friedrichshafen at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon after 34½ hours in the air.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
Special Wireless Dispatch.

ON BOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, Over the North Sea, Oct. 2 (Tuesday).—The German air liner Graf Zeppelin gave a full dress rehearsal for its trans-Atlantic flight today. The airship weathered a storm, bucked turbulent head winds for hours, demonstrating efficiency and stability in dirty weather as well as in sunshine.

For the first time since the War, England had a glimpse of a German Zeppelin when, just before 9 o'clock this evening, we crossed the English Coast at Yarmouth, before turning back to the North Sea.

With 73 persons aboard, the Graf Zeppelin left Friederichshafen at 7 o'clock sharp this morning, for an endurance run. The 22 passengers included the "Zeppelin Girl," as friends are now dubbing Lady Drummond Hay, and Katherine Chimb von Kardoff, "Katenka," Germany's feminist leader.

After breaking its own speed record by making 84 miles an hour for two hours, the air liner ran into a squall at the edge of a thunderstorm near Nuremburg. Reports from Berlin of bad weather course of Wurzburg and Frankcourse for Wuerzburg and Frankfort and down the picturesque Rhine over Cologne, Dusseldorff and Essen in the heart of the German industrial district, and thence to Rotterdam, bucking the head winds all the way. The winds varied from 20 to 30 miles an hour.

Extraordinary enthusiasm greeted the airship at every city and town. Along the Rhine two French military planes circle the ship and accompanied us for many miles the flyers waving enthusiastically and coming close enough to take photographs of the great liner in flight.

Out over the North Sea we went, where Dr. Eckener wished to make some navigation tests and also, I suspect, give the crew and those of us who are booked for America the feel of seeing nothing but water below.

Rotterdam by night presented a gorgeous picture, as all the ships in the harbor greeted us with sirens. The North Sea 300 feet down looked cold.

Turning back from the coast of England, Dr. Eckener plans to be back to Berlin by 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Giant German Airship Pays Visit to English Coast.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—After paying a visit to England, the new German dirigible "Graf Zeppelin" arrived here at 9 a. m. today.

As the giant airship soared over the city in the bright sunshine thousands flocked to the streets and saw it make a graceful loop over Wilhelmstrasse and newspaper row.

Flowers for President von Hindenburg attached to a small parachute were released as the airship passed over the executive palace, but they were carried six blocks beyond the building.

Upon leaving the English coast, the Zeppelin was maneuvered over the North Sea and passed over Borkum, one of the Frisian Islands, about midnight. It reached German territory at 2:25 a. m., and half an hour later cruised over Bremen. The craft reached Schleswig at 4:45 a. m., and two hours later the roar of the engines over Hamburg brought early risers into the streets to see the giant airship circling over the town.

YOAKUM FOR HOOVER ON FARM AID ISSUE

Former Frisco Head, a Democrat, Says Smith Has No Workable Policy.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—B. F. Yoakum, of New York, best known as builder of the Frisco Railroad system, has announced that, although he has been a life-long Democrat, he will vote for Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee. Yoakum declares that with the agricultural problem the foremost issue of the present campaign, he cannot accept Gov. Smith's position on the farm problem.

"Let us face the facts," he said. "The primary cause of the farmers' financial distress was the drastic and sudden deflation forced by the Federal Reserve Board, beginning in 1919-1920. No one can fool them about that. It cost them $30,000,000,000. Many thousands lost their all, and were sent adrift to seek labor in cities and towns.

"I have been waiting and hoping for some clear outstanding declaration from Gov. Smith for a sound, workable farm policy which would enable me to support my own party on this issue. It has not come.

"His Western speeches disclose the fact that he is supporting the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill. He does not seem to be able yet to swallow the 'equalization fee.' But the fee and that bill are inseparable.

"In his support of this measure and its fallacies I cannot follow Gov. Smith.

"The only real and enduring way in which the American farmer can conduct his own business profitably and retain his independence, can distribute and sell his products on an equality with other industries, is to establish a nation-wide farm commodity marketing system, founded on a solid business basis—farmer owned, farmer controlled, farmer operated, established with Government aid but without Government dictation.

"That is what Mr. Hoover has pledged himself to establish, and what I believe if elected he will do."

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—A statement attributed to Gov. Smith 21 months ago, to the effect that, as Governor of New York, he could think of no way to help the farmers, will be used in the Republican campaign. It was quoted at party headquarters today by Mrs. Alice Curtice Moyer Wing of Missouri, who will speak in Nebraska and other farm states.

The paragraph attributed to Gov. Smith, as having been spoken to the Albany Chamber of Commerce, Jan. 26, 1927, is:

"When the farmer stops sitting on top of the world and begins thinking and keeping the rules of economics, he will begin to help himself. I have suggested more new things in the last six years for the State than any other man, I fully believe, but I cannot think of any way to really help the farmers. If they could bring me a good suggestion I should be glad to adopt it. The fact is, they are the only ones who can save themselves."

Mrs. Wing, commenting on this, said:

"Gov. Smith promises big things, but offers no constructive plan. He talks about calling a committee together to talk things over. He is as hazy in 1928 as he was in 1927.

"Remember what Gov. Smith said last year, and don't let anyone make you believe that now he has changed and favors the equalization fee. Neither party favors it. Mr. Hoover has a plan ready to put into action. He knows what he is going to do and how he is going to do it. There is money in the Treasury and he favors using enough of it to carry out a constructive policy quickly and efficiently.

"Farmers want action. Smith promises only more conferences, but he has admitted that he has no plan of action. We have had enough conferences."

Smith Says He Can't See Where Hoover Has a Farm Plan.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Commenting on a newspaper account relating that B. F. Yoakum, former railroad president, had approved Herbert Hoover's farm relief plan, Gov. Smith said today: "I cannot for the life of me see where Mr. Yoakum can claim that Mr. Hoover has any plan."

"He said in his speech of acceptance that the tariff was the foundation of farm relief," the Democratic presidential nominee added. "Every student of the subject and every farm leader takes a directly opposite view. The whole contention all along has been that the tariff does not operate where the farmer produces more than is consumed. That is the basis of the whole thing."

The Governor said that no matter how high the tariff was driven on wheat, "if we have an exportable surplus and we are compelled to sell the whole crop at the price of the surplus, the tariff cannot operate. That is not a new principle; it was recognized long ago."

"The only cure for it that Mr. Hoover ever gave," the Governor continued, "was to reduce the acreage. But the Department of Agriculture says that that cannot be done, that the wheat production is beyond human control.

"I believe Yokum said something about the corporations to be formed by the farmers themselves. They are helpful, but there is no machinery provided to make them workable as to all the farmers. I disposed of that in my speech in Omaha when I said we could not have a Federal reserve system such as we now have by a few banks coming together and agreeing to do it. We could not do it that way; it must be done by law. The Government itself, with respect to the Federal reserve act, had to furnish the machinery to make that operate."

SMITH WELCOMED BY LARGE CROWD ON RETURN HOME

Nominee to Take Few Days' Rest Before Starting on Second Tour, Plans for Which Are Indefinite.

SATISFIED WITH NEW YORK TICKET

Declares Franklin D. Roosevelt, Named for Governor, Is Well Qualified for the Office.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Satisfied with the results of his first campaign speaking tour and the New York State ticket nominated yesterday at Rochester, Gov. Smith was back home today looking for a golf partner. He is anxious for a rest, a visit among his numerous pets in the zoo back of the executive mansion, and a round or two on the nearby country club links.

When the presidential nominee will start out on his next campaign tour will be decided some time this week. Many cities in the South, the Middle West and border states have been mentioned for speeches on the second trip, but only in a tentative way.

Both at the railroad station and at the executive mansion, crowds turned out last night to welcome the nominee and his party home. Bearing torches and banners reading: "Welcome home, you have won the West, the East is yours," a large gathering sent up a whoop when he alighted from his special train at Union Station and followed his automobile on foot to his home, a mile away.

Here, another crowd, holding red lights and torches aloft, sent up a cheer when the touring car, with top down and the Governor and Mrs. Smith in plain view, turned into the executive mansion driveway.

Speaking of the State ticket Smith said he could not have hoped for a better ticket, with Franklin D. Roosevelt, the man who nominated him for the presidency at Houston and four years ago at Madison Square Garden, heading the slate as gubernatorial nominee.

Relating how he urged Roosevelt, a former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, to run, Smith said:

"The convention nominated Mr. Roosevelt with full assurance that he would take the post of state leadership. I simply told him that the convention was unanimous for him, that the Democratic party needed him, and that I didn't see how he could refuse.

"Frank Roosevelt today mentally is as good as he ever was. His whole trouble is in his lack of muscular control of his lower limbs. But the answer is that a Governor doesn't have to be an acrobat. We do not elect him for his ability to do a double back flip or a handspring."

The Governor said he thought Roosevelt, who was Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1920, would conduct an active campaign even though this, in his opinion, was unnecessary.

"As I look at the two tickets," he declared, "the people of the state will be able to make their decision without much campaigning, but they will get it anyway."

TOLL BRIDGE MADE FREE

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—The Hannibal bridge, one of two remaining toll bridges over the Missouri River in Missouri, was made free yesterday when officials of Kansas City signed an agreement with the Burlington Railroad, owner of the structure, by which the city contracts to maintain the bridge roadway in return for free communication with Richards Airport, municipal flying field, across the river in Clay County.

POWER GROUP INVITED COOLIDGE TO SPEAK

Had Not Much Chance to Bag Such Big Game, Secretary Thought.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Correspondence between J. A. Switzer of Knoxville, Tenn., secretary of the Southern Appalachian Power Conference, and W. J. Baldwin of the Alabama Power Co., Birmingham, Ala., introduced today in the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of power utilities, indicated a close co-operation between the conference and utilities groups in the South.

Writing to Baldwin Aug 25, 1927, Switzer said a politician to whom he had shown the printed proceedings of the two previous conference meetings had remarked that "nearly all of your members are representatives of power companies."

"This gentleman was somewhat mistaken," wrote Switzer, "but it is true nevertheless that a large portion of those interested in our organization are power people."

Switzer's letter was in connection with arrangements for the 1927 convention, and he suggested that attendance from the power companies should be supplemented as much as possible. He inclosed to Baldwin a copy of the tentative program and proposed "for the power companies to use their influence to get the larger power users in their several systems to attend this meeting."

Switzer also informed Baldwin that President Coolidge had been invited by letter to attend the convention, and that the invitation would be supplemented by the Mayor and the Chamber of Commerce of Chattanooga.

"I don't suppose there is much chance of our bagging any such big game," he added, "but there is no harm in making the effort."

Earlier Thorndike Saville of Chapel Hill, N. C., former treasurer of the conference, had testified that the organization was originally sponsored by geological surveys of various Southern states and that subsequently power companies had become interested in its work and had helped to support it financially. He denied that the conference had gone on record in opposition to Government operation of power utilities, saying that he could recall no instance of such action. Records of the 1927 convention disclosed, however, that resolutions in opposition to Government operation of utilities, and of the Muscle Shoals project especially, had been adopted.

NORMAN THOMAS DECLARES PROHIBITION IS NOT ISSUE

Real Need Is to Take Personal Element Out of Politics, He Tells Students.

By the Associated Press.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 3.—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency, said yesterday the prohibition issue could not be settled by partisan politics.

In an address before University of North Carolina students, he declared "prohibition is not a national issue at all. There are numerous wet Republicans and just as many dry Democrats who are sticking absolutely to party lines. Rum, race and religion have been played up and the real issues of the campaign slighted."

Thomas said there were "too few essential differences between the two major parties."

"The Socialists," he declared, "are vitally interested in the deep underlying social problems. They refuse to be distracted from these problems by endless talk of rum, race and religion. The Socialists are in this fight to build our own party as an instrument of emancipation for the workers. Such highly vital issues as foreign policy have received no mention whatsoever from Republicans or Democrats. The real need of the country today is to take the personal element out of politics and face real issues, not irrelevancies."

MEXICO-UNITED STATES AIR MAIL SERVICE STARTS

First Plane From the South Delayed by Excited Crowds at Airports.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 3.—With the two-way hookup of Mexican air mail lines with those of the United States accomplished, postoffice officials turned their energies today to ironing out schedules and putting the international service on an "on time" basis.

The first plane from this country reached Mexico City yesterday. The first plane from Mexico City reached the border late yesterday afternoon, almost 24 hours behind schedule. The delay, in part, was due to the enthusiasm in Mexican towns on the route.

Eduardo Hay, Mexican Undersecretary of Communications, who came from Mexico City with the first consignment of mail, was enthusiastic and predicted that within a week the planes would be coming in on time. High mountains which were urged as an objection to the route through Laredo, were cleared without difficulty, his pilot, Luis Boyer, said.

ENGLISH BISHOPS DEPLORE NATION'S MORAL DECLINE

Declare Conditions That Preceded Revolt Against Christianity in France and Russia Are Present.

CONFLICTING WINGS OF CHURCH REBUKED

Gloucester Prelate Asserts That Disestablishment Is One Solution of Acute Problem.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.
London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The future of English morality and of religion were declared to be in the gravest danger by three Bishops who spoke at the opening of the sixty-seventh church conference of the Church of England at Cheltenham yesterday.

The most outspoken on the subject of what is happening to English morals and religion, was Dr. Hensley Henson, Bishop of Durham.

Commenting on the recent changes in the general attitude towards Christianity, he said: "The two pillars on which morality in Christianity has rested have been the acceptance of the marriage union as permanent by divine law and the existence and claims of the child as the proper product of the marriage union.

"Both these pillars have been removed by the licentious theories now largely accepted in Europe. There is no divine law—only the shifting social convention. The birth of children may be deliberately excluded from married life. Hence the chaos into which morality has fallen throughout western civilization.

Deplores Lack of Christianity.

"To disintegrate the home by facilitating divorce, poison the mind by de-Christianizing the school, is seen clearly to be the most effective method of breaking the tradition of Christianity.

"Can anybody deny that both these objects are being eagerly pursued in the sphere of English politics?"

Then discussing the position of Christianity in England today, he said, "The conditions which preceded the revolt against Christian-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Senator Borah's Speech.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AFTER listening to Senator Borah's Minneapolis speech ended on the radio, I am convinced that he is nothing but a glorified ward politician, if he can be judged by this speech alone. To preface his remarks by saying that he would not deal in personalities and then spending 55 minutes in berating Gov. Smith's farm policy, convinced me that he was simply playing to the passions of his listeners and not talking issues at all. It may be well to say that there are more farmers in the State of New York than there are voters in two or three states the size of Idaho. To say that the man who governs this vast multitude of farmers does not know anything about their problems is too ridiculous to deserve denying.

Only a demagogue could twist Gov. Smith's denunciation of Mr. Hoover for sitting silent during and after the oil scandals into an interpretation such as the one placed upon it by Senator Borah. My view of the matter is that Herbert Hoover should have denounced the scoundrels that sat at the same council table with him and betrayed his country. Gov Smith did not condemn Hoover for being an associate of Fall and for being of the same Republican family as Daugherty, Forbes, Miller, etc., but because he was silent.

Yes, Senator Borah spoke about farm relief, but he confined the Republican viewpoint to his closing sentence. It is true, if Senator Borah says so, that Senator Robinson claimed the McNary-Haugen bill was unsound and unconstitutional, but isn't it true that every step taken by the Republican party in regard to the relief of the farmer, is unsound? The speaker blamed the condition of the farmer on the deflation that took place in 1920. Well! Hasn't the Republican party been in power since a few months after that time? What was done for the farmer during all those years by the G. O. P. to alleviate the farmer's misery? Nothing. What can the farmer expect if the Republicans are returned to power? Just analyze the "major speech" inflicted on a waiting public by Senator Borah. If any farmer reads this letter, I want to tell him that the Republican party is trying to make a laughing stock of him.

JUDGE MILLER'S CAMPAIGN.

In opening his campaign for the office of Circuit Attorney in St. Louis, an office which has defaulted in its duty until the record of Mr. Sidener, the present incumbent, has become a public scandal, Judge Franklin Miller gives the double promise of defeating Mr. Sidener for re-election and restoring this important post to its proper status.

It would be a great loss to good government in St. Louis if the national and State campaigns so far eclipsed the race for Circuit Attorney that it were permitted to go by default. Judge Miller does not intend that this shall happen. He has launched upon a vigorous campaign for the office. In his first public address, which he made before the Jefferson Club Monday night of this week, he devoted his entire time to telling what kind of a Circuit Attorney he will be and none of it to telling what kind of a Circuit Attorney Mr. Sidener has been.

This is, in our opinion, much the better plan. The people of St. Louis are quite familiar with Mr. Sidener's record. He has had two full terms of four years each as Circuit Attorney, and the people have been fully informed of his incompetence. Judge Miller is, upon the other hand, untried in the position. The community can judge of his qualifications only by the excellent record he made during one term as a Circuit Judge and his declaration of purpose in his campaign for office. He disbelieves, for instance, in devoting the time of the office to prosecution under the State dry law. He gives excellent reasons for this position: (1) He does not think, since liquor prosecutions in St. Louis are made in the Federal court, that accused persons should be exposed to double jeopardy. (2) He thinks there are graver crimes which should engage the Circuit Attorney's attention. This has been, he says, the view usually taken by the Circuit Attorney, and he indorses it. He additionally believes that prohibition as we have it is a failure. In 10 years it has proved itself futile. Judge Miller is for temperance, and he therefore condemns a law which has the opposite effect. A Democrat, he indorses the candidacy of Gov. Smith, who wants to change the eighteenth amendment and liberalize the Volstead law.

The Post-Dispatch believes Judge Miller can be elected. He can if the people determine to rise above every partisan consideration and extend through that office the guarantees to which life and property are entitled. As the Republican candidate, Mr. Sidener has an advantage that would be insurmountable except for the very great disqualification which he suffers by reason of his record. His handicap in carrying the conduct of his office in the Rutherford, Motlow and Ferguson cases is much greater than is the handicap of Judge Miller in being the Democratic candidate for this office in a Republican city. Judge Miller said in opening his campaign:

> There will be no fixing if I am elected Circuit Attorney.

That is a vital assurance, and the strength of the Miller campaign. The Post-Dispatch has every confidence that if he is elected he will keep his word. He was that kind of a Circuit Judge.

WHILE MR. BORAH SLEPT.

That was a strange experience Senator Borah and his secretary had in Lincoln, Neb. Before retiring the Senator took his wallet, containing $400, and prudently placed it under his pillow. The secretary, less cautious, left his purse, bulging with $300. in his trousers. When they awoke the Senator's wallet was right where he had put it, and so was the secretary's, but the money in both instances was gone.

Mr. Borah is one of the few Senators who can get away with a story like that. Though we are all as mystified as he is we all know he is telling the truth. But there are Senators who, if they gave out such a yarn, would be derisively howled down. Still, for such erring statesmen it is only fair to say that, if one of them had $400 removed from a pocketbook under his pillow, we should never have heard a word about it. He would have borne his loss in Spartan silence.

The moral seemingly is that, in the vicissitudes of this earthly span, the Cavalier doesn't have much more explaining to do than the Puritan.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND OLD.

Charles M. Hay, Democratic candidate in Missouri for the United States Senate, was campaigning in Kansas City when his wife called him on the telephone to tell him their 16-year-old daughter had eloped and married over in Illinois the day before.

This was a knockout for a father. It was enough to bowl over a man with the cares of a campaign upon him. But the urbane and philosophic Mr. Hay came up smiling and serene. He said: "My daughter is a sweet, and, I think, a wonderfully charming girl. I loved her before I heard this, and I love her and shall love her with all my heart under any and all circumstances. The young man is a very fine young fellow. Of course, they have been hasty and have not acted as we think wisely. But we all know lovers frequently act hastily and unwisely. We also know that sometimes the actions of impulsive young lovers are productive of happier results than the mature plans of us elders. When I return home Sunday we will help them plan the future."

We like that. It is true that impulsive youth is often capable of wisdom that its elders do not possess. We are unable at the moment to lay hand upon statistics showing that matches of this sort result in divorce less often than matches which have the sanction of parents, but they probably exist.

Franklin D. Roosevelt did not want to be the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, but among Democrats it seems that man proposes and the Happy Warrior disposes.

A FAIR DECISION.

The Y. M. C. A. must pay taxes. That is the opinion of the Missouri Supreme Court. The case was taken there by the Y. M. C. A. in an effort to quash an assessed valuation of $709,020, placed upon its property by Assessor Gehner and the St. Louis Board of Equalization for 1927 taxes. The Y. M. C. A. set up the plea that its property was tax exempt on the ground that it was used exclusively for charitable, religious and educational purposes. The court held that the operation of tailor shops, cafeterias, barber shops and other business enterprises deprived the property of tax exemption.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the Y. M. C. A. is conducted like any other commercial hotel. If a man has the money he may rent a room in the Y. M. C. A., whether he is a member or not. Likewise, he may eat in the cafeteria, get a haircut in the barber shop or have his suit pressed by the tailor. Surely none of these things comes under the head of religious, educational or charitable activity. It is no one's business, of course, if the Y. M. C. A. desires to engage in the hotel business, but it is decidedly of public interest if it seeks to dodge taxes.

It seems to us the Missouri Supreme Court's decision is eminently fair and sensible.

MR. TAFT AS A PROPHET.

If Chief Justice Taft has never enjoyed recognition as a prophet, he ought to do so now that the campaign has brought out the letters in which he foretold what would happen if national prohibition were undertaken by amending the Constitution. The first of these letters was written to Allen B. Lincoln of New Haven, Conn., a proponent of national prohibition. The second went to Norris G. Osborn, editor of the New Haven Journal-Courier. Both were written in 1918, when Mr. Taft was co-chairman of the War Labor Conference Board. The views expressed by the Chief Justice have been borne out with astonishing fidelity in the 10 years since. They put the venerable justice in the class of all those who have foreseen the consequences of certain political actions, as Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Lincoln, particularly, did. The Chief Justice first stated his objections to national prohibition, which were as follows:

> 1. It would mix the national Government in a matter that should be one of local settlement.
> 2. It would vest in the national Government and those who administered the law an oppressive and dangerous political power, which would make anxious the friends of free constitutional government.
> 3. It could not be enforced, and would therefore demoralize all laws.
> 4. It would force 15 great States into a sumptuary system which practice and public opinion would not enforce.
> 5. It would be a strain upon the body of the Union, since every hamlet would be subjected to a central dry enforcement power.
> 6. The feverish enthusiasm for the law during war time would abate after the war, leaving the country with a millstone about its neck.
> 7. Except in local communities, where a majority of the citizens were in favor of the law, it would be violated.
> 8. The liquor business would pass out of the hands of law-abiding members of the community into those of the quasi-criminal class.
> 9. Thirteen prohibition states could always be found to prevent retraction of such a folly.
> 10. It would mean an unwise structural change in the relations between the people of the States and the central government.

Certainly no more prophetic utterance has ever been made. It makes a distinction between urban and suburban customs. It displays understanding of the relation of government to the people, and of the extent to which acquiescence in our form of government is by consent and therefore not to be trifled with, that presents Justice Taft in an unsuspected light. The following, from the second letter, is all that could be written now, 10 years after prohibition began:

> After the law-abiding members go out of the business and a complete readjustment follows, the pressure for violation and lax execution in communities where the law is not popular will be constant and increasing. The reaching out of the great central power to brush the doorsteps of local communities, far removed geographically and politically from Washington, will be irritating in such States and communities, and will be a strain upon the bond of the national union. It will produce variation in the enforcement of the law. There will be loose administration in spots all over the United States and a politically inclined national administration will be strongly tempted to acquiesce in such a condition. Elections will continuously turn on the rigid or languid execution of the liquor law as they do now in prohibition States. The ever-present issue will confuse and prevent clear and clean-cut popular discussions on the most important national questions, and the politics of the nation will be demoralized as the politics of States have been through this cause. The issue will never be settled.
> The theory that the National Government can enforce any law will yield to the stubborn circumstances, and a Federal law will become as much a subject of contempt and ridicule in some parts of the nation as laws of this kind have been in some States.

So it has been, and in Justice Taft's opinion will be. We trust that he is in the second instance mistaken in being without that faith in the good sense of the American people which the Post-Dispatch has.

SENATOR NORRIS' POSITION.

Senator Norris of Nebraska denies the report that he will take the stump for Gov. Smith. As announced a few days ago he will campaign the Northwest for Senators who, he believes, should be re-elected. Some of those Senators are Democrats, some Republicans, and one of them, Shipstead of Minnesota, is running on the Farmer-Labor ticket. Their party affiliation means nothing to Mr. Norris. It is the men themselves he is supporting.

As between the presidential candidates he will express no choice. He does repeat, however, his dissatisfaction with Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech and again praises the Omaha and Denver speeches of Gov. Smith on farm relief and water power. "Anyone," he says, "can draw any conclusion he wants to from those comments."

There is but one conclusion to draw. Senator Norris prefers Gov. Smith. Why he does not explicitly say so, we don't know. He is an unusually forthright person, this Nebraska Republican, untrammeled by the fetiches and traditions of party loyalty. The moral and political courage and intellectual integrity he demonstrated when, after the revelations of Pennsylvania's "golden primary," he campaigned that State for the Democratic candidate, Wilson, against the Republican, Vare, was really inspiring. Though he falls just short of his Pennsylvania form he is even now as a public official giving an unparalleled exhibition of political independence.

Europe and the Campaign

Keen interest is being displayed by Europe in "Alexander Smith of the Saint Tammany Association," the best Governor the "City" of New York has ever had; Candidate "Hower" also excites much speculation.

JESSE ISIDOR STRAUS in the Living Age

EUROPEAN interest in this presidential campaign seems to be keener than in any other in recent years. There is constant questioning of the traveling American, and by classes of people who surprise one. The press apparently senses the anxiety of readers to learn something of the characters and policies of the candidates. Even in the French dailies, which to us are woefully lacking in news, both domestic and foreign, our campaign is given unusual space. On reflection, one realizes why.

We are today the leading nation of the world, financially, economically, commercially. Envied and abused, or admired and praised, Europe has more to seek from us than ever before, except during 1917 and 1918. That need was urgent and imperative, but there would be an end to it. Today the need is equally urgent, though of different character. It will, in all probability, continue for years. Many questions that we regard of purely domestic concern, tariff, immigration, prohibition, the Kellogg treaty, vitally affect the rest of the world.

THE continent of Europe has discovered Al Smith. His life, his personality, his policies, and his prospects of success are being eagerly discussed in all newspapers; for the man who may stand at the helm of the American Government during the next four years is a man in whom Europeans necessarily feel a lively interest.

Inevitably there are some amusing errors. The nickname Al is a serious puzzle to some writers. Il Popolo d'Italia rechristens him "Albert Smith," and Le Correspondant describes him as "Alexander Smith of the Saint Tammany Association," explaining learnedly that he is "the best Governor that the great city of New York has ever had." La Tribuna (Rome) refers to him casually as "il senatore Smith," and Cyrano, a Parisian weekly, describes him as one of President Wilson's "collaborators" at the Peace Conference, which—let us charitably hope through a misprint—it dates in the year 1914!

The better-informed writers of the European press deal at length with Gov. Smith's political record and his remarkable personal history. "Al Smith has proved an astute administrator of the greatest State in the Union," says an editorial writer in the London Star, "and possesses the magnetism of a Roosevelt and far more practical common sense than a Bryan. Smith is a far stronger opponent than the Republican party likes to admit.

"It is his peculiar strength," asserts the London Times, "that he combines a great record of progressive legislation, not only with outstanding efficiency, but with an instinct for the same limits of Government action."

"M. Alfred Smith, Governor of the State of New York," according to Le Temps (Paris), "is the kind of self-made man who, by a prodigious exertion of will power, intelligence and furious hard work, has fought his way to a political position of the first ranks in his country."

"The popularity of the Governor of New York," says the Journal des Debats, "is due quite as much to his character, his record and his personality as to the qualities of an excellent organizer and administrator which he has constantly shown. That the origin of Monsieur Alfred Smith is very humble is certainly an advantage in a country where—except in New England—a man is esteemed for what he is and what he has done, and where people are always glad to learn that success has come to a man who has deserved it "amid equality of opportunity for all."

In the view of the Manchester Guardian he is "an example of that rarest kind of public man—the politician who combines all the popular arts with a fine gift for the tasks of government."

PRESS comment on the Smith candidacy throughout Europe shows great interest both in his ancestry and in his religion. In Vienna, the Socialist Arbeiter-Zeitung, blissfully unaware that President Coolidge is the first New England President since Chester A. Arthur, explains to its audience of presumably class-conscious proletarians that "for the son of an Irish workman to become President in the Capitol at Washington, hitherto always sacred to the money-aristocracy of the New England states, would in itself be a kind of American revolution."

The religious issue is openly discussed—on the whole, perhaps, more frankly than in the United States and without any shamefaced evasiveness; for Europe has never made any bones about mingling religion with its politics. Practically every country has its clerical party, frankly labeled as such. The London Catholic weekly, the Universe, says bluntly that "Gov. Smith will be handicapped in the election by anti-Catholic prejudice, which is very strong in many parts of the country." In Turin, Father Filippo Robotti, a young Dominican priest who has just returned from America, has given La Stampa an interview in which he points out that Mr. Hoover—whom he calls "Hower" consistently throughout the interview—is "the first Quaker who has aspired to the presidency, and Smith is the first Catholic who has advanced his candidacy. There is no questioning the fact that the 25,000,000 Catholics of the United States sympathize with Smith and that he will get the great majority of their votes." Racial questions, he thinks, will also enter into the balloting.

IN Paris, the Journal des Debats still remembers and attaches great importance to the Smith letter in the Atlantic Monthly, in April, 1927, which, it says, displayed "great argumentative strength and unusual eloquence." "This letter had such a resounding effect upon American public opinion that thousands of people, even in the Union, who had at first been either prejudiced or hostile, became devoted adherents of the Governor of New York."

"His membership in the Catholic church," says the Manchester Guardian, which is not given to prejudices, "is in itself a challenge to the solid Democratic South, which is one of the strongest Protestant regions in the world."

A Modern Miracle Play

BLIND. By Laurence Oliver. (Harpers.)

THIS three-act drama may be described as a miracle play with a modernistic setting. The ime is Christmas eve, and the cene is the home of an English abinet Minister where the relatives have assembled to celebrate he birthday of the lowly Nazarene y eating more than is good for hem.

Christmas cheer is somewhat mpered by the fact that Betty, e of the daughters, has a brandw baby. It is a perfectly good by, and Betty is passionately d of it, but she seems to have glected certain preliminary arngements of a legal and religious ture. Naturally, the family is ndalized, and all, save the brothand sister, are insisting that the ung mother must send the child an institution by way of conling her misstep and safeguard- the family's respectability The er conversation drifts from pocritical rationalizations of the r of gossip to religious quesns. There is a fat-souled, oily ced Right Reverend, the Dean a fashionable church, who holds th pompously on religious docine, explaining the Christ story "a beautiful tradition," which, e prohibition, is "good for the rking classes."

A servant appears, announcing at he has given a poor family rmission to spend the night in e woodshed, and is severely reked on the grounds that such ople are sure to be dirty and ely to be thieves. But Christas cheer in the form of port nally produces a Christly spirit nd the paupers are allowed to ay.

Later, when still more of the me spirit is in evidence, the fam- votes to visit the people in the . What they see, at first, is irty woman with a dirty baby a dirty man who answers to name of Joe. These unwashed odies, who have villainously en to be paupers, are receiv- much excellent advice from ir well-fed superiors when a ous thing happens. Suddenly under-storm breaks about the though it is not normally the on for such disturbances; and he midst of it an incandescent of lightning fills the place. a flash of timelessness, the y three are transfigured and Holy Family is revealed. Then dark swoops back.

he dark swoops back indeed. although everyone in the shed seen the same thing, it is y explained away, and once the Dean holds forth unctu- , airing his knowledge of "realistic psychology." Betty, who has been deeply impressed by the vision, defiantly announces her decision to keep her baby.

What connection there may have been between Betty's decision and what she saw, or thought she saw, in the woodshed, may be left to each reader to determine.

Incidentally, there is a saying to the effect that to institutionalize a truth is to kill it. Perhaps the author of "Blind" had some such idea.

Undoubtedly there will be an advanced soul here and there who will find in this play a sentimental justification for free love and free babies. Such might do well to consider the economic basis of conventional morality, while not overlooking the very fine human relation between Betty and her child.

New York Day by Day
By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

NEW YORK'S countless pawnshops are a tribute to profligacy and stifled dreams.

North of Fourteenth street the pawnshop takes on privacy and dignity. These are patronized by gamblers, race track players and others who live lightly. These shops offer no jinkle-jumble window display and the patrons enter inconspicuous side doors.

The windows are frosted or blackened so that passers-by cannot see in from the street. The clerks are rather polished men who pilot you into snug reception rooms like those in a private bank, with a flourish. They are tactful but, of course, firm.

Their offices are salons de luxe and in no wise comparable to the dingy repositories of dead hopes on the lower East Side. It is along the Bowery the cheap pawnshop flourishes. Here their dinginess reflects the pathos of despairing patrons. There are some with tinkling bells constantly ringing over their gloomy portals to guide unsteady steps at night.

In their barred windows are such grotesque pledges as glass eyes, removable teeth, crutches, and in one is even an inv[illegible]'s chair. The lowest type of loan office on the Bowery is called a "reliever shop." They are usually in cellars.

Here the Bowery floater may take the old suit, hat or shoes he is wearing, receive articles a little more worn and the price of a drink or so to boot. There is a theory all pawn shop keepers are Jewish. A big percentage is Irish. And two are Scotch.

THE life of a private chauffeur in New York is not so sad. There is one who has been around the world twice, and for three months a year, while his employer is at his lodge in Canada, is on vacation with full pay. He also has a key to his master's cellar, if that means anything.

IT pays to be considerate of New York hotel telephone girls. One in a sizzling letter to newspapers tells how she and her sisters get even with cantankerous guests. They charge them for unanswered calls and wrong numbers.

IT would take an expert in psychoanalysis to explain the mysterious charm the voice of a telephone girl evokes. Sedate men who pay no attention whatever to stenographers, manicure girls, chorus ladies and such, are thrilled by a pretty voice over the telephone. Sly women setting blackmail traps invariably bait victims with a melodious cooing over the phone. In almost every instance the victim seeks an introduction, whereas a note or a personal contact in the initial proceedings would be ignored.

The wise man refuses to continue a phone conversation these days with a lady who says she is talking to him through a mistake in connection and seeks to continue the conversation. That is the trick of the potential gold digger.

THE growth of croquet in the past few years is another one of those things. Its social status is defined by the fact that almost every newly planned estate on Long Island is equipped with croquet grounds.

A FRIEND in Connecticut is in a stew because a queen bee has vamoosed from his apiary and refuses to return. His crop of honey has become a total loss. I may be old-fashioned, but I'd never feel exactly right living off a lady bee that way.

JOINED HIS CHURCH TO PLEASE SUITOR

Miss Hazel Pilcher Testifies in $25,000 Suit Against August C. Naert.

The religious inclinations of Miss Hazel Pilcher, 26-year-old plaintiff in a $25,000 breach of promise suit against August C. Naert, 26, of 4662 Tower Grove avenue, were analyzed under cross-examination in Circuit Judge Frey's Court today.

She had tried the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Baptist and Methodist Churches, she said, and when Naert came into her life at a school picnic in Trangle Park in May, 1923, she was a member of the Haven Street Methodist Church. Then, to please the young man and his family, she declared, she became a Catholic.

Examined by Naert's attorney, Miss Pilcher said she still went to the Catholic Church and "trie dto believe" its doctrines.

Miss Pilcher's brother-in-law, Harry R. Vogel, of 3238 Delor street, testified that he and his wife visited places of amusement with Naert and Miss Pilcher, and that Naert frequently told him they were to be married. After the estrangement, Vogel said it was necessary for him to implore his sister-in-law, on his knees, not to kill herself.

A neighbor, Mrs. Adeline Knight, testified that Miss Pilcher's cheeks were rosy before the estrangement and that she became pallid and lost weight afterward. Naert's attorney suggested, "Perhaps Hazel used rouge," but Mrs. Knight replied that she was sure the color was natural.

Miss Pilcher, who is a clerk in the accounting department of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and lives at 3437 Hartford street, testified yesterday that Naert called as often as four times a week, proposing marriage frequently.

"It must have been 50 times at least that he proposed," the young woman testified. "He always wanted to elope and get married right away. I left the Methodist Church and joined the Catholic Church to please him. And then he married another girl."

Miss Pilcher offered as evidence of a definite promise to marry, a leaf torn from a notebook with the memorandum, "I love Hazel and am going to marry her," over Naert's signature. Naert wrote that one evening in February, 1925, she said, when she asked him if he really intended to marry her.

Miss Pilcher declared that constant worry had ruined her appetite and unsettled her nerves. Her weight, she declared, had dropped from 155 to 124 pounds as the result of Naert's alleged fickleness, and only recently had climbed back to 135.

Naert, who is associated with his twin brother, Emil, in the real estate business at 3222 Meramec street, has denied that he made any promises to Miss Pilcher.

EVERYTHING that was expected and more is found in Packard's newest achievement, the Packard Standard Eight.

All of the characteristic grace and distinction of Packard lines are retained, for Packard beauty is established—and it is not the Packard policy to depreciate cars in the hands of owners by radical and needless changes in design.

The new Standard Eight powerplant, with its nine-bearing crankshaft, is a marvel of clean-cut and compact simplicity, with a surprisingly low operating and maintenance cost.

And the Packard Standard Eight provides, as does the Custom line, the new and exclusive Packard Shock Absorbing System, a unique combination of inventions which are almost magical in their effects. Not only is the car completely cushioned against road shocks, but steering shocks are cancelled—steering "shimmy" is impossible. Today's Packard cars are literally, and without qualification, the easiest riding cars in the world—as well as the safest.

We want you to drive the new Standard Eight—experience for yourself its superb performance and unequaled comfort, the luxury of its deep new cushions and the beauty of its appointments. We know you will then be satisfied with nothing less than a Packard.

We will appraise your present car fairly—and we offer a convenient monthly payment plan. When may we serve you? A phone call will bring one of the new Standard Eight cars to your door.

Film Discolors Teeth and then destroys them

Remove it this special way dentists now are widely urging

IF your teeth are not white and gleaming, 9 chances in 10 they are covered with a dingy film. No matter how often you use ordinary brushing methods, this dingy film is not removed successfully. To accomplish this, dentists widely urge the use of a special tooth paste known as Pepsodent.

Film stains teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth and gums — a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth and gum disorders. Film absorbs the stains from food and smoking and gives that cloudy look. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar (a hardened film deposit), are the chief cause of pyorrhea. To remove film use the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film and easily remove it in gentle safety to enamel.

Don't expect the same results from old-time dentifrices. See for once and all how white and bright teeth really are. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Think twice before you risk lovely teeth with cheap dentifrices. Millions would purchase Pepsodent at any price as the highest scientific safeguard known.

ity in France and Russia are certainly present in England. The peasants are indifferent, the urban masses disaffected, the middle classes sentimentally antagonistic, the intelligents largely anti-Christian and the owners of wealth, self indulgent and materialistic.

"However else our existing situation may be viewed, there is one incontestable fact which is very disquieting. I mean the general and increasing ignorance of the Christian faith and morals which marks our population.

"The idea of churchless and creedless Christianity now seems to commend itself to a large number of English folk."

Bishop Gore in his sermon rebuked the conflicting wings of the church—the modernist extremists and the Anglo-Catholic extremists.

Opposes Disestablishment.

The Right Rev. Arthur C. Headlam, bishop of Gloucester, said that disestablishment of the Church of England or parliamentary enactment giving the church spiritual independence were the only solutions of the acute problem arising from the second rejection of the revised prayer book by the House of Commons.

Rejecting of the prayer book, he said, had injured the spiritual independence of the church and meant encroachment by the State. He said he would seriously regret disestablishment for he thought the partnership benefited both church and State. His other solution would be along the lines of the church of Scotland act of 1921 which gave that church full spiritual independence.

The bishop said that a reunion of English Protestant sects was impossible while the church of England lacked spiritual antonomy. Such antonomy, he said, was one of the most fundamental beliefs of the Presbyterian Congregationalists, Baptists and other free churchmen.

Wine Barred at Toronto Banquet.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 3.—Ginger ale instead of wine was served to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts at its annual banquet last night. The banquet came at the conclusion of the company's 291st field day. Permission to serve wine had been granted and then rescinded. Toasts were drunk to President Coolidge and King George. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health and Labor, representing the Ontario Government, told the company: "The Prime Minister told me to say that the country was yours as long as you drank ginger ale."

GENUINE PHILLIPS MILK OF MAGNESIA For Troubles due to Acid INDIGESTION ACID STOMACH HEARTBURN HEADACHE GASES·NAUSEA

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

SYSTEM SEEMED POISONED; MAN RARELY FELT EASY

"I WAS in very bad health when I began to take Black-Draught," says Mr. R. J. Black, of Lockhart, S. C. "I had been sick for a long time.

"I could not eat heartily, and my rest at night was disturbed. I was troubled with the effects of gas pains, and I hardly had a comfortable day.

"I was nervous and worried. All I could do was to complain. I tried several things, but I could get no relief.

"All my ailments seemed to be the result of chronic constipation, which caused my system to become filled with poison. I was getting worse all the time, but did not realize the real cause.

"One day a friend suggested that I try Black-Draught. I had often seen it advertised, but I had never tried it. I began taking it right off, and no mony could pay me for the improvement which came after I had taken it several weeks.

"I began to feel better. The bad taste which I had in my mouth every morning disappeared.

"My appetite improved, and I began to feel like a different person.

"I continued the medicine for several weeks, and since then I have felt fine. I am in better health now than I have been in years. Black-Draught is a splendid remedy for constipation, and I am glad to recommend it."

Black-Draught is a purely vegetable remedy, prepared from roots and herbs, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery.

In use for over 87 years.

Easy to take—no disagreeable after-effects.

Sold by druggists in 25-cent and $1.00 packages. Try it. JA-86.

PEEK ANSWERS BORAH ON WHEAT PRICE-FIXING

Quotes Hoover as Saying Figures, Unless Controlled, Would Go Higher.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—George N Peek of Moline, Ill., chairman of the Smith Independent Organizations Committee, in a telegram to Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee, yesterday charged that "either Senator Borah is grossly ignorant of Mr. Hoover's admitted record on the question of holding down the price of wheat, or the Senator is wilfully guilty of fraud in his representations."

The telegram was inspired by Senator Borah's speech in Minneapolis Monday night, in which he declared Hoover was responsible for holding wheat at $2.20 a bushel during the Wilson administration when it threatened to fall below that figure.

Peek charged Hoover, by causing the price of wheat to be fixed at that price, prevented the farmer from getting a higher price. Peek declared, if the price had not been controlled, wheat would have risen to $3.48 a bushel.

Peek called attention to a cablegram he said was sent to him by Hoover in April, 1919, in which Hoover said, in part: "If the control of wheat were removed (from control of the War Trade Board) during the next two or three months in the face of the world situation, prices in this commodity would advance materially beyond the present level. . . . I wish to repeat that unless some superior force intervenes, we intend to hold the price of wheat to the figures it has stood at during the war under congressional guarantee."

Woman's work is outside the home

Writes a woman: "Your advertising of used cars as 'family cars' means more to me than I can say.

"A second car would be more than a luxury in our family. After my husband drives away in the morning I have to take our daughter to school . . It's quite a way off and I want to be sure that she gets there safely. Then I have to go to market . . I do my best but I haven't the time to shop for the best I can get for our budget. Then I want to be sure my little girl gets back safely . . Some days it is raining or snowing . . And I must confess that I'd like to see more friends and take a real interest in civic matters . . But what can a woman do? Though her business is outside the home too, she hasn't the use of a car."

The cars which General Motors dealers are taking in trade offer women an opportunity to have cars of their own at low price. And their purchase may be arranged on General Motors' plan of payments—the GMAC Plan.

LOSES $25,000 SUIT FOR BROKEN PROMISE

Woman Testified That Man Carried on Courtship by Penciled Notes.

A jury in the City Court at East St. Louis yesterday returned a verdict in favor of Alfred H. Stump, 46 years old, who was sued for $25,000 for alleged breach of promise by Mrs. Ora Haught, 42, a divorcee. Both Stump and Mrs. Haught are hard of hearing.

Mrs. Haught, who talks with a lisp and has weak eyes, appeared on the witness stand wearing thick glasses and a green eyeshade. In response to written questions she testified that Stump, a packing house foreman, called at her home, 722 North Sixth street, East St. Louis, on July 5, 1927, the day after she was divorced from her husband, Oliver Haught. Stump, who is also divorced and has grown children, was a friend of the family, she said.

Two weeks after his first visit Stump proposed marriage, Mrs. Haught testified. Because of their defective hearing the courtship was carried on by means of penciled notes, Mrs. Haught said. She did not have the proposal note, but exhibited more than 50 other notes, which she said Stump wrote. One read, "you know I care for you," and another, "I worship you."

Mrs. Haught also produced a different sort of note showing that Stump had borrowed $500 of the money she received from her husband as a divorce settlement. He repaid $100 of the loan before he ceased his attentions last May, she said. She also testified that he had dinner at her home every Saturday night for 11 months and requested special dishes, which she prepared.

Stump took the stand and denied that his attentions were anything other than "brotherly." He denied proposing marriage and writing all the notes Mrs. Haught says he did. He admitted sending her a valentine containing words of endearment, but explained that he "felt sorry for Mrs. Haught and wanted to cheer her up."

The jury accepted his explanation.

Stump resides at 129 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis.

Throat, stomach, intestines are one continuous tube. 90 per cent of our ills start here—and here is where yeast does its good work.

When the intestines are clogged, unclean poisons are sent coursing through your system. They cloud the complexion—pull down vitality—bring colds, headaches, indigestion. They literally warp your whole outlook on life . . . For radiant health, keep your intestines clean, active and healthy with Fleischmann's Yeast.

"Yeast, the policeman of the intestinal tract · · "

says world-famous Doctor

IN recent newspaper reports from Paris, London, and Copenhagen, world-famous doctors agree: a clean, active digestive and intestinal tract is the key to beauty and health—and one of the best ways to keep this tract clean is with fresh yeast.

As the famous Dr. Georges Rosenthal puts it, "Yeast is the true policeman of the gastro-intestinal tract!"

What safer, easier way to health than the simple food, fresh yeast—Fleischmann's Yeast? Millions of men, women, and children throughout the United States have eaten yeast—and have been benefited. In a recent survey half the doctors reporting declared they prescribed this remarkable protective food.

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food as fresh as any garden vegetable. As it passes daily through your intestinal tract it combats harmful poisons. It cleanses. Purifies.

Your whole being responds—your digestion, your complexion, your very physical bearing! New stores of energy spring to your command.

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day, one before each meal or between meals. To get full benefit you must eat it regularly and over a sufficient period of time. Sold by all grocers and many leading cafeterias, lunch counters and soda fountains. Start eating yeast today.

DR. ERIK BEGTRUP—brilliant young Danish doctor specializing in dietetics and metabolism, who has attracted attention in Copenhagen by planning and cooking with his own hands model "balanced meals" to show his patients how to eat; lecturer, University of Copenhagen; staff of the Copenhagen Municipal Hospital; lecturer to medical students at the Municipal Hospital; author of many medical articles.

"In recent years scientific investigation into the problems of nutrition has shown that a sufficient content of vitamins is necessary for a wholesome diet. Fresh yeast contains Vitamin B in greater amount than any other easily obtainable food. It is possible, therefore, to give the human organism a sufficient quantity of Vitamin B when yeast is eaten daily."

Erik Begtrup

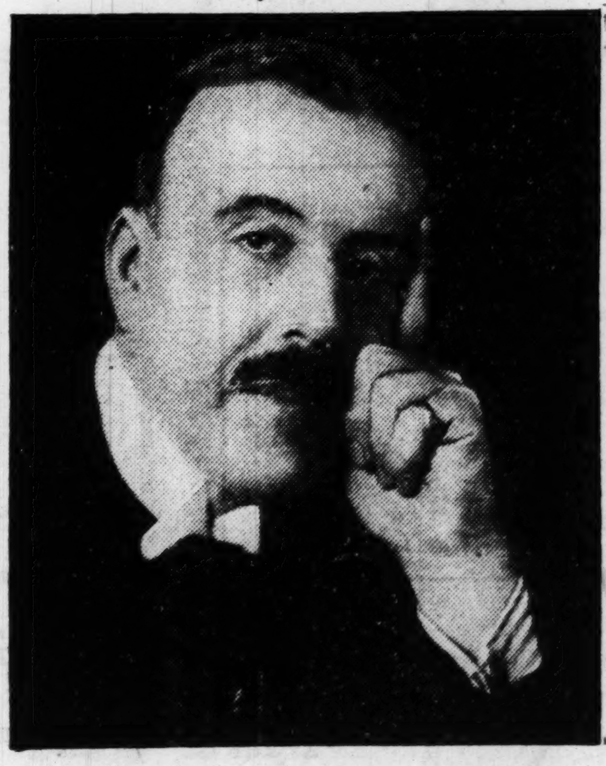
The ancient University of Paris, which has made Dr. Rosenthal Laureate of the Academy of Medicine

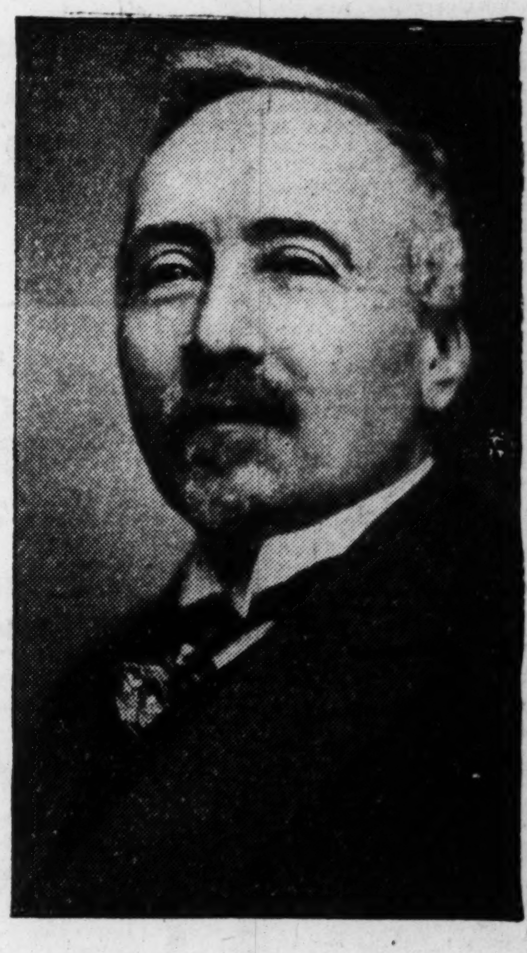
DR. GEORGES ROSENTHAL—famous for his work on blood-transfusions. He is Laureate of the Academy of Medicine, the Medical Faculty of the University of Paris and the Academy of Moral Sciences. He is Assistant at the Pasteur Institute, where he has a laboratory for research work. He is Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and served as Physician-General in the World War.

"Yeast constitutes one of the best intestinal cleansing agents. It decreases the toxins—the poisons which form in the digestive tube and which, penetrating into the blood, hasten old age. Yeast acts therefore as the true policeman of the gastro-intestinal tract.

"It aids powerfully the normal functioning of the intestine. Its continued use is one of the best ways to protect human health."

Dr Georges Rosenthal.





Dr. Knuthsen's home in the heart of Belgravia, one of London's most aristocratic residential quarters

DR. L. F. ROEBUCK KNUTHSEN—eminent British skin specialist, Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine and for twenty years physician to one of London's leading skin hospitals. He holds degrees from the Universities of Paris, Berlin and Vienna. One of the first to go to the front during the War, he was cited twice in dispatches and decorated with the Mons Star. His practice is in Belgravia, one of London's most exclusive residential districts.

"In dermatology, in which I specialize, I have been using yeast for years. Though it has been employed for generations it is only recently that we have realized its full physiological efficiency.

"Its simplicity, its purifying or anti-putrefactive power, its ability to stimulate the intestinal movements—these, together with its vitamin content, make it therapeutically of great value.

"In my opinion it should be used to an even greater extent than it is at present."

ATTEMPT TO PUT KOHLER OFF G. O. P. WISCONSIN TICKET

Suit Filed to Remove His Name From Ballot, Alleging Violation of Corrupt Practices Act.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 3.—On the claim that Walter J. Kohler, Republican nominee for Governor, has violated the corrupt practices act, a petition for a writ of mandamus was filed yesterday asking the Supreme Court to order the Secretary of State to cancel his certification of nomination.

The suit was filed by Fred M. Wylie, Madison attorney. His contention that the nominee, conservative Republican and millionaire manufacturer, violated the corrupt practices act, was based on 10 charges. Justice Marvin H. Rosenberry signed the mandamus order.

It was the understanding here that even though Kohler's name be canceled, he could run as an independent candidate but that the second highest for the nomination, Joseph D. Beck, La Follette Progressive, would be the party nominee.

Kohler, who won the nomination over Beck, and Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, who sought re-election, made no comment on the action. He must file an answer to the charges by Saturday

The mandamus action was the second move concerning Kohler against whom opposing parties made the claim that his expenditures during the primary were excessive. A John Doe investigation of funds spent in the primary is under way at Madison, and the Secretary of State has been asked for certified copies of expenditures as filed with him.

The 10 charges against Konler are:

That he did not appoint a personal campaign committee and file statements of accounts on oath as required under the corrupt practices act.

That he filed only $2194 in disbursements or obligations the Saturday preceding the primary election and did not file any statements under oath of receipt, promises or pledges as required by law.

That there was filed the Saturday following the primary a verified statement of $2781 in disbursements only, together with an unverified notation of no receipts and no obligations.

That in the first statement filed by Kohler there is listed as a disbursement a "contribution" to a self-styled "Sheboygan County Republican Committee" of $500 which Wylie asserts made the committee the agent of Kohler for the expenditure of the $500, but the committee has failed to file a statement of the expenditure as required by law.

That the statement filed following the primary gave expenditures made before the first filing and therefore should have been filed the Saturday preceding the primary election.

That Kohler listed the cost of gasoline and oil but not the rental for an airplane.

That the statement filed on the Saturday following the primary contained a report of "to and including Sept. 5" to "George L. Geiger" for "expenses," this failing to report the specific purposes of the disbursements as required by the law.

That he also failed to file a statement of costs for the "Kohler band," which was transported to various points.

That Lillie Kohler, a relative, incurred expenditures with the knowledge of Kohler for special meals to visitors and bus hire for the band which were not listed as required by law.

That Marie C. Kohler, a relative, also failed to file a statement of expenditures made with the knowledge of Kohler for meals for special visitors to Kohler.

FILLS FIFTH DISTRICT TICKET

John P. Egan, Democrat, Named to Run for Legislature.

John P. Egan, 2532 Arlington avenue, a former State Factory Inspector and member of the old House of Delegates, has been named by the Democratic City Committee as a candidate for State Representative from the Fifth District.

The district has four Representatives but only three persons were candidates for nomination, leaving one vacancy on the ticket.

PATTERSON OPENS CAMPAIGN

BETHANY, Mo., Oct. 3.—Two hundred persons attended the opening of the fall campaign tour of Roscoe Patterson, Republican candidate for United States Senator, at the courthouse here Monday night. Other candidates who also opened their campaigns here are Charles U. Becker, candidate for Secretary of State, and Stratton Shartel, candidate for Attorney-General.

In his speech, Patterson criticised the stand taken by Gov. Alfred E. Smith in regard to farm relief and said that the Democratic presidential candidate had contradicted himself on the subject several times during the campaign. He said the farmers could expect "real relief" only under a Republican administration. Hoover he depicted as a friend of the farmer. Patterson also urged enforcement of law, particularly the prohibition law.

TUMULTY PRAISES GOV. SMITH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the late President Wilson, in a radio address last night said Gov. Smith of New York, Democratic nominee stands forth as a leader "who speaks with naturalness and simplicity of a Lincoln and the boldness and audacity of a Jackson."

After reviewing legislation which he declared showed Smith's sympathy with the poor and unfortunate, Tumulty said the Democratic nominee had proved his courage and honesty, and that he came at a time when hypocrisy beset the nation, dissembling and indifference were the order of the day and silence and evasion were "national policies."

YOUR CHEAPEST NECESSITY—FIRE INSURANCE

Your fire insurance dollar pays for indemnity—for immunity against financial loss when calamity overtakes you. But that dollar buys so much more than the indemnity it pays for that it ranks as one of the most profitable dollars you spend. Its purchasing power is away above the average

Fire insurance, from the indemnity standpoint alone, is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its cost has consistently declined—even during the period of war inflation—practically every year for the last twenty.

And this in spite of the fact that insurance service—as rendered by the 24 Stock companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has multiplied its activities for the public welfare and greatly enlarged their scope.

Your fire insurance dollar may pay for indemnity only, but for good measure the Stock Fire Insurance companies provide engineering and research services to make life and property safer—laboratories in which to test materials and devices—scientific hazard measurements—building construction codes—arson detection and investigation—organized fire prevention—and many other voluntary measures designed to lower the fire waste and thereby reduce the cost of fire insurance.

All the mechanics of underwriting as conducted by the Stock Fire Insurance companies—which transact more than nine-tenths of the fire insurance business of this country—are in the public interest.

That the public may know how and why this is so, the companies propose to discuss some of the vital insurance questions.

This is the first of the series of messages. Your attention is invited to succeeding chapters, appearing at frequent intervals.

A clearer understanding of what Stock Fire Insurance really means and does—and a greater public use of its facilities—should result in a still further reduction of the fire waste and a consequently greater service to the insuring public.

ONE FIRM AGAINST PLAN FOR SAVING MENZIES SHOE CO.

Future of Manufacturing Firm Rests With Decision of Judge Faris on Action of U. S. Rubber.

The future of the Menzies Shoe Co. of Wisconsin, St. Louis manufacturers, depends on the decision of Federal Judge Faris on specifications of opposition to a composition of its debts, filed with the Court yesterday by the United States Rubber Co., which has an approved claim of $33,116. No other execeptions have been filed and the time for them ended yesterday.

By the offer in composition which Referee in Bankruptcy Coles approved and a majority of creditors accepted, the Menzies company offered to pay 20 cents on the dollar on gross claims of $860,000. Following filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy last July, a determined effort to save the business has been made.

If Judge Faris disapproves the specifications of opposition, in which the company is charged with making false financial statements, the composition will go through and the business will be kept up, but if he upholds the objections, the trustee in bankruptcy will wind up the business .A hearing on the specifications, which were filed by Jacob M. Lashly, counsel for the rubber company, likely will be held soon.

Charges of False Statement.

Commission of several acts and omission of several others by the Menzies company, constituting a bar to discharge of the concern as a bankrupt, should prevent confirmaion of the composition, Lashly insisted in the specifications. He declared that the company, of which Samuel D. Nichols is president, had obtained money and property and extensions and renewals of credit by publishing various materially false financial statements; that it failed to explain satisfactorily the loss of assets and deficiency of assets to meet liabilities.

A financial statement of April 30, 1927, asserted the company had no contingent liabilities, Lashly said, and that its assets were $1,935,121 and its surplus $190,197, but he described all those statements as false. As a matter of fact, it is charged, the company had contracts with the cities of Cookville and McMinnville, Tenn.; New London, Wis.; Chillicothe, Mo.; Carbondale, Ill., and Princeton, Ky., obligating it to pay total payrolls of $5,500,000 in those towns in a period of about 10 years, which amounted to contingent liabilities.

Denies Firm Owned Factories.

In a statement to the mercantile agency of R. G. Dun & Co., in June, 1927, Lashly alleged, the company maintained that it owned factories in Carbondale and in Caruthersville and Illmo, Mo., worth a total of $320,000, clear of debt, whereas it did not own them but had entered escrow agreements providing that it must carry out payroll and ther conditions before gaining title. The same statement showed assets greater than they really were and liabilities much less, it is charged, and claimed a net worth of $963,697, whereas the company had no net worth and was insolvent at the time.

Another financial statement, Sept. 27, 1927, claimed assets of $1,957,305, which is alleged to be a gross exaggeration, and a surplus of $216,830, but Lashly averred there was no surplus then, that liabilities were grossly understated and that for four months preceding this statement, instead of making a net profit of $32,764 as stated, the company constantly was operating at a loss.

Says Ads Were Misleading.

Early this year, the specifications continued, the Menzies company advertised extensivedly in newspapers for the sale of stock of another corporation, the Menzies Shoe Co. of Missouri, which, it is alleged, had just been organized and had no assets except certain shares of the Wisconsin corporation. The advertisements held out that the Missouri corporation had seven years of business experience and had paid quarterly dividends on preferred stock in that time and 53 monthly cash dividends on common stock.

The innuendo was held out, it was asserted, that the Missouri corporation was in a flourishing and prosperous condition, the inference to the reader being that stock of the Wisconsin corporation, whose business was described, was being offered. Lashly does not know how much stock was sold through these advertisements.

The company failed to explain satisfactorily, Lashly alleged, the "disapearance" of a $124,686 bank account and a $190,197 surplus set up in the financial statement of April 30, 1927.

SHARP BREAK, REBOUND IN STOCK LIST

Unexpectedly Large Increase in Stock Exchange Member Loans Inspire Early Selling — Drop in Money Rate Expands Pool Operations.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The stock market broke sharply today on selling inspired by the unexpectedly large increase in stock exchange member loans, and then made irregular recovery as pool operations were resumed in a number of specialties.

The drop in call money to 7 per cent expanded pool operations in the latter part of the session. Many of the earlier severe losses were wiped out and a number of stocks were pushed a point or more above the preceding close. Motor accessories, oil and amusement were in the forefront of the rally. Chrysler sold around 128, a new high mark, while Packard reached a new top at 96. Mack Truck sold well above par. Conde Nast was carried to 78 and Ludlum Steel brought 83½. Sales approximated 3,800,000.

Trading continued to be of an extremely nervous character because of the spotlight that has been thrown upon the credit situation and securities speculation in the past few days.

Call money renewed unchanged at 8 per cent. And then dropped to 7½ as the return flow of Oct. 1, disbursements reached substantial proportions. Time money was slightly easier.

Heavy profit-taking took place on the rallies as the result of repeated commission house advices to take profits. Aggressive short selling also was in evidence against some of the high priced industrials and specialties. Montgomery-Ward, Curtiss, Wright, Commercial Solvents, Timken, Dupont and Radio were hammered down 5 to 6½ points before they met effective buying support. Scores of other popular industrials and rails dipped 2 to 4 points.

First Three Hours.

Meanwhile, pool operations were resumed on a large scale. Conde Nast was quickly bid up 9 points to a new high at 73⅞ and Ludlum Steel 7¼ to a new top at 81½. Murray Corporation converted an early loss of 4¾ into a gain of similar extent by touching a new high record at 111¼. Pierce Oil preferred and National Dairy Products also moved into new high ground on large gains.

Reo Motors, advanced 3 points to a new high at 35¼, and Mack Trucks moved up 2¾.

Weekly steel trade reviews stressed the heavy bookings and stiffening price tendency for iron and steel products. Borden's announced the purchase of the Thompson's Malted Milk Co. of Wiscinson. Several other food and chemical mergers were rumored to be in the making.

The unexpectedly large increase in Stock Exchange member loans brought a flood of selling orders into the stock market over night, giving opening prices a weak undertone.

The gain of $442,000,000 in Stock Exchange member loans in September was the largest monthly increase on record, and brought the total above $5,500,000,000 for the first time. This huge gain, coupled with the warnings against securities speculation by several speakers at the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association in Philadelphia, caused heavy selling by frightened investors and speculators in very early trade.

Early Price Movements.

Commercial Solvents quickly broke 6 points, Murray Corporation, A. M. Byers and Montgomery-Ward extended their losses to 4¾ points, and Colorado Fuel, Johns-Manville, Timken Roller Bearing, Allied Chemical, General Motors and Sears-Roebuck sold down 3 to 4 points. Several large blocks changed hands in the early trading, United States Steel common opening with a block of 7400 shares at 156, off 2 points.

Murray Corporation, which announced the sale of additonal stock to retire the funded debt, quickly made up most of its loss.

One block of 5500 shares of Universal Pipe changed hands at 25, up 1 point. Early losses in other issues were cut down.

The renewal rate for call loans was unchanged at 8 per cent.

Dividends and Extras.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Tung-Sol Lamp Works, Inc., declared today an extra dividend of 30 cents each on the common and convertible A and regular quarterly dividends of 20 cents on common and 45 cents on convertible A. All are payable Nov. 1 to stock of record Oct. 20.

An initial dividend of 70 cents on new common was declared by W. F. Coon Co. It is payable Nov. 1 to stock of record Oct. 22.

First New Corn on Market

The first car of this year's corn crop arrived on the Merchants' Exchange today, selling at 90c.

Last year the first car did not arrive until Oct. 27 and not until about Nov. 10 in 1926. Ballard-Messmore Grain Co. received the car, which graded No. 4 yellow, 54.21-lb, 18.60 per cent moisture and 1.8 per cent damaged grain. It was shipped from Riley Lake, a Southern Illinois point. It sold to Marshall-Hall Grain Co.

SHARES SOLD.

COTTON RANGES LOWER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A slight opening advance met a renewal of realizing or liquidation in the cotton market here today, most of which was attributed to uncertainty as to the showing of the approaching Government report and a disposition to even up accounts in advance of its publication. Prices sold off some 15 or 20 points, but offerings were absorbed by covering or trade buying at the decline and the market later was quiet with the price movement narrow. At 2 o'clock active months were about 9 to 12 points net lower.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 3.—Wheat sold lower as corn advanced on the local market today. Estimates on old corn stocks in this country as called among influences in higher market. An increase of 35,234,000 bushels in world available supply of wheat was mentioned as a factor in that market.

Opening a fraction higher wheat subsequently early reacted to below previous close. Winnipeg was up ⅛c to ¼c early. Liverpool wheat closed ⅞d higher on October, 1d on December and ⅜d on March. Corn was unchanged to higher, December showing gain. Report of foreign takings of corn was credited as factor. December wheat opened at $1.17⅞, May wheat $1.25¼, December corn 79½c and May corn 82½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 175,000 bushels, compared with 130,200 a week ago and 82,000 a year ago, included 73 cars local and 52 through. Corn receipts, which were 42,000 bushels, compared with 114,800 a week ago and 46,200 a year ago, included 22 cars local and eight through. Oats receipts, which were 52,000 bushels, compared with 50,000 a week ago and 28,000 a year ago, including 21 cars local and five through. Hay receipts were 12 cars local and four through.

GRAIN PRICES MIXED ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Buying on a broad scale developed in the corn market today, and gave a decided lift to corn values, notwithstanding weakness of wheat. Some trade leaders asserted that United States corn not only has the inside track now abroad, so far as new corn is concerned, but that prices are on an export basis for old corn. Talk was heard that a period of extremely small receipts of corn is at hand, and that stocks of corn will be down to low proportions by the time new corn moves in volume. Wheat today reflected 35,234,000 bushels increase for the week in the world's available supply. Corn closed unsettled, ⅞c to 1¼c net higher, wheat ⅝c to ⅞c off, oats unchanged to ¼c up, and provisions varying from 35c decline to a shade advance.

Lively trading and higher prices today in future deliveries of corns accompanied reports of export buying.

At noon corn was 1¼c to 1⅝c net higher and wheat at ⅛c to ½c net decline.

Wheat also displayed an upward trend, sympathizing with advances in wheat quotations at Liverpool. Opening ⅛@⅜c to ½c up, corn later held near to initial figures. Wheat started unchange dto higher, then receded somewhat, but later rallied. Oats were firm. Provisions inclined downward.

Besides talk which was current that United States corn in Europe is underselling Argentine corn as much as 9c a bushel, private estimate was out here that total stocks of old corn in this country at present amount to only 90,000,000 bushels, against 165,000,000 bushels a year ago. This relation, it was predicted, would mean a carry-over on Nov. 1 of but 60,000,000 bushels, compared with 111,000,000 bushels last year and 183,000,000 bushels two years ago.

Iowa farm holdings of corn at this time are figured at only 10,000,000 bushels, against 26,00,000 bushels a year ago; Illinois 8,000,000 bushels, compared with 17,000,000 bushels; Missouri, respectively, 6,000,000 and 12,000,000 bushels, and Indiana 3,000,000 now, in contrast with 15,000,000. On the other hand, Nebraska and Kansas farmers are better supplied than was the case at this time in 1927.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 950 barrels for the week ended Sept. 29, totaling 2,509,-950 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Rubber, spot smoked ribbed, 18¼.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Rubber futures closed steady; Dec. 18.40c; March 18.30c; May 18.40c.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today with a sale of 21,000 bags of Cuban for October shipment to an outport refiner at 3.89c, duty paid.

The raw sugar futures market opened 1 to 3 points lower under liquidation and European selling, that appeared to be promoted by the sharp decline in the London market, and the inactivity in the spot market. The decline attracted considerable covering and commission house buying, however, and prices rallied later with the list at midday about 1 point net lower. The volume of business was not particularly heavy, and the trade was inclined to limit aggressive operations and await fresh developments.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.35 to 5.40 for fine granulated. The recent buying movement had apparently supplied the more immediate equipments of the trade, and demand was less active.

Sugar futures closed steady: approximate sales, 36,000 tons. December, 2.05c; March, 2.11c; May, 2.18c; July, 2.26c; September, 2.35c.

New York Coffee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Coffee spot steady; demand fair. Rio No. 7, 17½c; Santos No. 4, 23⅝c. Rio futures closed steady; approximated sales, 11,000 bags; December, 16.20c; January, 16c; March, 15.65c; May, 15.30c; July, 14.90c. Santos futures steady; approximated sales, 5000 bags; December, 21.85c; January, 21.65c; March, 21.31c; May, 20.97c; July, 20.62c.

40 BOOTLEGGERS SENT TO JAIL BY FEDERAL COURT

In Two Days Judge Davis Disposes of 62 of 142 Dry Law Cases on His Docket.

The "parade" of bootleggers continued today before Federal Judge Davis with the following results: 11 defendants received jail terms, three more were sentenced to jail for failure to pay fines imposed; 13 paid fines totaling $4700.

Today's figures, combined with those of yesterday, when Judge Davis began hearing a docket of 142 liquor cases, make a total of 40 bootleggers jailed, and $7400 in fines paid. The "parade" will be resumed tomorrow.

One of the defendants let off with a fine was Samuel Levitch, proprietor of the Forest Park Drug Co. in the Forest Park Hotel. Appearing without a lawyer, he pleaded guilty to a charge of illicit sale and possession of liquor and was fined $800.

Rakes a Naturalized Citizen.

Mike Metzer, who admitted selling liquor at his saloon at 2100 Cherokee street, was fined $400 and lectured by Judge Davis.

"You are a naturalized citizen and you took an oath to obey the laws—what do you think of yourself now? asked Judge Davis.

"I'm ashamed of myself," said Mike.

"Will you take an oath now not to sell liquor again?"

"Sure."

In fining Metzer, Judge Davis advised him to sell his bar.

Jail for Third Offense.

Frank McLaughlin, proprietor of a saloon at 4832 Delmar boulevard, for this third offense was sentenced to jail for three months and fined $500.

Others sentenced to jail were: Louis Colombo, 60 days and fined $1000; Theodore Daniels, 60 days, and $500; Fred F. Eckert, 30 days; Tony Finazzo, 60 days; Fred Heid, 30 days and $400; Samuel A. Kline, 30 days and $400; Steve Conta, 30 days; Edward Bringer, 30 days; Gus Bova, 30 days; Joe Yakopovich, 60 days and $500.

Two Jails Filled Up.

Those sentenced to imprisonment today will go to the Audrain County jail at Mexico, yesterday's sentences having exhausted the accommodation at the Warrenton and Union jails.

Despite the liberal imposing of jail terms, the bootleggers and their lawyers refused to take the matter seriously. The usual solemnity which attends criminal proceedings in a Federal court was lacking.

"Where's your client?" one lawyer asked another.

"I sent him back home for his golf clubs," was the jocular reply. "I thought he might be sent to Mexico," referring to the new and luxurious jail at Mexico, Mo., to which some bootleggers are sentenced.

"The presence of so many bootleggers in one place," another attorney remarked, "reminds me of the annual homecoming at my alma mater, Kansas University."

The bootleggers themselves were busy renewing friendships. It was "Hello, Bill," and "Haven't seen you for a long time, Joe," and "Where you been keeping yourself, Gus?"

Mercy Shown to Woman.

Judge Davis dealt sternly with most of the defendants. He extended leniency to Mrs. Margaret Canoni, 1312 Blair avenue, mother of seven children who came into court with the seventh, only 8 days old, in her arms. Prohibition agents testified to buying whisky from her. Her attorney said her husband, unable to find employment here, had gone to Detroit to work as a laborer. Judge Davis imposed a $100 fine on her, but stayed it and warned her not to sell any more liquor.

Despite his statement that his wife is in an asylum and that if he went to jail there would be no one to care for their two children, Adam Kruczynski, proprietor of a saloon at 520 Hickory street, was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail and to pay a fine of $500.

"Bartender" in Cigar Store.

Described by Assistant District Attorney Hapke as the "bartender of a cigar store" at 2705 Morgan street, Luther Washington, Negro, received 30 days and a $400 fine.

All of those who faced Judge Davis yesterday pleaded guilty except John H. Klein, proprietor of a roadhouse at Evans avenue and the North and South road, who denied selling liquor, as alleged by a prohibition agent. Klein's case was submitted to the jury.

Defendants sentenced outright to jail are: Charles Bertich, 500 North Jefferson avenue, three months; Henry Kremer, 1404 St. Vincent road, 30 days and $400 fine; James Lowery, 800 South Seventh street, 30 days and $400; Alex Mastillovich, 1249 Franklin avenue, 60 days; Otto Riebe, St. Charles County, three months; Paul Kupper, St. Charles County, three months; William Silver, 111 North Fourteenth street, 30 days; Angelo Sperlazzo, 2852 Easton avenue, 60 days; George Ventimiglia, 4201 Kennerly avenue, 60 days; Frank Buneta, 601 South Broadway, 30 days and $400.

Defendants who must serve 30 days in jail for failure to pay fines imposed are: John Freisa, 325 South Broadway, fined $400; Jacob Gabriel, 520 Hickory, $400; James A. Jones, Heege road and Fletta avenue, $400; Herbert W. Kneeir, 912 South Vandeventer avenue, $400; Pat Noonan, North Market street and Laflin avenue, $400; John Pudjunas, 2750 Clark avenue, $400; Rodolph Rosio, 1535 Market street, $400; Joe Rivituso Jr., 220 South Fourth street, $400; John Tsantos, Newstead and Duncan avenues, $400; John P. Tayon, St. Charles, $400; Mike Ubich, Jefferson and Washington avenues, $400; Gasper Pendino, 2612 North Whittier street, $300; George J. Hahn, Washington, Mo., $250.

A fine of $100 assessed against Otis J. Twyman, 3801 Easton avenue, was stayed. Seven defendants paid fines totaling $2700.

VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH WITH JOHN COOLIDGE'S CAR WORSE

White House Physician Summoned to New Haven Hospital to Assist Her.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Margaret Veno, 56 years old, who was injured in an automobile crash with a car driven by John Coolidge, son of the President, last week, was today reported as having taken a turn for the worse. President Coolidge's personal physician, Maj. James F. Coupal, of Washington, was immediately called to her aid. She was to have been released from the New Haven hospital today, but authorities said her condition was such that it would be necessary to postpone indefinitely her departure.

Maj. Coupal, accompanied by Everett Sanders, President Coolidge's private secretary, arrived in New Haven last night. Sanders called the White House on the telephone during the evening, talking for 10 minutes. The New Haven police have dropped the case as Wilfred Veno, who was driving the other car, is now recovering from a fractured skull. Should Mrs. Veno become worse, it is probable that the case would be reopened.

J. ADAM BEDE FOR SMITH

Former G. O. P. Congressman from Minnesota Issues Statement.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Former Congressman J. Adam Bede of Minnesota, for 40 years a member of the Republican party, and a Republican member of Congress in the Roosevelt administration, announced today in a statement issued through Democratic national headquarters that he will support Gov. Smith because of the Governor's stand on farm relief and prohibition.

The St. Paul meeting which Gov. Smith addressed," the statement read, "was the greatest political demonstration ever held west of the Mississippi. It was like a holiday. People danced in the streets to the music of the 'Sidewalks of New York.' I think the Governor is sure of Wisconsin and that he will carry Minnesota, North Dakota and Nebraska, if the gains he made while in the West can be held."

$15,861 JUDGMENT AWARDED IN REAL ESTATE DEAL VOIDED

Supreme Court Rules Against Executors of Adolph Abbey, Seeking to Recover Loss.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 3.—A verdict of $15,861 obtained in St. Louis Circuit Court by executors of the estate of Adolph Abbey against William H. Leahy, growing out of a St. Louis real estate transaction, was reversed by Division No. 1 of the State Supreme Court today. The executors charged fraud and misrepresentations in an exchange of property owned by Leahy on Lindell boulevard for property owned by Abbey at Easton and Semple avenues, in which Leahy was represented by R. T Padfield as a "straw man" in the transaction.

The property originally owned by Abbey, on which he retained a second deed of trust to secure notes given in the deal, was foreclosed under a first deed of trust when interest payments were defaulted. Leahy and Padfield refused to pay notes of $15,500 given Abbey by Padfield in the transaction.

Judge W. T. Ragland held the fraud charges were not proved, and that Abbey, who died after making the transaction, had full knowledge of all the circumtsances and was not entitled to recover from Leahy.

Seven Nicaraguans Killed in Fight.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 3.—Seven Nicaraguans were killed in a fight between political factions yesterday near San Marcos in the Department of Jinotega, southeast of Managua. So far as is known the fight had no connection with registration for the coming presidential election which is being supervised by American Marines. The reports state that a crowd of men, many of whom were under the influence of liquor, became involved in fist fights over political questions and then resorted to fire-arms. Dr. Juan Carlos [illegible] a prominent Liberal, was among those killed.

THE PERIL IN RABBITS

By Dr. Brice Belden.

YOU will have a fresh sense of gratitude to science when you realize that it has made you aware of a newly discovered danger to your life and health and of the means to avoid it.

This danger exists in the form of a particular germ known as the bacterium tularense because it was first discovered in Tulare County, California. It was there observed by Prof. William B. Wherry—now of the University of Cincinnati. It has since been systematically studied by Dr. Edward Francis, of the United States Public Health Service, in recognition of which the American Medical Association has very justly given him a gold medal.

Dr. Francis studied the livers of 1000 rabbits exposed for sale in Washington and found 1 per cent of them infected with this germ, causing the disease now known as tularaemia.

While this is primarily a disease of lower animals, notably the rabbit, man readily innoculates himself with it while dressing these animals. The infection passes from the rabbit's liver through some wound on his hand. This results in an ulcer on the hand, enlarged glands at the elbow or in the arm pit, and fever which confines him to bed for two or three weeks.

Cooks, hunters, housewives and market men are often infected in November, December or January, when, owing to relaxation of the game laws, it is permitted to hunt wild cotton-tail rabbits for food.

Persons who skin and cut up jackrabbits for fish bait, coyote bait, fox feed, chicken feed, hog feed, dog feed, or for the market, frequently become infected.

Tularaemia, we are told by the United States Public Health Service, is "made in America." It has been staged from start to finish by an all-American cast. The discovery of a new disease is an important milestone in medical history.

In the history of human medicine there is only one instance in which American investigators alone have discovered a disease of man, isolating its causative agent, determining it sources of infection and its modes of transmission to man, describing its symptomatology and pathology, and otherwise elucidating the many essential problems connected with the complete knowledge of a disease—that instance is the story of tuaraemia.

The disease was first discovered in a ground squirrel in Tulare County, California, in 1910, by Dr. G. W. McCoy of the United States Public Health Service. It became engrafted into the jack-rabbit population of the West, and then, as a disease of wild rabbits and of man, it advanced steadily across the continent, invading State after State, until now, in 1928, there remains only a solid block of six uninvaded states composed of the New England group.

Although a new disease of man, tularaemia has now been recognized in 42 states of the United States, in the District of Columbia and in Japan, but in no other country. Of 614 reported cases, 23 terminated in death.

Dr. Francis himself fell a victim to tularaemia while studying his first case of the disease in Utah. He is now devoting himself to its prevention and cure.

Prevention is the keynote of modern medicine. Keep your bare hands out of a wild rabbit—one per cent of them are infected with tularaemia. Rabbit meat, thoroughly cooked, is harmless for food, because a temperature of 133 degrees Fahrenheit kills the infection. Rubber gloves afford complete protection to those who must dress wild rabbits.

Beware of the wild rabbit which the cat or dog has caught—or which a boy has killed with a club—it is probably a sick rabbit. A warning to the poor sportsman is necessary. He should not shoot the rabbit that is on the point of his gun. Let him take his rabbits on the run at 25 feet distant that the chances will be lessened that the rabbit he bags will be sick with tularemia.

The women of the country are coming to the rescue. They are telling their sportsman husbands to bring home the birds, but to let the rabbits lie as they fall—"Don't bring them home."

The disease is new, but the warning is 5000 years old. Read Leviticus, chapter 11, verses four to eight: "The flesh of the hare shall ye not eat, and its carcass shall ye not touch: they are unclean to you."

Kitchen Kinks

Embroidery hoops may be used for holding a muslin jelly bag in place.

Stone jars are desired for storing pickles. Cover with an enameled lid, heavy plate or earthenware cover.

Wrap corks of thermos bottles with waxed papers and they will not absorb odors.

To make sweet milk sour, when a recipe calls for sour and none is on hand, add two tablespoons of vinegar to one cup of milk. Let stand for three minutes and it may be used.

• • •

Add one teaspoonful of chili sauce to meat loaves, hash, vegetable soup, meat gravies, macaroni and cheese, sandwich fillings and cheese mixtures. The piquant flavor is most desirable.

A DISH FOR TODAY.

Stuffed Green Peppers.

We forget this savory dish, and yet it is so nice when we have just about a cup of left-over ground meat or chicken. Mix together two cups boiled rice, one cup ground meat, one teaspoonful onion juice, one tablespoonful chopped parsley, one-half cup of tomato sauce or catsup. Remove tops and membrane from bell peppers and fill lightly with the mixture. Cover tops with grated cheese or buttered crumbs and cook in a moderate oven until peppers are tender. Put just a little water in the bottom of the pan and baste occasionally.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

MRS. MUSKRAT JOINS JERRY.

Misery makes one forlorn;
By two it is much better borne.
—Jerry Muskrat.

JERRY MUSKRAT was sitting at the edge of the water out on the Green Meadows as discouraged and unhappy a Muskrat as ever lived. It had stopped raining but the water was still rising. The Smiling Pool was now a small lake on the Green Meadows. Not even the tops of the bulrushes were to be seen. Jerry's fine new house that he had worked so hard to build was entirely under water. Jerry had nowhere to go and he didn't know what to do.

By and by Jerry discovered a little brown head, or, rather, he discovered a nose and just the top of a little brown head coming his way. He began to feel better. Misery loves company, you know, and he had recognized Mrs. Muskrat. Presently she swam ashore beside him.

"I was wondering about you, my dear," squeaked Jerry. "Did the water get up in the hole in the bank?"

"Of course it did,' replied Mrs. Muskrat in the same squeaky tone of voice. "Did it get up in that brand new house of yours?'

Jerry nodded miserably. "It covered it," said he. "For all I know, it may have washed away."

"Well, there's one satisfaction, it can't wash away a hole in a bank,' declared Mrs. Muskrat. "I always did think you were wasting your time building that new house. But the question now is, what are we going to do next? We can't sit here, for the first thing we know Reddy Fox will be sneaking over here. It isn't safe. We have got to go somewhere where we can keep out of sight."

"Quite true, my dear. quite true," said Jerry. "Or, if we can't keep out of sight, we have got to be where the water is deep enough so that we can dive or swim. Theres' a log floating out there. Let's swim over to that and sit there until we decide what we want to do."

"I was wondering about you, my dear," squeaked Jerry.

So Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat swam out to the log and climbed up on it. Out there they had nothing to worry about from Reddy Fox or from Old Man Coyote. In fact, they were quite safe from any of their enemies. But they didn't like it. They didn't like sitting right out in the open that way. Then, too, they were hungry, and they didn't know where to go to get anything to eat. You see, all their usual food supplies were under water now.

"My, but I'm hungry!" said Mrs. Muskrat.

"So am I!" said Jerry. "Look, my dear!' The water is almost over ta Farmer Brown's cornfield. If I remember rightly, there are carrots at one end of it—the end nearest the water."

"Carrots! Did you say carrots!" exclaimed Mrs. Muskrat. "Are you sure there are carrots over there? If there are carrots there I am going straight over there this very minute." She plunged from her end of the log and started to swim in the direction of Farmer Brown's cornfield. Jerry hesitated a moment or two and then followed. Together they swam until once more they felt the ground under their feet. They were almost, but not quite, over to that field. They would have to travel over ground a short distance and this they didn't like to do. But carrots were carrots and empty stomachs were empty stomachs; so, after hesitating a few moments, they started.

Co-Ed's Vote Is Aim Of League Campaign

ARE you 21? Then be your age, vote!

With those words, the National League of Women Voters will start its fall campaign to get out the college student vote.

Miss Gertrude Ely, Bryn Mawr, Pa., counselor for the college leagues, is planning a series of digests of election laws, with full information about registration and voting qualifications in each state, to be distributed in all colleges where the league has branches.

She, too, will help round up the student vote. Most college and university seniors, juniors and a high perceptage of the students of professional schools are of voting age, she says.

Pickled Beef Tongue

A delightful change in meats that the family will enjoy. One beef tongue, 1 bay leaf, 3 cloves, 1 sliced onion, salt, vinegar. Wash a fresh beef tongue well. Cover with salted cold water and boil until tender. Pour cold water over it to remove skin. Slice tongue and place in a deep bowl. Add bay leaf, cloves and onion to broth and as much vinegar as you have broth. Bring to a boil and pour over sliced tongue. Keep in a cool place several days before serving.

THE GARDEN IN THE FALL

(National Garden Bureau)

FALL PLANTING FOR LILIES.

LILIUM AURATUM.

WHITE madonna lilies, the old-fashioned white lily of gardens, a favorite for generations, with a background of the stately blue spikes of delphiniums or the pink of climbing roses, furnish one of the finest garden pictures in June. The bulbs should be planted at once, as quickly as they can be bought as this lily, unlike most of its kind makes a fall growth of foliage. This need not even be covered although a light mulch will do no harm.

Many gardeners have poor success with this old-fashioned bulb that, if it likes its situation, will settle down and multiply and give scores of stalks of its fragrant white blooms each year. One trouble is too deep planting. The bulbs should not have more than two inches of soil over their crowns. Most lilies, on the contrary, like to be buried deep and a foot is none too deep for the gold-banded or auratum lilies.

The madonna lily likes a well-drained soil, but one at the same time that has sufficient vegetable matter or humus in it to retain moisture. It will not flourish in hot, dry, sandy soils. Soils of this nature should be improved by digging in compost or peat moss for quick results before attempting candidum lilies.

The one standby for all soils and situations is the old-fashioned tiger lily which because it is common has not been properly appreciated. It is coming into its own, however, and properly associated with August blooming plants such as the steel blue globe thistles and sea hollies, makes a stunning garden picture. Unlike many lilies it will always grow. The variety, L. tigrinum splendens, is much finer than the old species, both in height, size and number of blooms.

The Japanese lilies, the gold-banded auratum and the pink and white speciosum types, usually arrive very late in the fall. The soil where they are to be planted should be well mulched to keep it from freezing. All lilies should be six inches deep except candidum.

One of the most easily grown and showiest of the lily tribe is the candelabra lily or umbellatum class sometimes known as dauricum. They bloom in early June. A group of them is very slowly with their big orange-scarlet cups.

Rice Croquettes.

A nice substitute for the too popular potatoes on the luncheon platter. Cook one-half cup rice, ½ teaspoon salt and 1 pint milk in a double boiler until the rice is tender and the milk absorbed. Stir in 1 beaten egg, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Cool and shape into croquettes. Dip in egg and cracker and fry in deep fat.

Leftover Boiled Cabbage.

Chop the leftover cabbage finely and cook in butter in a frying pan until lightly browned. Turn with a cake turner and lightly brown the other side. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve on a heated platter. You will find this delicious.

Science Finds Reducer For Over-Fat People

By Dr. Theodore Beck

Scientific minds have delved into the secrets of the ductless glands of the human body, and some are so bold as to declaim that with the further study of this subject man or woman can be thin or fat, ugly or beautiful, dull or brilliant, old or youthful, etc. One outstanding fact is that obesity (over-fatness) can often be controlled when we know that one of the important glands of the body is causing the abnormal fleshiness. Impaired secretions of the thyroid gland does cause many to become quickly fat. By supplying this element, aiding the process of nature, as it were, many pounds of superfluous fat can be banished.

I confidently recommend five grain Arbolone tablets as a home remedy (non-secret as to ingredients) to those men and women who wish to reduce successfully.

I print by permission some of the letters I regularly receive from those who rejoice when free from the embarrassing, annoying condition.

If directions are followed there are no harmful results from the use of Arbolone. The formula on the package may be submitted to your own physician.

Reduced 10 Pounds in Two Weeks

Dear sir: "I have followed directions, and lost 10 pounds in two weeks, thanks to Arbolone tablets. Please send me your Health and Beauty Book." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. H——, —— St. Clair St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Did Not Gain After Reducing

"Most of all, I thank you for the benefit I have received from the use of Arbolone Tablets. I reduced from 138 to 125 pounds. Then I quit taking them for two weeks to see if I would regain. I did not gain an ounce. Am taking them again to reduce to 115 pounds." (Signed) Mrs. W. L. S——. St. Joseph, Mo.

Now Has Better Health.

"It is with great pleasure that I tell you of the benefit derived from Arbolone. I am reduced to the desired weight as well as enjoying better health Very truly." (Signed) Mrs. H. F ——, El Dorado, Ark.

Lost 35 Pounds—New Way.

DETROIT, MICH., Mrs. T. H.—, —Dix Ave., writes: "I am more than pleased with Arbolone Tablets. I have taken other medicine, but never had any good results. I weighed 230 when I started to take Arbolone Tablets. I am down to 195 and expect to lose more. The tablets do not harm me in any way. Etc."

THE NEW FRIGIDAIRE

Prices so low . . . Terms so liberal that it actually pays for itself

A NEW THRIFT IDEA FOR CAREFUL BUYERS

IF YOU buy the New Frigidaire on a deferred payment plan...as most people do...the first payment need be no greater than the cost of a few ice books. Furthermore, your New Frigidaire will actually pay for itself as you pay for it. There will be no more ice to buy. No more wasted food due to spoilage. And since the New Frigidaire keeps food fresh and wholesome 4 to 5 times longer, you can safely buy in larger quantities. These combined savings are so great that the New Frigidaire will actually pay for itself.

And despite the remarkable improvements in the New Frigidaire, despite its incredibly quiet operation; its greater beauty and convenience, Frigidaire prices were never lower or General Motors terms more liberal. You should select your Frigidaire now. Waiting simply means that you are paying for a New Frigidaire without enjoying any of its benefits . . . paying for it without having it. So don't delay any longer. Write, phone, or call on us today. But don't put it off.

When women buy

When women buy, they look for conveniences. That's why domestic science authorities helped design the New Frigidaire. You'll find the inside of the cabinet made of seamless porcelain enamel with rounded corners . . . as easily cleaned as a china plate. Shelves are spaced to provide for tall containers. These shelves are removable for cleaning. And even the lowest one is at a convenient height from the floor. No stooping is necessary. The top of the cabinet can be used for extra shelf space. It's like having another table in the kitchen. These are but a few of the features that make the New Frigidaire so popular with women. Visit our display room and permit us to explain the others.

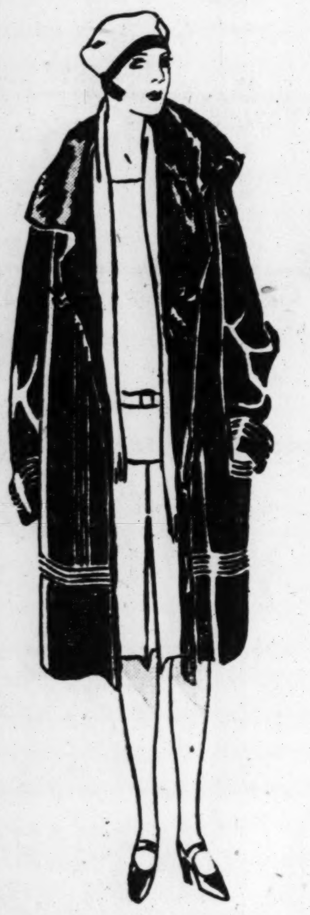
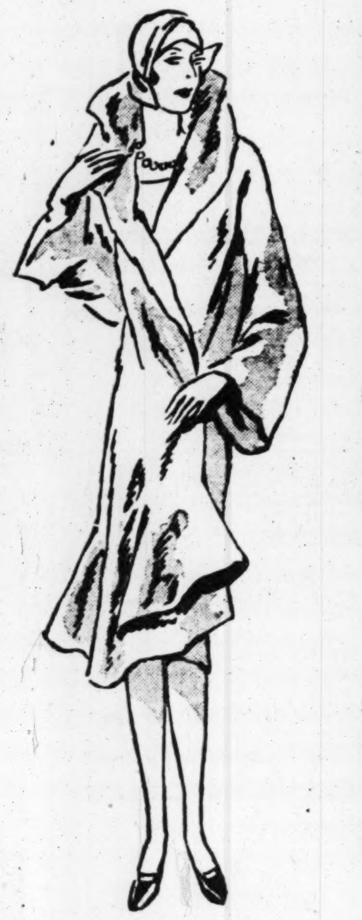
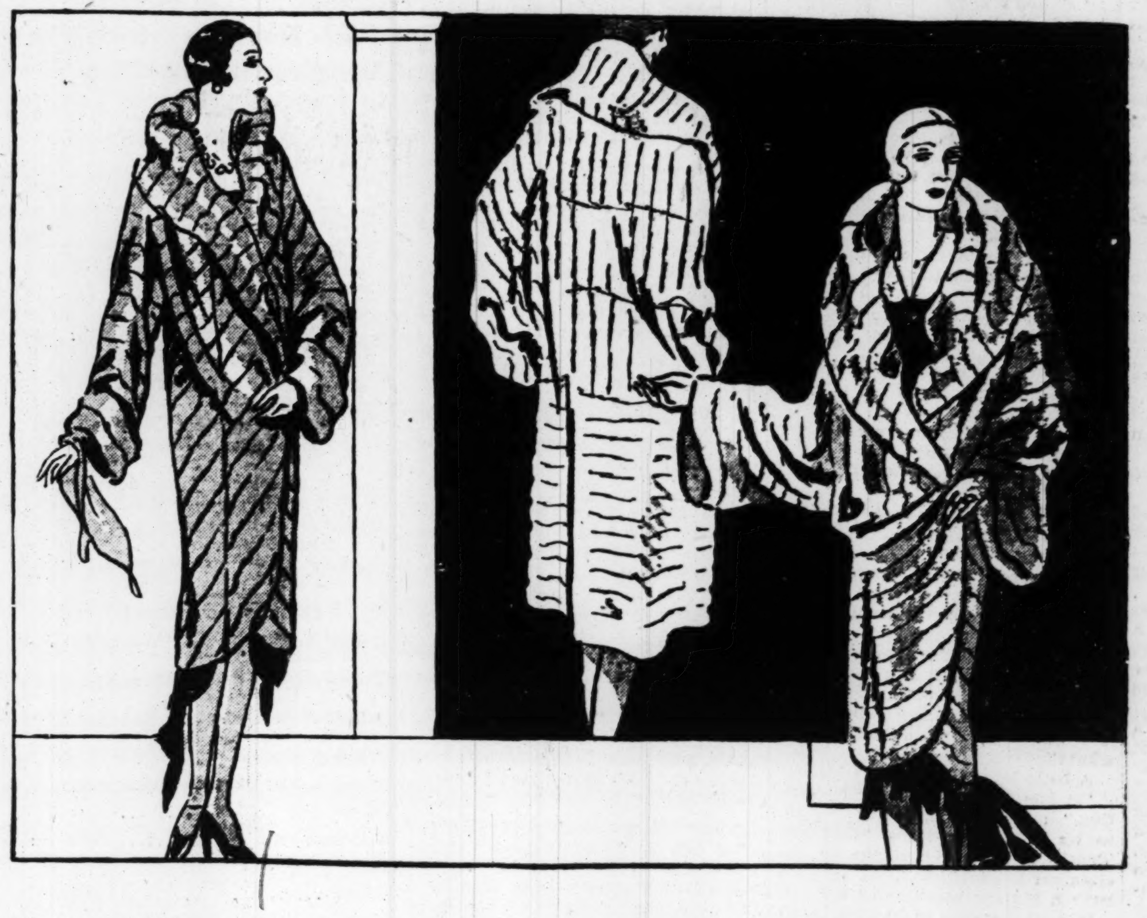
Fur Lines for Fall and Winter Will Show Distinct Silhouette



For motoring this coat is perfect. Made of navy-blue leather, trimmed with tucks, it is lined with dyed moleskin of the same color. A breast pocket on the right side and hip pocket on the left are very practical.



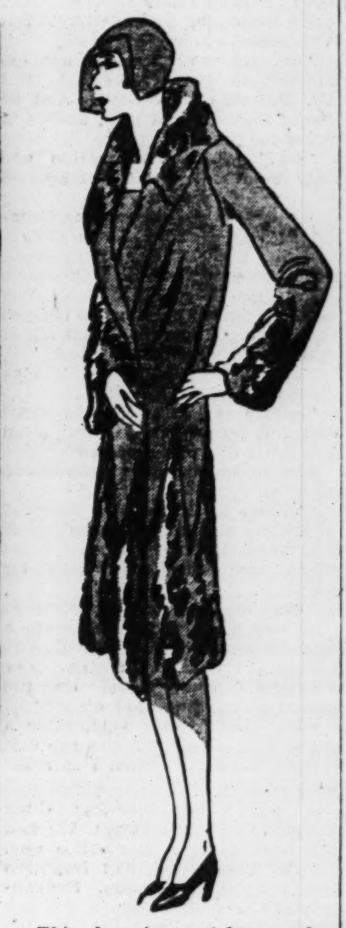
An amusing idea in this charming and graceful light gray Breitschwantz coat is the double flare inlaid in front. The upper part is adjusted to the figure and the upright collar makes a distinguished note.



Max creations are as striking as ever. This lovely coat is made of beige summer ermine with a diagonal movement in front. It has a large standup collar and wide cuffs.

This chic ermine wrap has a perfect line. The upper part is made of narrow bands, set in a checked effect. A large collar and loose sleeves add to its charm.

This sketch shows the front of the ermine coat. The narrow bands at the bottom slope in front and join the collar. The top is slightly bloused over the hips.



This charming coat has a redingote effect. The coarseness of the brown cloth is softened by shaved lamb to match, inlaid in long points. The sleeve and collar have the same trimming.

There Will Be Flounces Cut en Forme and Coats Will Be Long at the Back to Conform to the Dip Fashion in Dresses.

By MADAME LEROY
FOURRURES MAX.

PARIS.

IT makes one warm these days even to think about furs. But this is the moment when the wise woman makes her provision for the winter. When the cold weather sets in prices may have risen. So apart from having one thing less to think of when you are busy replenishing your wardrobe in the winter months, the fact that you have bought your furs in the autumn may be a very good business proposition.

Now a few words on the fashions in furs for the autumn and winter of 1928.

The line will show a distinct silhouette. That is to say, it will be carved in at the waist and spread in graceful fullness, without being heavy, at the hem.

There will be flounces cut en forme. These may be placed on the hips or in front, or they may be crossed. This movement gives a very graceful line and one that is most becoming as well as feminine in its allure.

Although this flounced and en forme movement will dominate, there will be great variety. The characteristic of present-day fashions is their individuality. The woman who wants a model that will make her stand out and give emphasis to her personality will find what she wants. A very attractive variation is the coat made on straight lines with the flounces forming a drapery. This gives a particularly slim effect, which is what most women desire, especially in fur garments, which are necessarily thicker than cloth wraps.

The back will show length. This is a result of the fashion in dresses which still show the trend to dip at the back. Sometimes it will be varied by wide pleats that are set very high like the Watteau pleat.

THESE different lines mean that the waistline will, of necessity, be placed a little higher. The effect of this will be a slim line molding the figure above the waist and plenty of fullness below.

The front of the coat, whether it be cut in a straight line or with pleats will always be cut sufficiently wide to allow it to wrap over considerably. Who has not felt the misery of a straight coat that opens at the knees when sitting down, and in which even a short drive results in the catching of an unnecessary cold? The basis of the principle for coats designed by Fourrures Max is that beauty, though essential, should not oust the sense of the practical, and nothing is more important in a winter wrap than sufficient fullness to assure perfect warmth in all circumstances.

A coat that appeals to many smart women is the shape that has become classic and known as the redingote. This has an en forme movement at the hem and is often made in cloth handsomely trimmed with fur.

We are using a certain amount of colored fur. This is a rich woman's fashion, for the fancy colored furs never quite replace those that have come to be known as "classic"; but they make a pleasant change for those who can afford to go in for a little fantasy in their wardrobe, and they are undoubtedly very smart.

Although the cape is certainly not quite such a practical winter garment as the coat, many women wish to possess one or two capes, especially for motoring in town, when they are so easily slipped over a tailored dress or an ensemble. We are making cloth capes trimmed with heavy flounces of fur and some entirely of fur; but the most fashionable wrap this winter will undoubtedly be the coat.

COLLARS are very high and sumptuous. They have reached such important proportions that they have made a small hat an absolute necessity. The Medici shape is one that will find great favor next season, while for traveling and sports coats the shawl collar that can be turned up and closed is always extremely practical. The full Pierrot collar of fox will be as popular as ever, and we will also see cloth coats with collars and trimming of mink and sable.

Sleeves follow the general line of the coats. A coat that spreads at the hem will have sleeves that are quite narrow at the shoulders and widen from elbow to wrist, or at the wrist alone. In the case of cloth coats these sleeves are usually handsomely trimmed with a garniture of fur. Very wide fur cuffs, almost taking the place of a muff, will continue to be fashionable, for here again the practical steps in. Many women prefer these wide cuffs because they prevent the risk of having cold hands, which is always dangerous in the winter months.

For actual fur wraps the classic furs will again be the most fashionable. As a fur wrap is looked upon rather as an investment than a garment to be changed with the caprice of each succeeding season, women prefer the costly furs that are always smart, knowing that to buy them is an economy in the end.

Very flat astrachan will be used, gray as well as black. There will be a great deal of mink, both for coats and capes. Beaver is a good practical fur and has the advantage of being very becoming. It will be used both for wraps and as a trimming for cloth coats. Ermine, seal and Hudson seal will also be popular favorites. Most women like a black fur coat as at least one item of their fur wardrobe and Hudson seal is always a safe choice. Ermine is delightful for evening wraps, is always becoming and looks extremely chic on all occasions. Chinchilla will certainly be smart, but its extreme costliness puts it, like sable, out of the reach of all but the very wealthy few.

SILVER fox and natural colored fox will be used for collars for fur coats and also sable or mink.

We shall once more see a great deal of breitschwantz. The effect of this fur is to give a very slim line, which makes it much appreciated by many smart women. It will be used also in shades of brown and beige as well as in the newer shade of gray in which it is used for one of the models illustrated on this page.

There will be a great many instances of two or three different types of fur used in the same garment. After all, nothing is handsomer than a fur wrap trimmed with fox or some other suitable fur. And incrustations of one fur on another are also extremely smart.

Where you get the advantage of a fur coat made by a great house is in the manner in which the skins are worked. The great fur designers always bear the general lines of fashion in mind when constructing their new coats.

It cannot be said too often that when buying furs it is a mistake to choose anything but the best. If you cannot afford the finest quality of mink, choose the best Hudson seal that is to be had. It will last twice as long as an inferior quality of mink and will give you satisfaction for years. You can have it remodeled time after time and always look smart.

That is why well-known fur houses only deal in the best furs. They do not care to waste their workmanship nor risk their reputation on an article that is second rate.

TEACH CHILDREN SPORTSMANSHIP

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne.

THE American Davis Cup team has recently suffered severe defeat at the hands of the French. But our national pride can bear it since the American players met their reverses gallantly. Defeat, though never welcome, is disgraceful only when it is taken in a poor spirit.

Good grace in adversity is a trait we all need to have in reserve. Like every other virtue it must be ingrained in the young child if it is to be an easy and natural response in the adult.

During his early years the child must learn to take without a feeling of being cruelly wronged such disappointments as the picnic that couldn't come off because of the rain, the balloon that burst in its prime, the candy forbidden for reasons of health. If he comes running home with a woeful tale about the boy who got all his marbles, he should be told in a quiet and detached manner that when he plays marbles he must make up his mind that he is likely to lose them—and if he can't lose cheerfully he had better not enter a game.

It is his mother's attitude at such moments which largely determines that of the child. She should discuss the incident in a kindly but matter of fact way, and immediately divert his attention to some happier preoccupation. Thus she fixes in him the habit of accepting the inevitably unpleasant without dwelling upon it and of speedily turning his interest into more satisfactory channels.

No amount of ingenuity in handling the child's defeats and frustrations, however, can counteract the bad effect of the spectacle of mother's obvious irritation when she loses a game of bridge or father's open exasperation at a flat tire. The child who sees his mother graciously lose a rubber or his father without fuss fix the tire has been taught more good sportsmanship that he could learn from any number of talks on the subject.

Haven't You Seen It?

How often have you seen a young woman, beautifully groomed and gowned, take out her face powder equipment and bring forth a very soiled powder puff and proceed to powder her nose? Warm soapy water would make that puff lovely and clean. And clear, soapy water to rinse with would make it retain its fluffiness.

Kerosene and a Newspaper.

Kerosene will remove grease and rust spots from the kitchen sink. Apply with a newspaper and avoid an oily cloth around the house.

Girl Gives Car Away After Failing in Test

WHAT'S the use of owning a new car if you can't drive? Might as well give it away, huh? Because this was the philosophy of one impulsive young woman, another, a Winsted, Conn., school teacher, is now driving to work daily.

The girl, whose name is withheld, failed three times to pass tests which would entitle her to a driving license. After the third failure, her disgust prompted a decision.

She stopped the car at the nearest house, and gave it to the girl who responded to her ring. It was the school teacher who had never been able to afford a car.

If you are without soap chips on washday, tie a whole cake of white soap in a clean cloth and put it in the boiler with the clothes. It will dissolve and prove as effective as the chips.

New Dresses for The School Girl
By MAE MARTIN

Thousands of mothers with daughters of high school or college age, have problems like this Little Rock, Arkansas, mother. She says: "I don't believe I could have put my daughter through the last two years of high school and college without the help of Diamond Dyes. Dresses long out of style and faded were made new with a package or so of Diamond Dyes and the addition of a few dozen buttons and a little braid. Sometimes two dresses were combined and brought up to date in lines that gave no hint of their past. People never knew they were redyed when I used Diamond Dyes. They never take the life out of cloth or make it limp. They always make things fresh, crisp and bright."

Diamond Dyes are true dyes, like those used when the cloth was made. Tinting with them is easy as bluing and dyeing only takes a little more time. Insist on Diamond Dyes and save disappointment. They never streak, spot or run.

My handsome new book, "Color Craft," will help you with your clothes and home furnishing problems. 64 pages of dollar-saving suggestions, fully illustrated in colors. It's FREE. Simply write Mae Martin, Home Service Dept., Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

The GREENE MURDER CASE

By S. S. Van Dyne

THE SHADOWY FIGURE
(Friday, Dec. 3; 6 p. m.)

WHILE Vance had been speaking, Heath had left the room. A few minutes later he returned and interrupted O'Brien in a long, ill-natured defense of his suicide theory.

"We haven't got to argue any more along that line," he announced. "I've just had Doc Doremus on the phone. He's finished the autopsy; and he says that the old lady's leg muscles had wasted away—gone plumb flabby—and that there wasn't a chance in the world of her moving her legs, let alone walking on 'em."

"Good God!" Moran was the first to recover from the amazement this news had caused us. "Who was it, then, that Ada saw in the hall?"

"That's just it!" Vance spoke hurriedly, trying to stem his rising sense of excitation. "If only we knew! That's the answer to the whole problem. It may not have been the murderer; but the person who sat in that library night after night and read strange books by candlelight is the key to everything. . . ."

But Ada was so positive in her identification," objected Markham, in a bewildered tone.

"She's hardly to be blamed in the circumstances," Vance returned. "The child had been through a frightful experience and was scarcely normal. And it is not at all unlikely that she, too, suspected her mother. If she did, what would have been more natural than for her to imagine that this shadowy figure she saw in the hall long after midnight was the actual object of her dread? It is not unusual for a person under the stress of fright to distort an object by the projection of a dominating mental image."

"You mean," said Heath, "that she saw somebody else, and imagined it was her mother because she was thinking so hard of the old woman?"

"It's by no means improbable."

"Still, there was that detail of the Oriental shawl," objected Markham. "Ada might easily have mistaken the person's features, but her insistence on having seen that particular shawl was fairly definite."

Vance gave a perplexed nod.

"The point is well taken. And it may prove the clew that will lead us out of this labyrinth. We must find out more about that shawl."

Heath had taken out his notebook and was turning the pages with scowling concentration.

"And don't forget, Mr. Vance," he said, without looking up, "about that diagram Ada found in the rear of the hall near the library door. Maybe this person in the shawl was the one who'd dropped it, and was going to the library to look for it, but got scared off when she saw Ada."

"But whoever shot Rex," said Markham, "evidently stole the paper from him, and therefore wouldn't be worrying about it."

"I guess that's right," Heath admitted reluctantly.

"Such speculation is futile," commented Vance. "This affair is too complicated to be untangled by the unravelling of details. We must determine, if possible, who it was that Ada saw that night. Then we'll have opened a main artery of inquiry."

"How are we going to find that out," demanded O'Brien, "when Ada was the only person who saw this woman in Mrs. Greene's shawl?"

"Your question contains the answer, Inspector. We must see Ada again and try to counteract the suggestion of her own fears. When we explain that it couldn't have been her mother, she may recall some other point that will put us on the right track."

And this was the course taken. O'Brien departed, and the rest of When the conference ended, us dined at the club. At half past eight we were on our way to the Greene mansion.

We found Ada and the cook alone in the drawing room. The girl sat before the fire, a copy of Grimm's "Fairy-Tales" turned face down on her knees; and Mrs. Mannheim, busy with a lapful of mending, occupied a straight chair near the door. It was a curious sight, in view of the formal correctness of the house, and it brought forcibly to my mind how fear and adversity inevitably level all social standards.

When we entered the room Mrs. Mannheim rose and, gathering up her mending, started to go. But Vance indicated that she was to remain, and without a word she resumed her seat.

"We're here to annoy you again, Ada," said Vance, assuming the role of interrogator. "But you're about the only person we can come to for help." His smile put the girl at ease, and he continued gently: "We want to talk to you about what you told us the other afternoon. . . ."

Her eyes opened wide, and she waited in a kind of awed silence.

"You told us you thought you had seen your mother——"

"I did see her—I did!"

Vance shook his head. "No, it was not your mother. She was unable to walk, Ada. She was truly and helplessly paralyzed. It was impossible for her even to make the slightest movement with either leg."

"But—I don't understand." There was more than bewilderment in her voice: there was terror and alarm such as one might experience at the thought of supernatural malignancy. "I heard Doctor Von tell mother he was bringing a specialist to see her this morning. But she died last night—so how could you know? Oh, you must be mistaken. I saw her—I know I saw her."

She seemed to be battling desperately for the preservation of her sanity. But Vance again shook his head.

"Dr. Oppenheimer did not examine your mother," he said. "But Dr. Doremus did—today. And he found that she had been unable to move for years."

"Oh!" The exclamation was only breathed. The girl seemed incapable of speech.

"And what we've come for," continued Vance, "is to ask you to recall that night, and see if you cannot remember something—some little thing—that will help us. You saw this person only by the flickering light of a match. You might easily have made a mistake."

"But how could I? I was so close to her."

"Before you woke up that night and felt hungry, had you been dreaming of your mother?"

She hesitated, and shuddered slightly.

"I don't know, but I've dreamed of mother constantly—awful, scary dreams—ever since that first night when somebody came into my room. . . ."

"That may account for the mistake you made." Vance paused a moment and then asked: "Do you distinctly remember seeing your mother's Oriental shawl on the person in the hall that night?"

"Oh, yes," she said, after a slight hesitation. "It was the first thing I noticed. Then I saw her face. . . ."

A trivial but startling thing happened at this moment. We had our back to Mrs. Mannheim and, for the time being, had forgotten her presence in the room. Suddenly what sounded like a dry sob broke from her, and the sewing basket on her knees fell to the floor. Instinctively we turned. The woman was staring at us glassily.

"What difference does it make who she saw?" she asked in a dead, monotonous voice. "She maybe saw me."

"Nonsense, Gertrude," Ada said quickly. "It wasn't you."

Vance was watching the woman with a puzzled expression.

"Do you ever wear Mrs. Greene's shawl, Frau Mannheim?"

"Of course she doesn't," Ada cut in.

"And do you ever steal into the library and read after the household is asleep?" pursued Vance.

The woman picked up her sewing morosely, and again lapsed into sullen silence. Vance studied her a moment and then turned back to Ada.

"Do you know of any one who might have been wearing your mother's shawl that night?"

"I—don't know," the girl stammered, her lips trembling.

"Come; that won't do." Vance spoke with some asperity. "This isn't the time to shield any one. Who was in the habit of using the shawl?"

"No one was in the habit. . . ." She stopped and gave Vance a pleading look; but he was obdurate.

"Who, then, besides your mother ever wore it?"

"But I would have known if it had been Sibella I saw——"

"Sibella? She sometimes borrowed the shawl?"

Ada noded reluctantly. "Once in a great while.

She—she admired the shawl. . . Oh, why do you make me tell you this."

"And you have never seen any one else with it on?"

"No; no one ever wore it except mother and Sibella."

Vance attempted to banish her obvious distress with a whimsical reassuring smile.

"Just see how foolish all your fears have been," he said lightly. "You probably saw your sister in the hall that night, and, because you'd been having bad dreams about your mother, you thought it was she. As a result, you became frightened, and locked yourself up and worried. It was rather silly, what?"

A little later we took our leave.

"It has always been my contention," remarked Inspector Moran, as we rode down-town, "that any identification under strain or excitement is worthless. And here we have a glaring instance of it."

"I'd like a nice quiet little chat with Sibella," mumbled Heath, busy with his own thoughts.

"It wouldn't comfort you, Sergeant," Vance told him. "At the end of your tete-a-tete you'd know only what the young lady wanted you to know."

"Where do we stand now?" asked Markham, after a silence.

"Exactly where we stood before," answered Vance dejectedly, "—in the midst of an impenetrable fog. —And I'm not in the least convinced," he added, "that it was Sibella whom Ada saw in the hall."

Markham looked amazed.

"Then who, in Heaven's name, was it?"

Vance sighed gloomingly. "Give me the answer to that one question, and I'll complete the saga."

That night Vance sat up until nearly two o'clock writing at his desk in the library.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope.

X. X.—Tucson, Arizona, dailies are the Arizona Star and the Citizen.

M. L. K.—The baseball game you describe is a tie and must be played off at a later date.

A. C. K.—Attendance at Browns and Yankees game, Sept. 15th, was 10,000; for the Cardinals and Philadelphia double-header, the same date, 12,000.

LIGHT DRINKER AND W. K.—Recipe for making grape juice was published last Aug. 5 and as it has been published a number of times you are asked to kindly buy a copy, or see it at the library.

E. R.—Address of the Women's National Democratic Club is (1923) 1526 New Hampshire avenue, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Rose Yates Forrester, secretary. If this should not prove up to date see your local Democratic clubs for later address.

J. L. N.—Glazed orange peel: One cup sugar, one-half cup water, one-half teaspoon cream tartar. Cook to a hard ball; add two cups orange peel which has been prepared. Let cool; then sprinkle with granulated sugar. If these are put in an airtight jar they will keep indefinitely. Preparation of orange peel for this kind of glazing is to cut the peel in long strips and soak in a mild salt water about 10 hours; then drain. Pour clear water over it and let boil about 15 minutes. Drain and pour water over it again until ready for glazing, then drain.

MACK.—The method of electing the President, including all you ask about electors, was published in this column Sept. 19. A few clippings may be distributed while they last; send your address on stamped envelope. The edition may also be bought from the Circulation Department, or read at the Public Library, 1301 Olive street.

MRS. A. J. M.—Write the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for bulletin 745F on bedbug riddance. Paint the bed frame with benzine (inflammable), which contains a little oil of mirbane, or use an emulsion made of one-half gallon of kerosene, an ounce of pennyroyal oil and a quart of turpentine. Use it in all cracks and crevices. If a mattress is infested, spray thoroughly with either of the above, or burn the mattress. If other furniture or the house is contaminated you will need all the information in the above bulletin.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

LOUISE.—You can keep your own wages.

H. S.—You will have to continue to support the child even though your divorced wife has re-married.

DISGUSTED.—Report the facts to the Prohibition Enforcement Agent, 214 Federal Building, 815 Olive street. CHestnut 6020 is the telephone address.

MRS. H. H. K.—Probably the cemetery permission would be necessary for moving the body from the lot. Inquire of the cemetery officials.

A READER.—Consult a lawyer. You may be able to establish a common-law marriage prior to [illegible]. The answer refers to question by writer who gives age as [illegible]

BROWN DERBY.—There is no law against what you ask about, a Republican election judge voting for the Democratic presidential candidate, and voting the rest of the ballot Republican. (b) No.

MRS. M. P. B.—To collect the debt you ask about you can sue the debtor in a Justice of the Peace's court, and after getting judgment can garnish 10 per cent of his wages. If the amount involved is very much you should consult a lawyer.

BETTY.—If a fence is on your property it is your fence no matter which side the house is on. You cannot be forced to put up a new fence. The medical question you ask has been referred to that department for answer.

J. H.—If the attorney obtained the money from you through fraud, you can sue him and recover the money. Report the facts to the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association, care of Mr. Clarence F. Wescoat, Liberty Central Trust Building.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

TOO FAT.—Pickles, like other articles of diet, are wholesome when used in moderation, and do not tend to produce emaciation.

ANON.—You may find massage more effective than any particular exercise for reducing the [illegible]. Massage with the following pomade for 10 or 15 minutes: Extract of rhatany, one dram; benzoated lard, 30 drams; mix into pomade. After massage bathe the parts with the following: [illegible] acid, one drachm; tincture of benzoin, one drachm; rose water, [illegible] drachms; mix, shake, and apply as lotion.

WOUNDS.—Each of the local antiseptics mentioned has merit, but just which particular one is best would depend upon the nature of the trouble for which it is to be used. By a sharp cut is meant such a cut as made by a sharp instrument, leaving a clean edge, while a rough cut would be such as made by a blunt instrument, with ragged edge. A bruise results from the subcutaneous rupture of blood vessels with the effusion and deposit of blood in the surrounding tissue.

J. R. A.—Licen palus is presumably of neurotic origin, is not contagious, and usually is associated with general debility. Treatment to be successful must therefore be both local and general. Locally the following is often serviceable: Dilute hydrochloric acid, one-half dram; distilled water, six ounces; mix, shake and apply night and morning. Internally a tonic, such as Hemaboloids, Arseniated, two teaspoonfuls in a wineglass of water three times daily after meals, is recommended. Any and all things to raise the standard of health are advised, such as exercise, avoidance of constipation, regular hours, plenty of sleep.

Testing Defective Receiver.

When in doubt about trouble in the receiver, take it to the home of a friend and try it on his antenna. If the results are the same it indicates trouble in the set; if not, install a new ground and try an entirely new antenna, pointing, if possible, in a different direction from the old one.
